America Asks JapanExplain Mistreatment Of 2 Citizens

Soldier, Woman File Complaints

Sterner Message Likely if Reply Is Not Held Satisfactory.

By the United Press.

The American Embassy in Peiping has asked the Japanese Mission here to explain the mistreatment of United States citizens during a recent parade of Emperor Hirohita's troops in his honor, the State Department announced last night.

Although it was not technically a "diplomatic protest," the embassy's memorandum may be followed by a mandatory note if the softer tones of the first message do not yield a satisfactory answer, it was indicated.

The embassy's representations were based upon the action of Japanese soldiers in roughly treating a member of the U. S. Embassy staff, Capt. H. S. Jernigan, and an unidentified American woman during Japanese military exercises in Peiping a few days ago. (The State Department declined to make public the woman's name.)

Thus far the embassy has presented to the Japanese only a memorandum of the complaints made by the two American citizens. The action taken thereafter, it was said, will depend entirely on the satisfaction given by the Japanese reply.

Roughly Treated.

The State Department's communique said:

"The American Embassy at Peiping reported to the Department of State that an officer of the embassy called at the Japanese Embassy and handed to the first secretary copies of memoranda prepared by two American citizens who were roughly treated by Japanese military on June 23, on which day about 1,500 Japanese soldiers were in Peiping for the purpose of participating in the ceremony of presentation to the local regiment of a regimental flag from the Japanese Emperor.

"Capt. H. S. Jernigan, attached to the office of the military attache, stated in his memorandum that when he was standing in civilian clothes in Hatamen street (not on the sidewalk) he was pushed in the stomach by the bayonet of a Japanese soldier who was a sentry during the presentation ceremony which took place on the Glacis.

Woman Threatened.

"An American woman stated in her memorandum that a Japanese soldier or officer in uniform threatened her several times with his saber when she refused to obey his order to get off the sidewalk of Legation street near the Wagonslits Hotel until she had reached the point where her rickshaw was standing.

"A third memorandum was also delivered with regard to the entry on the morning of June 21 of about 20 Japanese soldiers into property of the American Embassy at Sankwanmiao. The embassy reports that these soldiers who were on their way to or from the railway station were doubtless not familiar with the district.

"The Japanese secretary stated that he would forward these memoranda immediately to the commandant of the Japanese guard and would reply subsequently."

'Spy Plot' Trail Sped.

Los Angeles, June 25 (AP).—Government prosecutors of a Navy "spy plot" moved swiftly tonight toward immediate trial for a discharged Navy yeoman accused of selling United States naval secrets to an agent of Japan.

"We are ready to proceed to trial immediately," declared Clyde Thomas, deputy United States district attorney. "We expect the trial to be under way in a week."

Arraignment of Harry Thomas Thompson, indicted former yeoman, first class, in the U. S. Navy, has been set for Monday. Federal agents have not located his co-de-

Chamberlin Is Wed To Airline Hostess

Fort Fairfield, Me. (Friday), June 26. (U.P.).—Clarence D. Chamberlin, Trans-Atlantic flier, and Miss Louise Ashby, hostess on his Texas airlines, were married at the bride's home here early today.

The couple had obtained a five-day waiver of the Maine marriage law after having been unable to obtain a similar waiver in Canada, where they originally intended to wed.

"We couldn't wait the five days," the 42-year-old Iowa-born pilot explained, "because I have to be in St. Louis Saturday noon for a conference in connection with my planned non-stop flight to Paris late in July."

Poland Orders PaymentHalted On Bonds Here

Fiscal Aids Cite Warsaw Crisis; Three Issues on Exchange Affected.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—Financial representatives of the Polish government today informed fiscal agents of the Polish external loans that transfers of service amounts have been temporarily suspended due to acute financial conditions in that country.

A statement issued through the Polish Telegraph Agency announcing the suspension said:

"A special delegation of the Polish government, which arrived in the United States a few days ago, informed the fiscal agents of the Polish external loans that to the regret of the Polish government in consequence of generally well-known restrictions in the foreign trade exercised by all countries, including the creditor countries, the surplus of the trade balance of Poland has been lowered to an insignificant figure. In consequence, the reserves of the Bank of Poland dropped to $70,000,000.

Lists Three Measures.

"In these circumstances the Polish government was compelled to declare that:

"(1) For the time being payments due under the loan agreements shall be made by means of effective deposits in zlotys to the credit of the blocked account of the fiscal agents in the Bank of Poland.

"(2) Transfers of service amounts are temporarily suspended.

"(3) It desires that the conversations about the situation herewith created be resumed at a convenient moment."

There are three issues of bonds affected by the suspension listed on the New York Stock Exchange. They are the government sinking fund 8s of 1950 outstanding in the amount of $35,000,000; the sinking fund gold stabilization 7s of 1947, outstanding in the sum of $22,630,000, and the 6s of 1940, outstanding in the amount of $19,574,500. The loans were floated between 1920 and 1927.

Under Severe Pressure.

All three issues have been under severe pressure for several weeks, or since the Polish government adopted drastic foreign exchange restrictions. In today's dealings declines ranged from $27.50 to $50 per $1,000 bond.

The official announcement of the financial representatives of the government more or less confirmed earlier reports in Wall Street that some such action was in the offing. News dispatches from Warsaw early today stating that reports had circulated in financial quarters in that city that the government would suspend service on certain foreign loans received prominent display in investment quarters.

Child Labor Proposal Spurned by Louisiana

Baton Rouge, La., June 25 (AP).—The Louisiana Legislature today refused for the third time to ratify the proposed child labor amendment to the National Constitution.

A total of 24 States have ratified the amendment, 12 short of the necessary 36. Louisiana rejected it in 1924 and 1934.

League to Act Today on End Of Sanctions

Diplomats to Seek New Paths to Collective Security.

7 Neutrals Vote to Drop Curbs Against Italy; Selassie En Route.

By the Associated Press.

Geneva, June 25.—The League of Nations, which seven months ago in an atmosphere of crusading zeal clapped sanctions upon Italy, begins tomorrow the embarrassing task of lifting those measures.

Seven neutral powers, including Norway, Sweden, Finland, Switzerland, Denmark, The Netherlands and Spain, tonight voted to lift sanctions against Italy, the United Press reported. Their decision made it almost certain that the economic and financial penalties imposed against Italy for aggression on Ethiopia last October will be lifted. Great Britain and France are leading the campaign to abolish sanctions which they call "dangerous and futile." Belgium also joined the anti-sanctionist movement and Russia is expected to follow.

Authoritative sources said that the fugitive Emperor Haile Selassie, en route here from London to plead his own case, will be given a confidential report, or "plot," which if carried out will end Ethiopia's membership in the League in September. The "plot" consists of a tentative plan to reaffirm the doctrine of non-recognition of territory gained by conquest and to appoint a committee to study the "special case" of Ethiopia in the light of this doctrine.

Report in September.

If the scheme is carried out, the committee would report to the Assembly in September that the Ethiopian problem is not analagous to Manchukuo because the Ethiopian state, unlike China, ceased to exist. Therefore, it was said, the committee would recommend that the name of Ethiopia be removed from the League's roster, thus permitting Italy to resume her seat.—Editor's note.]

Because of the failure of the economic penalties, applied for the first time in League history, to stop Italy's "war of aggression," diplomats will seek new paths to collective security.

The fact that Haile Selassie, emperor without an empire, was en route to Geneva from London only deepened the gloom in corridors of the League's massive new palace.

A few hours before the League Council meets at 5 p. m. tomorrow the "King of Kings" will arrive to take quarters in a hotel with an excellent view of the $10,000,000 League home.

Ethiopia's delegation said the Negus would "protest with vigor before the League against the raising of sanctions and will ask, on the other hand, for the application of all measures provided in the Covenant."

Another vital problem on the Council's agenda is the Locarno crisis, precipitated by Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland and denunciation of the Locarno Treaty.

Conference Recesses.

Montreux, Switzerland, June 25 (AP).—The Dardanelles conference recessed today in the midst of a critical clash between Soviet Russia on the one hand and Great Britain and Japan on the other.

Russia's demand for complete freedom of passage through the straits for her warships was the issue.

The international parley, called to consider Turkey's request that she be allowed to refortify the Dardanelles, recessed to give the League of Nations a chance to retackle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

The fate of the Montreux conference may depend upon how the League handles Italy. If Premier Mussolini is angered anew, he may continue to boycott the sessions here.

Turkey let it be known that because of the disturbed state of Europe, she wants to build fortresses and place big guns in the Dardanelles as soon as the Montreux convention is signed, without waiting for its ratification.

Ratification Is Urged.

Japan, however, insisted the convention cannot be operative until it is ratified by all. Discussion was postponed.

Russia desires freedom of pas-

Philadelphia, June 25.—Revocation of the 104-year-old rule that nominees for President and Vice President must have the votes of two-thirds of the delegates was jammed through the Democratic National Convention here tonight.

Following adoption of the abrogation plan by the rules committee, after two days of bickering, it was reported to the convention by Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, chairman of the committee, and put to an immediate vote. There was no debate. As the vote was taken there were many shouted "noes," but Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, convention chairman, banged his gavel and announced "the ayes have it." There were a few futile shouts of "no" and the convention proceeded to other business.

As adopted, the change in rules carried a compromise provision intended to appease opponents of the new nominating system. Southern delegates, who had been fighting the proposal, agreed to it on the basis of the compromise.

Under the plan finally adopted, the two-thirds rule, which has governed Democratic conventions since 1832, will be abandoned immediately, permitting nominations by majorities. In addition, the Democratic National Committee was instructed to recommend a representation plan for adoption at the 1940 convention, taking into consideration the Democratic votes of the States.

Thus, under the new arrangement, the 1940 convention will have representation similar to that existing in the present meeting, but will not be bound by the two-thirds rule.

Report Is Delayed.

The controversy over the two-thirds rule, which has been going on since the opening of the convention, caused another upset in the meeting program this morning, when it was announced the rules committee was not ready to report. The morning session was a drab affair.

The only business transacted was adoption of the report of the credentials committee, which revealed that the Minnesota contest had been settled on the basis proposed by the national committee. Both the State's delegations were seated, with a half vote for each delegate. John Ericson, of Duluth, was named national committeeman to succeed Joseph Wolf. Acceptance of this report averted the first prospective fight in the convention and the rules compromise prevented the second.

The following resolution, prepared by a sub-committee of the rules committee and later adopted by the entire committee, accompanied the resolution providing for abrogation of the two-thirds rule:

"Be it resolved that the Demo-

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—For six hours tonight nearly 1,000,000 people turned a lovely midsummer's eve into a Roman holiday, rioting, fighting, filling jails and hospitals with the injured and the belligerent and bellowing their delight to the skies along a three-mile parade route.

It was the greatest crowd in the Quaker City's history. They saw the greatest parade in the history of their Mummers' organization—a parade so magnificent, so glittering and breath-taking that the Governors of nearly a score of States here admitted they had never seen anything like it.

But the crowd was the story of the night. Some of them had been along the route since noon, bringing box lunches and bushel baskets to sit on. They jammed the sidewalks until progress on Broad street, from Porter street north to the huge old City Hall, was impossible, and then lined 20 and 30 deep along the wide and lovely parkway for several miles to the $45,000,000 brown granite Art Museum.

They overran the police lines from 6:30 p. m. on, tossing the police aside at intervals like straw men, in order to file up the street and look for the parade.

Parade Lost 2 Hours.

Thus the parade was lost in the streets for more than two hours.

Three grandstands built along the route crashed and sent scores to hospitals to lie in beds besides scores injured in traffic. One man's leg was broken in the most serious injury.

Hundreds were arrested in fights with the police, who worked good-naturedly for hours, and then grew "tougher" when they were unable to cope with the crowd. They worked on the masses with rifle-butts and clubs, and the mounted troopers rode their horses into the surging mob like Cossacks. Many women and children, caught on the crowd-front and unable to dodge, were injured slightly. Hundreds of women and men fainted and were hauled off to improvised hospital tents along the route.

The ambulances were unable to get through to many of those who fainted, and some women lay ill in the streets for hours. The "black Marias" were likewise unable to get through, and many policemen released their prisoners after waiting in vain for one of the 50 "rollers" to reach them in order to go back and aid the five varieties of Philadelphia law officers with the crowd.

Police Lost in Crowd.

The 4,200 police were completely lost when the vast mob decided to move. Many went down every few minutes, particularly along the parkway at the foot of the tall, weather-greened Washington-on-Horse Monument here in front of the museum.

There the parade's reviewing stand was set up, and it was there that Mayor S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, told a few reporters:

"There should have been at least 1,000 more police here. These certainly are terrible police arrange-

Women Democrats Are Called Real Threat in Coming Battle

By Agnes E. Meyer.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—Nothing is more interesting at the Democratic convention than the opportunity which it affords for a thorough analysis of the attitude of the woman voter toward the President.

The Republican Party would do well to give serious study to the almost Messianic role which Franklin Roosevelt has succeeded in building up for himself in the feminine mind, for it is evident throughout the country, and the "America Speaks" poll substantiates this observation, that the majority of women are Roosevelt adherents at the present time and that his wife has played an important part in capturing the imagination of the American women.

This feminist Democratic bloc falls into three distinct groups whose psychology is very distinct very modern and very fanatical in at least two of these divisions. The first group, numerically speaking, is composed of the uncritical mass which has been generally persuaded, largely through the President's own conviction on the subject and his uncanny gift for conveying to the public the picture which he has of himself, that Roosevelt is literally the first great national leader whose heart bleeds often and profusely over the woes of the common man and the injustices of our economic structure.

Illustrated by Incident.

Their attitude is illustrated by an incident which happened this morning in the hotel lobby as I waited for the elevator. A number of Missouri delegates was prophesying an overwhelming victory in their State for the Democratic ticket in November. Out of curiosity I challenged them by asking:

"Why are you so enthusiastic about Mr. Roosevelt? What has he ever done to convince you of the celebrated 'good intentions?'"

For a moment there was silence. Then a good-natured looking, buxom blonde volunteered brightly:

"Oh, what does that matter? All you have to do is look at him."

The Missouri women are, obviously, no longer from Missouri, as far as our charming President is concerned.

The second group, not large in number, but important because of its influence on other women, consists of the social workers who went over to the Democratic Party at

Philadelphia, June 25.—Although its resolutions committee refused to include a plank promising the right of suffrage to the residents of the District of Columbia, the Democratic convention, by resolution tonight, called on Congress to name a committee to make a study of this subject.

The resolution was offered by George Marshall, one of the District delegates, on behalf of the delegatriet. It was adopted by a viva voce vote, without a word of dissent.

The resolution adopted reads as follows:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of this convention that a committee should be appointed by the Congress of the United States to make a study and report on granting to the residents of the District of Columbia the right of suffrage."

This action by the convention was inspired and maneuvered to a successful conclusion by District Commissioner George Allen, who asserted when the delegation's plank was rejected by the resolutions committee that he had not abandoned the fight. This resolution was his first move in carrying the fight on.

The action of the convention in requesting Congress to make a study of the question of suffrage for the District of Columbia was an unusual action. None could remember when a Democratic—or a Republican convention for that matter—addressed such a request to Congress to take similar action.

The resolution is not binding on Congress. Nevertheless, it should Convention Developments.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Adopting the party platform and abrogating the two-thirds rule tonight, the Democratic National Convention prepared the way for renomination tomorrow of President Roosevelt at sessions expected to be tumultuous.

It was a hectic night in Philadelphia.

Tremendous crowds that swept away all police lines in the huge Mardi Gras spectacle delayed the Mummers parade for two hours; many persons were slightly hurt when several of the spectators' stands collapsed under the throngs, and ambulances were unable to reach these victims and many women who fainted in the crush.

In the convention hall a disturbance occurred when some 30 young men suddenly displayed "We Want Al Smith" signs in the gallery and police and spectators fought to destroy the signs and arrest the demonstrators.

Platform Adopted.

By Robert C. Albright.

A Staff Correspondent.

Philadelphia, June 25.—In a terse class appeal to "the people themselves," assailing the "dictatorship of the privileged few" and pledging continuance of New Deal liberalism, the Democratic National Convention tonight adopted a platform brimming over with pride in performance.

The 2,400-word platform, lengthened and modified slightly by last-minute changes, was approved by the convention just two hours after the Democratic resolutions committee, after two days and one night of deliberation, had stamped its unanimous approval on the party's campaign watchword.

It pledged the party to a "democracy of opportunity," it challenged the Republican record and platform, it struck again at the courts and it promised a Constitutional amendment, if necessary, to assure both State and Federal governments jurisdiction in the fields of commerce regulation, protection of public health and safety, and safeguarding of economic security.

Yet it declared for maintenance of "the letter and spirit of the Constitution," asked for perpetuation of a "democratic government as conceived by the founders of our Nation" and hit at communism on the one hand and fascism on the other.

Adheres to Original.

Despite an all-night session of ostensible platform drafting by a special sub-committee of 12 and nearly five hours of review by the full resolutions committee, the platform was said to be largely that which Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, resolutions chairman, had talked over with the President before coming to Philadelphia.

The only slight divergence came in the full committee session, when conservatives forced out of the Constitution plank an assertion of Federal authority in the so-called "no man's land" between Federal and State powers, and revised a rural electrification plank to avoid implication that private power enterprise is to be stamped out. Midwestern liberals, on the other hand, succeeded in boadening the farm plank to provide for production control, refinancing of farm indebtedness and commodity loans. Crop insurance was left out.

The party's money plank studiously avoided references to either gold or silver, but pledged a "sound currency," stabilized to prevent

U. S. Officer's Son, Egyptian Princess Marry in Istanbul

How his son found the royal road to romance in the Near East, and won for his bride an Egyptian Princess of the blood, Her Highness Enineh Rukiye Halim, relative of the late King Fuad, was revealed yesterday by Col. J. A. Crane, commanding the Sixteenth Field Artillery at Fort Myer, Va.

Col. Crane has just returned to the United States after serving four years as the military attache in Turkey. He said his son, Alden McKim, 26, a free-lance writer, met his bride while visiting his parents in Istanbul.

Immediately the young man and the princess, described as a vivacious brunette, were attracted by their love of the out of doors. Both were enthusiastic horse people, and spent much time at the Jockey Club in the Turkish capital.

Princess Enineh and Crane were married in Istanbul June 8, two days after Col. and Mrs. Crane sailed for the United States. They are now honeymooning in northern Europe, and probably will not return to the United States for some months.

Crane was born in the Philippines. He attended St. James Preparatory School, near Hagerstown, Md., and the University of Virginia. His writing concerns horses and the turf and sports in general.

The bride is the daughter of Princess Rukiye Halim, who was a first cousin of King Fuad, and her family originated in Macedonia. She also, is 26 years old.

"We are very happy about it," said Col. and Mrs. Crane last night. "And we are very glad to be back at Fort Myer."

Wrestler Dies in Stadium Bout; Inquiry Called as Rival Is Held

By Bill McCormick.

Mike Romano, veteran wrestler, died on the mat before 5,000 people at Griffith Stadium last night.

The 40-year-old native of Trieste, Italy, was being counted out by Referee Cyclone Burns after 13½ minutes of a match with Jack Donovan, of Boston, when he became unconscious.

Physicians and ringsides officials made frantic efforts to revive him in the ring as the crowd, always doubtful of happenings in the grappling game, remained skeptically indifferent to his plight.

The stricken athlete finally was removed from the squared circle on a stretcher. In back of the stands, away from the gaze of the crowd, Dr. H. N. Roberts and L. Calfee, a chiropractor, said Romano gave no indications of life.

Romano was removed in a police patrol to Freedmen's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival. A doctor at the hospital ascribed the death to a broken neck. Two physicians who examined him at the ball park gave it as their unofficial opinion that death was due to heart disease.

An inquest will be held at noon today to determine the cause of death.

Donovan, Romano's opponent in the fatal bout, is in the custody of Detective Sergt. Walter Beck. He is being held pending action by the coroner's jury. The jury probably will meet tomorrow to decide whether charges are to be brought against Donovan.

The bout, which had been scheduled to one-fall or a 30-minute time limit, had been remarkably clean and devoid of rough tactics throughout. There were not more than a half-dozen "slams" in the entire 13½ minutes the contest lasted.

There had been no "wide-open"

The Smith demonstration evidently was carefully planned by a group of young men who took over one section of the gallery to the right of the stage and high above the heads of the delegates.

Apparently there were no police in that section of the gallery at the time. It was several minutes before they arrived. By that time the banners had been torn down and fighting with fists and canes was spreading.

A group of policemen finally rushed the fighters, struggling with some of them and finally rushing them from the hall.

The delegates were in the midst of a demonstration brought about by a speaker for the Young Democrats of America. It was some time before many on the floor saw the Smith banners.

Then, one by one, the delegates noticed them, calling them to the attention of others. The business of the convention stopped entirely. For a few minutes the delegates stood silently, looking upward as the Smith advocates as silently held their banners.

Then the delegates broke into hissing and booing. Photographers rushed from the floor to the high gallery to take pictures. Almost as quickly others in the audience and from the floor ran to the gallery tearing the banners from the hands of those who held them.

As 12,000 people watched, cheering and hissing, fists flew. Soon walking sticks, sold to spectators as souvenirs, were being used as weap-

Mack to Nominate Roosevelt Today

Philadelphia, June 25.—Tomorrow is the big day of the Democratic convention, the day set aside for the nomination of the party's candidate for the Presidency.

The preliminaries have been completed in the three days ending tonight. The convention is organized, the rules have been adopted and the platform drafted and approved.

At the noon session tomorrow John E. Mack, of New York, again will place Franklin D. Roosevelt in nomination as the Presidential candidate. There will be a score of seconding speeches and, according to present plans, the actual nomination will be effected at the session tomorrow night. A tremendous demonstration by the delegates is in[illegible] when that action takes pl[illegible]. Garner will be re-[illegible]day for the Vice Presidency, and he and President Roosevelt personally will accept the nominations Saturday night.

Norris Confers With Roosevelt For Two Hours

By the Associated Press.

An Independent Republican and a participant in the Philadelphia Democratic National Convention yesterday brought to President Roosevelt personal accounts of developments in their respective political spheres.

Mr. Roosevelt conferred two hours with Senator Norris, Independent Republican, of Nebraska. Shortly before Norris sat down for his conference, the President talked with Robert W. Bingham, Ambassador to Great Britain, in this country to attend the Democratic convention.

Bingham, who returned to Philadelphia immediately, said his talk with Mr. Roosevelt included "matters political."

Norris, who supported the candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt in 1932, said as he emerged from the White House that it mattered little to him what sort of platform the Democrats adopted at Philadelphia.

"Roosevelt is the platform," he said, "and I'm for Roosevelt."

Norris declared his readiness to take the stump this year for the President. Norris expressed his hope that others of political views in accord with him would call a conference in the near future to outline their course of action.

The Senator predicted Roosevelt would carry Nebraska in November, adding that by thus turning prophet he was breaking a rule adhered to through his long political career.

"As for Kansas," he said, "I don't know."

President Roosevelt spent the morning signing 61 bills and putting into final shape the acceptance speech he will deliver in Philadelphia Saturday night. White House attaches estimated it would be less than 2,000 words in length.

The White House made arrangements for the President to leave Washington late tomorrow afternoon, planning his arrival at Franklin Field in Philadelphia only 10 minutes before time for Vice President Garner to speak. The President will follow Garner on the platform, accepting the renomination and immediately afterwards will leave for Hyde Park.

Foreign affairs were discussed by the President during the day with R. Walton Moore, Assistant Secretary of State; Harry Norweb, the new American Minister to Bolivia, and Bingham.

Leftists to Oppose March in Mexico

Valentin S. Campo, the Communist Party's acting secretary general, termed the Gold Shirts "trouble makers" and appealed to labor to help "frustrate" their march. He called upon the authorities to enforce President Lazaro Cardenas' recent decree ordering the Gold Shirts dissolved.

Vociferous objection to the march came also from the Mexican Popular Front, another left-wing group, which described the Gold Shirts as "reactionaries, enemies of President Cardenas and of labor."

In announcing the proposed march yesterday, Gen. Rodriguez, founder and leader of the rightist organization, said one purpose would be to offer President Cardenas its support.

School Official Indicted In Whipping of Boy, 14

Nashville, Tenn., June 25 (AP).—Lester B. Tomlin, assistant superintendent at the State Training and Agricultural School for boys, was indicted today for the alleged whipping of Ted Phillips, 14, an inmate. The specific charge was making an assault.

Following the grand jury report, Judge Chester K. Hart ordered an investigation of conditions at the school, with special reference to treatment of inmates by guards.

"If conditions complained of do not exist at the institution," Judge Hart said, "then the officials should be exonerated."

Judge Hart asked that certain guards, whose names had been furnished him by inmates of the school be summoned for questioning.

Salesman Is Robbed Of $35,000 Jewelry

Chicago, June 25 (AP).—Irving Goodman, a salesman for an Indianapolis jewelry firm, told the police today he was robbed of $35,000 in jewelry and unset diamonds by three men in an automobile on the West Side.

He said the robbers drew up alongside his car as he stopped for a traffic signal and, brandishing pistols, forced him to hand over his salesman's cases. The men then sped away, he said.

Goodman said he was accompanied by a fellow salesman, Jerome Wexler, of Indianapolis. The jewelry company, he said, was owned by his father, Jacob Goodman.

World Police Elect Inspector Thompson

Inspector Bernard W. Thompson, assistant superintendent of Metropolitan Police and chief of the Detective Bureau, was elected yesterday to membership in the International Association of Chiefs of Police, according to word from Wilmington, Del., headquarters of the organization.

Thompson recently was appointed detective chief to succeed Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, retired. The chiefs' association has as its primary function the advancement of standards in police administration through co-operation of officials.

Politics and People

By Franklyn Waltman.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Many of us thought that the Republican Convention in Cleveland was a strange political meeting. But this Democratic gathering is stranger still. There is about it all a lack of realism which is difficult to fathom.

WALTMAN.

Here are approximately 2,500 delegates and alternates, average American men and women—the kind of men and women you meet in any city or town of the country. Some are rich, some are poor. Some have cultivated backgrounds; others are just lowbrows.

Conversations with delegates from various States indicate that at least a majority of these delegates and alternates do not have abiding faith in the New Deal. Over the luncheon table or in the bar they will tell you they think President Roosevelt did a masterful job in whipping the economic crisis and restoring hope to the country—that during the early months of his Administration he rendered a service which compels his countrymen to think well of him.

But after the second or third scotch and soda, all but a few candidly explain that they have no faith in the President's economic and social theories—some believe he has a philosophy, but others doubt that Mr. Roosevelt is doing more than trying to harmonize his views with popular sentiment. The more enlightened express alarm at his march toward a collective government, his "coddling," as one put it, of those on relief, and his indifference to fiscal stability.

But while stating their objections to the New Deal, these Democrats hasten to tell you that they are for Mr. Roosevelt, chiefly, it seems, because he is labeled a Democrat and among these folks party regularity is something sacred.

* * *

But more amazing is the way these men and women perform on the convention floor, entertaining such views as they do. Let a speaker mention the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the convention arises and goes off into intense hurrahs and piercing yells.

Yet there is something very mechanical about these demonstrations. When Permanent Chairman Joe Robinson last night was delivering his speech—an address directed at such fundamental issues in this campaign as the budget, the Supreme Court and the Constitution—at least one-third of the delegates, if not one-half of them, fidgeted restlessly in their seats, got up and walked about, read newspapers or conversed with friends.

At one period during the address the center aisles were clogged with men and women, either on their way to or returning from the refreshment booths in the corridors and basement of the convention hall.

Yet serious-faced young men and women—the real adherents of the New Deal, it seems—were on guard to start the applause at some striking remark, at an attack on the Supreme Court or a reference to the kindly humanitarian intentions of the President. And all joined in, even though many apparently did not know what they were applauding, only to slip back into their lethargy a minute or two later.

Seldom has there been anything really spontaneous about the noisiest and most prolonged demonstrations. They are deliberately planned in advance. As an illustration, Joe Robinson was given a hearty reception last night when he mounted the platform to deliver his address.

But preparations for that demonstration were in progress an hour before it took place. The Arkansas delegation had banners ready, a large band waited patiently for the signal to start playing and parading. Word was passed out to give Robinson an ovation. Everybody joined in because it was the thing to do.

A man from Mars suddenly arriving might have thought the convention proposed to take the suggestion of the Smith quintuplets, sidetrack the President and nominate Senator Robinson. But the noise and applause was quieted by the temporary chairman as quickly as it started.

* * *

All of this inspires the annoying thought. Would not these men and women as quickly applaud and cheer Mr. Roosevelt—or any other leader of their party—if he came to them as a dictator or as the overlord of a Fascist regime? Is this not evidence that America might succumb to Hitlerism or a Mussolini as enthusiastically as did Germany or Italy? Certainly, as far as national political conventions are concerned—"It can happen here."

* * *

Or would this—or any other national convention in the face of a serious menace to the liberties and freedom of the people cast off this Hollywood atmosphere and grapple with the vital issues? The answer is difficult—but it has become clear that the national conventions no longer are assembled to discuss and decide great political questions, but to present a great, colorful show for the benefit of motion picture cameramen and the radio.

It is no wonder that we who are sitting at the ringside think the demonstrations have a hollow ring.

Do we not see each few minutes groups of delegates stirred into frenzied cheering when nothing whatever has happened—under the prompting of cameramen who want a good picture?

Do we not hear the descriptions of radio commentators exaggerating the importance and enthusiasm of the demonstrations?

And then we see men participating in those demonstrations who only an hour before told us that they think it is all nonsense and baloney—but that they must be regular.

* * *

Everything of importance here is done behind closed doors. The delegates have even been deprived of a fight over abrogation of the two-thirds rule by the adoption of plans for a scheme for a "bonus" system for Southern States, such as the Republicans have for Northern States.

But one item which has occurred in the public eye has been the ardent wooing by the Democratic leaders of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. They have flirted notoriously with the shaggy-maned Lion of Idaho—much to the chagrin and disgust of some of the conservative Democrats here.

This wooing started at the opening session when Democrat James Farley asserted that the Republicans at Cleveland "could have named Senator Borah, but he was ear-marked with the stigma of liberalism."

Some of the Farley advisers thought that was mighty bad strategy—since they are convinced that Senator Borah will be found this fall where he always has been found—except in 1896—that is, in the Republican Party. They saw no reason why Chairman Farley should drape a mantle of liberalism over the shoulders of an opponent—thus aiding the Landon cause—but the chairman threw the bouquet anyway.

Senator Robinson last night kindly brought Senator Borah into his speech as one who expressed doubt over the meaning of the Landon declaration in behalf of a gold currency. And the platform makers seemingly—that document has not been revealed at this writing—have been more intent on not offending the Lion of Idaho in such planks as those dealing with currency, foreign affairs and monopoly than they were solicitous of the feelings of a stanch and grand old Democrat like Senator Carter Glass.

In that they are realistic. They know Senator Glass will not bolt—and it would be a great coup, chiefly a psychological one, if they could win the man the Republicans so assiduously wooed at Cleveland.

Senator Smith Spurns Any but Own Prayers

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, June 25.—A statement by a colored minister that Senator Ellison D. Smith's walkout from the Democratic National Convention indicated that "Brother Smith needs more prayer," produced a reply today from the South Carolina legislator that "I don't want anybody to pray for me except myself."

The clergyman—the Rev. Marshall Shepard, pastor of a colored Baptist church here—precipitated Smith's departure from the convention yesterday when he offered the invocation.

Senator Smith, who announced he was "through" with the convention, later said he would walk out "whenever a Negro has a part."

He added he was back to fight abrogation of the rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the convention to nominate a candidate for President and Vice President.

"I've got a good notion to take the floor and give them hell," he told reporters. "This is nothing but an attempt to crucify the Democratic South."

"I feel sympathy and pity for Senator Smith," Shepard said, "and pray to God that he may be emancipated from his prejudices."

Colored persons participate in the conventions of the Republican and other parties, Shepard explained, adding that if Smith "is looking for a party without Negroes it looks like he will have to form his own little party right there in South Carolina."

From Smith came the comment: "I don't have to form my own party. The party already exists. It was born in the red shirt days of the reconstruction period, when the gentlemen of South Carolina donned red shirts to rid our State of carpetbaggers, scalawags and Negroes."

In Columbia, S. C., meanwhile, A. S. Salley, State historian, said Smith had served with a colored Democrat in the South Carolina House of Representatives in 1898-1900.

May Vote at Present.

Under present party rules in South Carolina, Salley said, a colored person may vote in the Democratic primary only if he voted for Wade Hampton for Governor in 1876.

At the Democratic National Committee, officials explained that Shepard was chosen in line with an effort "to include representatives of all congregations" and that the racial question had not been discussed.

Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina said he was sorry Smith had left the floor, adding that "we will never be bothered with Negro equality in South Carolina."

"Senator Smith," said Representative Mitchell, of Chicago, only colored member of Congress and a delegate to the convention, "is a man of the old school and represents that thought among white people which is fast passing away."

Thomas Heflin, former Alabama Senator, described Shepard's prayer as "good," and said the national committee was "right" to invite "anyone it wants" to deliver convention invocations.

Maureen Orcutt's Husband Is Jailed

Miami, Fla., June 25 (AP).—The judge who secretly married John D. Crews to Maureen Orcutt, the golf star, a year ago adjudged him in contempt of court today and sentenced him to 120 days in jail.

Circuit Judge W. W. Trammell expressed regret at having to act against Crews, a friend of his, but held the evidence supported the charge that the investment broker "pretended that he could influence the judgment of the court by the payment of money." Crews entered no defense.

His attorneys immediately obtained a writ of habeas corpus at Tallahassee, however, and Crews was released in $3,000 bond pending a review by the State Supreme Court.

Mrs. Olive Wofford testified that Crews represented to her he could induce Judge Trammell to change his decision in a case involving the Wofford Hotel for $2,400.

3 Are Shot in Battle To Save Bank Cash

Lawrence, Mass., June 25 (AP).—A gun battle betwen robbers attempting to seize a $19,000 pay roll and a policeman and a bank employe sent two of the gunmen and the bank employe to Lawrence General Hospital today.

A third man escaped in an automobile, apparently uninjured, police said.

Police Inspector Timothy O'Brien, guarding the pay roll, stepped to the front of the car as Abbott Corkum, an employe of the Bay State Merchants National Bank, went to the back of the car.

Two of the robbers stepped up and one knocked Corkum down. Then, police reported, the three men opened fire on the driver and O'Brien.

Corkum and O'Brien returned the fire, but Corkum fell, wounded in the leg. Two gunmen dropped as O'Brien emptied his gun at them. The third fled.

Spain Will Purchase $7,929,000 Exchange

Madrid, June 25 (AP).—The Spanish Congress tonight authorized an appropriation of 58,000,000 pesetas (about $7,929,000) for the purchase of foreign exchange to relieve a situation created by restrictions on the exportation of currency.

The appropriation, although less than a tenth of the sum needed for the solution of the problem of frozen credits, is expected to bridge the situation until a permanent solution is found.

Strike Starting In Auto Plants, Red Party Told

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—The Communist Party turned its convention from politics to "the class struggle" today while enthusiastically cheering delegates were told by keynoting speakers that:

A Communist-inspired general strike patterned after the recent French labor movement, was starting in Michigan automobile plants.

The party was making sweeping inroads among West Coast marine workers.

Company unions in the steel industry were being undermined.

The 725 delegates to the national convention started ovation after ovation as Jack Johnstone, of San Francisco, and Jack Stachel, of New York, sounded the theme of today's session—"workers of the world unite."

Nominations Sunday.

Behind the scenes, the party's smoothly working steering organization, the presiding committee, divided in two sections, one working on resolutions and the other on the platform that will be presented to the mass meeting in Madison Square Garden Sunday, when Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates are nominated.

Stachel, member of the central committee of the party in charge of labor affairs, sounded the hint of a Communist-inspired general strike.

His eyes closed, he spoke sadly of the recent lapse of the "broad strike program."

Then, thrusting his head forward, he brought the delegates to their feet in a burst of cheering as he shouted:

"Now, there is a change toward a new strike wave!"

The strike wave, he said, "inspired by the great strike of our comrades in France," is beginning in the Michgan automobile plants.

"The French victory has stimulated the strike movement in the United States. The Michigan workers, inspired, are talking about the French strike move and sit-down strikes similar to those in France and Belgium are beginning in the Michigan automobile plants."

In the morning session, Johnstone, a member of the presiding committee from California, struck similar enthusiasm as he told of Communist increases among the ranks of longshoremen and sailors on the Pacific Coast.

Strike Is Indorsed.

At the start of the afternoon session, by a rising vote the convention indorsed the strike of R. C. A. Victor employes in Camden, N. J., pledging "the solidarity and the assistance of the Communist Party."

B. K. Gebert, delegate from the Alleghany Valley of Pennsylvania, described the efforts to organize the steel workers in industrial unions and said Communism was making definite strides in undermining company unions in the steel industry.

Divorce Decision Appealed by Nixon

Capt. Thomas H. Nixon, Army ordnance officer, has asked the State Superior Court at Gettysburg, Pa., to revoke the decision of the Adams County court in that State nullifying his divorce to his second wife, Mrs. Annette Pauline Nixon.

The divorce, obtained in Gettysburg, August 26, 1935, was set aside last April by Judge W. C. Sheely. He ruled that the Adams County court was without jurisdiction because Nixon was not a bona fide resident of Pennsylvania when the action was started.

Shortly after the divorce was granted from the second Mrs. Nixon, a former "Scandals" beauty, the captain married Anne Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard De Walden Cooke, of Chevy Chase, Md. The present Mrs. Nixon, now the mother of twins, lives with her husband at the Stoneleigh Court Apartments.

In Nixon's $5,000 appeal bond he listed as sureties himself, his present wife and his mother, Mrs. Kate H. Nixon, of Gettysburg.

More, Heavier Hogs Foreseen for Fall

By the Associated Press.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted yesterday that more and heavier hogs would be marketed between now and October 1 than in the corresponding period last year.

The increase, the bureau said, would result from a large increase in pig production last fall. Heavier weights will be due to the high prices of hogs compared with prices of corn.

Somewhat larger sales of American hog products abroad were in prospect as hog production in this country increased, the bureau said.

Mary Dewson Is Groomed as Vice Chairman

Mrs. Norton Starts Drive as Women Gain Access to Secret Sessions.

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, June 25.—A "Mary-Dewson-for-Vice-Chairman" movement was started today by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, as the convention women chuckled over the aftermath of yesterday's Dewson-to-Farley-to-McNutt triple play.

That was the coup which created for the first time an "opposite sex" alternative for each resolutions committee member, causing an immediate influx of women alternates into that solemn, secret and important committee's sessions. Miss Dewson passed the proposal to Chairman Farley, who had it introduced by Gov. McNutt of Indiana.

Alert little Puerto Rico varied the program by caucusing quickly to pick the two first men alternates under the "opposite sex" ruling.

Placed Two Women.

For although tied up by a contest which resulted in two delegations being seated with half a vote each, Puerto Rico had put two women on the platform committee.

Frederico Vall-Spinoza was chosen as alternate for Mrs. Donald Draughon, and Walter McK. Jones for Mrs. Herman Cochran.

The one woman who managed to make the still more secret and solemn sub-committee session last night, Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, of California, did so by mistake.

"It was entirely understandable," said Mrs. Eleanor B. MacFarland, the California delegate actually appointed as alternate to J. Stitt Wilson, the sub-committeeman whose temporary absence let Mrs. Graham in.

Missed Her Big Moment.

"Mrs. Graham is alternate for Mr. Wilson on the convention floor. And I hadn't even heard about my appointment when it happened.

"I would have given anything to be sitting there. I missed my one big moment."

Mrs. Norton made her speech urging Miss Dewson for the vacant vice chairman post before a meeting of women delegates and committeewomen, praising her "magnificent courage and spiritual ideals."

"We sincerely hope before this convention closes this action will be taken," said Mrs. Norton. "You have devoted four years to raising the standards of women in the party just about 100 per cent."

Stained Ax Is Clew In 2 Texas Deaths

Johnson City, Tex., June 25 (AP). The finding of a blood-stained ax and questioning of an unnamed suspect led officers tonight to believe they were near solution of the brutal slayings yesterday of Mrs. Ernest Herwig, about 28, and her son, John Roebuck, 9.

The husband said he found the bodies of his wife and stepson in the house after hearing a commotion while he and his daughters were hoeing in the garden. Officers found the ax 50 yards from the house and said it apparently had been washed in an effort to remove the stains.

The telephone had been torn from the wall, Herwig said, and he had to drive six miles to Mountain View to notify officers.

3-Inch Nail Taken From Child's Lung In Brief Operation

Philadelphia, June 25 (U.P.).—Three-year-old Kelvin Rogers, of Doort, Australia, was reported "doing nicely" at Temple University Hospital tonight, following a seven-minute bronchoscopic operation to remove a nail from his lung.

The operation was performed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, famous inventor of the bronchoscope, who, as in many previous cases, refused to discuss the case.

It was learned, however, that Kelvin suffered no ill effects from the 9,000-mile trip from Australia, where he swallowed the 3-inch piece of metal 18 months ago.

The briefness of the operation was in contrast to the two months he and his mother, Mrs. Marjorie Rogers, traveled by boat and train to give Kelvin the full benefits of Dr. Jackson's skill.

The journey, far more expensive than the Rogers could afford, was provided by the Australian and American governments and a steamship line. Kelvin's father is a $20-a-week mechanic in Australia.

Mrs. Rogers is staying at the hospital during her son's convalescence, which, it was said, probably would be for several more days.

District Will Drop Zioncheck Case

Dismissal of a scheduled hearing to determine the sanity of Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, of Washington State, will be agreed to by T. Gillespie Walsh, the assistant District corporation counsel announced yesterday.

The hearing had been set for today, but Zioncheck was removed Tuesday to a private hospital in Towson, Md., a Baltimore suburb, for an indefinite period.

Zioncheck's transfer and Walsh's statement closed the books for the time being, at least, on one of the wildest series of escapades the Capital has known.

111 Seized in 10 Days On Baltimore Highway

Baltimore, June 25 (AP).—Capt. Edward McK. Johnson said today that 111 motorists had been arrested for speeding and reckless driving on the Baltimore-Washington boulevard since a special patrol was established on June 15.

Four men in two cars now patrol the road all night, and another quartet patrols it in the day time, he said. A total of 326 arrests have been made by the men, he added.

Of the night arrests in the ten-day period, 14 have been for speeding more than 60 miles an hour and 60 for more than 45 miles per hour.

Smith Backers Join in Attack On New Yorker

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Delegates from the four States instructed for Alfred E. Smith in the 1932 Democratic convention joined with other New Dealers today in lambasting the New Yorker for his suggestion that the party drop President Roosevelt.

Only a few members of the four delegations to this convention, however, attended the 1932 meeting at Chicago, where Roosevelt rolled to the nomination over Smith and half a dozen other potential contenders.

Although saying they could not speak for those who carried Smith's banner in the convention wars at Chicago, heads of the Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey delegations were free with their own opinions about Smith and his recent anti-Roosevelt activities.

"We in Rhode Island helped to make Al," said Thomas H. Kennelly, head of the State's delegation, "and now he has walked out on us."

e said Smith's popularity in the State would not result in a major swing away from the New Deal there.

"Certainly no State in the Union was more intense in its enthusiasm and more vociferous in its support of Smith than was New Jersey," said William H. Kelly, chairman of the delegation.

But he expressed the opinion that Smith now "is the stooge" of "the Liberty League and the du-Pont millionaires."

Francis Smith, Connecticut State chairman, advanced the view that "the change of position made by Mr. Smith has eliminated his influence in Connecticut."

In the Massachusetts delegation, Leo M. Harlow, chairman of the State's preprimary convention, said the Smith blast would not draw many Bay State Democrats from the Roosevelt banner.

"There will be a few zealots who will bolt the party," he said, "but the vast majority will stay with Roosevelt."

14 More Are Arrested In N. J. RCA Strike

Camden, N. J., June 25 (AP).—Camden police broke up two strike demonstrations and arrested 14 more persons outside the Victor Division plant of the RCA Co. today.

Fifty-six have been arrested since the strike was called Monday.

The United Electrical and Radio Workers Union called the strike after a week of negotiations with the company on demands for a 20 per cent wage increase and union recognition.

Hindenburg Reported Off Coast of Ireland

Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany, June 25 (U.P.).—The dirigible Hindenburg, completing its third commercial crossing of the North Atlantic, radioed tonight that she was 700 miles from Malin Head Island, off the north coast of Ireland. Head winds cut the dirigible's speed to 52 knots. She is expected to arrive here Friday afternoon.

Rules Decision Called Victory For Opposition

Virginia Committeeman Weaver Terms Compromise 'Fair Enough.'

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Senator Carter Glass returned today to the Democratic National Convention to be greeted with a burst of applause from the Virginia delegation, of which he is a member.

Friends said he did not like being called a "walker" or a "bolter" of the party. When he arrived first, early in the week, he said he was "too worn out by Congressional duties" to serve in his customary place on the platform committee, and that he came to the convention against doctors' orders "because his absence might be misconstrued."

His return, on the day set for the report of the first platform committee on which he has not served in 40 years, was seen by friends of the Senator—who has differed frequently with New Deal measures and policies—as a "show of his colors."

Jesse Jones Arrives.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum also returned. He was here as a spectator the opening day, but returned to Washington yesterday "on business."

State Senator Aubrey G. Weaver, Virginia rules committeeman, followed closely the maneuvers of the committee on the proposal to abrogate the century-old rule requiring two-thirds of the convention for nominations, and hailed the compromise plan to base convention voting strength on election voting in the various States as a "victory for those opposed to repeal of the rule."

"It seems to me that such a compromise is fair enough," Weaver said, "but it will mean that Virginia and other States, where primaries are the real elections, will have to emphasize general election voting more strenuously."

Gov. George C. Peery, Virginia platform committeeman, and Mrs. John Garland Pollard, his alternate, were on the floor during the short day session.

Kane Gives Dinner.

The delegation left convention duties last night to attend a dinner given by Robert Kane, of Gate City, at his Mooresville, N. J., estate. His mother, Mrs. Josephine Kane, of Scott County, is a Ninth District alternate.

Among the guests was William Allen White, Emporia (Kansas) publisher, who shortly after was described in the convention by Permanent Chairman Joe Robinson as a political mentor of Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican Presidential nominee.

White, who is Kane's brother-in-law, told the Virginians his father was a Democrat and his mother a Republican "and I have been in and out."

During the course of the evening Speaker Ashton Dovell, of the Virginia House of Delegates, introduced Gov. Peery, who spoke briefly and iintroduced Representative Patrick H. Drewry, of Petersburg. Drewry's introduction of Lieut. Gov. James H. Price as "the next Governor of Virginia" was greeted with applause.

Nominators Map 8,421 Talk Rallies

New York, June 25 (AP).—Roosevelt "nominators" will hold no fewer than 8,421 rallies throughout the United States Saturday night to hear President Roosevelt broadcast his nomination acceptance speech, Democratic headquarters said here today.

A dozen of the major cities, the announcement said, will provide more than a half-million listeners.

New York's party will be held in Madison Square Garden with figures of the entertainment world singing and dancing in a program preceding the broadcast.

The "nominators" paid fees for membership in the organization, the funds going to help defray campaign expenses.

Walmsley to Quit Post As New Orleans Mayor

New Orleans, June 25 (AP).—Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans announced in a brief formal statement today that he would resign his office next Tuesday. He made no comment on his plans for the future.

Walmsley, bitter political foe of the late Senator Huey P. Long, refused to resign while Long was hammering for control of the city administration. But last March 8, with city control virtually taken over by the State under laws which Long had passed in the Legislature, Mayor Walmsley announced he would step aside provided the Legislature enacted laws "restoring home rule" to New Orleans.

The Legislature has revised the statutes affecting New Orleans.

the beginning of this Administration and earlier in the case of certain New Yorkers, because they felt that in Roosevelt they had found a political leader with their own attitude toward social and economic problems. Of this group Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, and Mary Dewson, chairman of the woman's division of the Democratic advisory committee, are outstanding examples.

Has Gained in Importance.

The last group is even smaller, but of especial interest because it has gained in recognition since it has dawned on the Democrats that the election is not yet in the bag. These are the politically minded women who can grasp the fact that the party is even more important than Franklin Roosevelt, and who realize without letting it weaken their loyalty to the incumbent that the Presidency of the United States is nobody's private property. The most gifted woman in this group is unquestionably Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, national committeewoman from Pennsylvania and sister of the junior senator from that State.

The proof that thoroughly intelligent members of the middle group often lapse into the musty sentimentality of the mass worshipers is illustrated by a rhapsody on Mrs. Roosevelt which Secretary Perkins delivered at a convention breakfast which took place yesterday.

A Eulogy Quoted.

I quote for brevity's sake only the beginning and the end:

"I want to introduce you to a woman who is not here—who has been detained by conventions—I do not meant political but social conventions. She has not allowed herself to be detained by usual conventions. She has recognized that she had a great talent. She has realized that the possession of this talent carried a responsibility to use it on behalf of the people.

"Her talent was an unusual ability and capacity to love the human race and therefore to hear and learn and understand trouble, misery, want, aspiration—I know that when many women vote for the President, they will also be thinking, with a choke in their throats, of Eleanor Roosevelt."

A Calm Intelligence.

A saner loyalty is that of Mary W. Dewson, the present leader of feminine Democracy. But if Miss Dewson's attitude toward the President is more rational, she must be feared all the more by her political adversaries, because she brings this calm intelligence to her duties as organizer of the women's campaign throughout the country.

Her office has just issued an exemplary booklet called "Democratic Victory" and dedicated to "Mrs. County Leader," which can scarcely be improved in its clear and concise directions to district leaders, to say nothing of its attractive and inspiring presentation and its many novel ideas. Miss Dewson has behind her a long and successful history as a champion of women in industry.

As far back as 1911 she wrote a report which resulted in the establishment of the minimum wage law in Massachusetts in that year. From that time on she has been the leading spirit behind similar legislation in California, in the District of Columbia and lastly in New York, where so much care was put into the working out of the minimum wage law that it was used in seven other States.

Because of her outstanding qualities and experience I was tempted to ask Miss Dewson what her attitude was toward the uninterrupted trend of the Roosevelt Administration toward Federal control of social and economic forces that have hitherto been considered a prerogative of the States.

In Senator Barkley's and Senator Robinson's speeches it has been evident that the Administration is not receding from its determination to place Washington in charge of the Nation's industrial development, and as this trend toward fascism seems to me disastrous, particularly to women's influence on the destiny of the Nation, I wanted to get this clear-minded woman's reaction to the most important development in her own political party.

Though her point of view does not embrace all aspects of the problem, it would be salutary to any Republican leader to understand the influences which determined her stand on this all-important question. Throughout the 25 or more years that Miss Dewson has devoted to securing the passage of minimum wage laws in our country—always it must be borne in mind as an unpaid volunteer worker—only two States which were controlled by the Republican Party consented to pass such legislation, Massachusetts and California, and that was in 1912, as Miss Dewson points out, when the Republicans were shaken by a new spirit which was born of Theodore Roosevelt's liberalism.

Aside from these two departures from the habitual attitude, all Republican States have rejected what the same party in its platform this year accepts as an essential protection for women in industry. Whatever help Miss Dewson received in her campaign for the betterment of conditions of labor in the United States came from the Democrats.

I did not interject here that a dominant party always has a different phychology, and that the Democrats may well have come to her assistance as part of their minority struggle, because my essential aim was to understand and explain why most socially-minded women are in the Democratic ranks.

As for Miss Dewson's acceptance of a Federal law to hasten a nation-wide acceptance of a minimum wage, not only for women, but as she hopes, for men also, this is no less comprehensible in the light of her experience. Industry, she points out, has no State lines, and what is more natural therefore than to hasten the development of a social consciousness in obdurate or backward States by a flexible Federal law, embodying differentials dictated by the varying economic conditions in various parts of our country?

If some States do not come up to the standards of the more enlightened communities in matters of economic control, the progressive States are penalized and the whole development of our social thinking retarded.

That Miss Dewson and all her contemporaries in the same field of endeavor should have become Democrats when women won the suffrage is not surprising. That they now hope for the pressure that can be gained through Federal measures under a Democratic administration is equally natural in the light of the Republican attitude in past years toward this particular social measure. The fact that she is pragmatic rather than dogmatic in her demands for Federal legislation makes her case so much stronger.

An Idle Fear.

That priceless liberties might be sacrificed once a strong wave toward centralization becomes established seems to her an idle fear. Only by following intelligently why a person of such outstanding value thinks as she does can the Republicans successfully combat the powerful hold which President Roosevelt has achieved over many other influential women of the Democratic Party.

An interesting recent development within the party ranks is the challenge to Miss Dewson's leadership of Democratic women which comes from the more politically trained national committeewoman from Pennsylvania, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller. This challenge is in itself an indication that the Democrats are recovering somewhat from the New Deal eclipse of ancient party principles involving among others that of States' rights. The rivalry of these two brilliant women reflects the whole atmosphere of this convention, the possibly disastrous struggle which the Democratic Party faces.

Democratic Party's Platform Pledges Extension of Major New Deal Policies

Federal-Local Relief Program, Farm Payments Are Indorsed

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 25 (AP).—The text of the Democratic platform follows:

We hold this truth to be self-evident—That the test of a representative government is its ability to promote the safety and happiness of the people.

We hold this truth to be self-evident—That 12 years of Republican leadership left our Nation sorely stricken in body, mind and spirit; and that 3 years of Democratic leadership have put it back on the road to restored health and prosperity.

We hold this truth to be self-evident—That 12 years of Republican surrender to the dictatorship of a privileged few have been supplanted by a Democratic leadership which has returned the people themselves to the places of authority, and has revived in them new faith and restored the hope which they had almost lost.

We hold this truth to be self-evident—That this three-year recovery in all the basic values of life and the re-establishment of the American ways of living has been brought about by humanizing the policies of the Federal Government as they affect the personal, financial, industrial and agricultural well-being of the American people.

We hold this truth to be self-evident—That government in a modern civilization has certain inescapable obligations to its citizens, among which are:

(1) Protection of the family and the home.

(2) Establishment of a democracy of opportunity for all the people.

(3) Aid to those overtaken by disaster.

These obligations, neglected through 12 years of the old leadership, have once more been recognized by American government. Under the new leadership they will never be neglected.

For the Protection of the Family and the Home:

(1) We have begun and shall continue the successful drive to rid our land of kidnapers and bandits. We shall continue to use the powers of government to end the activities of the malefactors of great wealth who defraud and exploit the people.

Savings and Investment.

(2) We have safeguarded the thrift of our citizens by restraining those who would gamble with other people's savings, by requiring truth in the sale of securities; by putting the brakes upon the use of credit for speculation; by outlawing the manipulation of prices in stock and commodity markets; by curbing the overweening power and unholy practices of utility holding companies; by insuring 50,000,000 bank accounts.

Old Age and Social Security.

(3) We have built foundations for the security of those who are faced with the hazards of unemployment and old age; for the orphaned, the crippled and the blind. On a foundation of the social security act we are determined to erect a structure of economic security for all our people, making sure that this benefit shall keep step with the ever-increasing capacity of America to provide a high standard of living for all its citizens.

Consumer.

(4) We will act to secure to the consumer fair value, honest sales and a decreased spread between the price he pays and the price the producer receives.

Rural Electrification.

(5) This Administration has fostered power rate yardsticks in the Tennessee Valley and in several other parts of the Nation. As a result electricity has been made available to the people at a lower rate. We will continue to promote plans for rural electrification and for cheap power by means of the yardstick method.

Housing.

(6) We maintain that our people are entitled to decent, adequate housing at a price which they can afford. In the last three years the Federal Government, hvaing saved more than 2,000,000 homes from foreclosure, has taken the first steps in our history to provide decent housing for people of meager incomes. We believe every encouragement should be given to the building of new homes by private enterprise; and that the Government should steadily extend its housing program toward the goal of adequate housing for those forced through economic necessities to live in unhealthy and slum conditions.

Veterans.

(7) We shall continue just treatment to our war veterans and their dependents.

Agriculture.

We have kept our pledge to agriculture to use all available means to raise farm income toward its pre-war purchasing power. The farmer is no longer suffering from 15-cent corn, 3-cent hogs, 2½-cent beef at the farm, 5-cent wool, 30-cent wheat, 5-cent cotton and 3-cent sugar.

By Federal legislation we have reduced the farmers' indebtedness and doubled his net income. In co-operation with the States and through the farmers' own committees, we are restoring the fertility of his land and checking the erosion of his soil. We are bringing electricity and good roads to his home.

We will continue to improve the soil conservation and domestic allotment program with payments to farmers.

We will continue a fair-minded administratioin of agricultural laws, quick to recognize and meet new problems and conditions. We recognize the gravity of the evils of farm tenancy, and we pledge the full co-operation of the Government in the refinancing of farm indebtedness at the lowest possible rates of interest and over a long term of years.

We favor the production of all the market will absorb, both at home and abroad, plus a reserve supply sufficient to insure fair prices to consumers; we favor judicious commodity loans on seasonal surpluses and we favor assistance within Federal authority to enable farmers to adjust and balance production with demand, at a fair profit to the farmers.

By the purchase and retirement of 10,000,000 acres of submarginal land, and assistance to those attempting to eke out an existence upon it, we have made a good beginning toward proper land use and rural rehabilitation.

The farmer has been returned to the road to freedom and prosperity? We will keep him on that road.

Labor.

We have given the army of America's industrial workers something more substantial than the Republicans' dinner pail full of promises. We have increased the worker's pay and shortened his hours; we have undertaken to put an end to the sweated labor of his wife and children; we have written into the law of the land his right to collective bargaining and self-organization free from the interference of employers; we have provided Federal machinery for the peaceful settlement of labor disputes.

We will continue to protect the worker and we will guard his rights, both as wage-earner and consumer, in the production and consumption of all commodities, including coal and water power and other natural-resource products.

Business.

We have taken the American businessman out of the red. We have saved his bank and given it a sounder foundation; we have extended credit; we have lowered interest rates; we have undertaken to free him from the ravages of cut-throat competition.

The American businessman has been returned to the road to freedom and prosperity. We will keep him on that road.

Youth.

We have aided youth to stay in school; given them constructive occupation; opened the door to opportunity which 12 years of Republican neglect had closed.

Our youth have been returned to the road to freedom and prosperity. We will keep them on that road.

Monopoly and Concentration of Economic Power.

Monopolies and the concentration of economic power, the creation of Republican rule and privilege, continue to be the master of the producer, the exploiter of the consumer, and the enemy of the independent operator. This is a problem challenging the unceasing effort of untrammeled public officials in every branch of the Government. We pledge vigorously and fearlessly to enforce the criminal and civil provisions of the existing antitrust laws, and to the extent that their effectiveness has been weakened by new corporate devices or judicial construction, we propose by law to restore their efficacy in stamping out monopolistic practices and concentration of economic power.

Aid to Those Overtaken By Disaster.

We have aided and will continue to aid those who have been visited by widespread drought and floods and have adopted a Nation-wide flood-control policy.

Unemployment.

We believe that unemployment is a national problem, and that it is an inescapable obligation of our Government to meet it in a national way. Due to our stimulation of private business, more than five million people have been re-employed; and we shall continue to maintain that the first objective of a program of economic security is maximum employment in private industry at adequate wages. Where business fails to supply such employment, we believe that work at prevailing wages should be provided in co-operation with State and local governments on useful public projects, to the end that the national wealth may be increased, the skill and energy of the worker may be utilized, his morale maintained, and the unemployed assured the opportunity to earn the necessities of life.

The Constitution.

The Republican platform proposes to meet many pressing national problems solely by action of the separate States. We know that drought, dust storms, floods, minimum wages, maximum hours, child labor and working conditions in industry, monopolistic and unfair business practices cannot be adequately handled exclusively by 48 separate State Legislatures, 48 separate State administrations and 48 separate State courts. Transactions and activities which inevitably overflow State boundaries call for both State and Federal treatment.

We have sought and will continue to seek to meet these problems through legislation within the Constitution.

If those problems cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the Constitution, we shall seek such clarifying admendment as will assure to the legislatures of the several States and to the Congress of the United States, each within its proper jurisdiction, the power to enact those laws which the State and Federal legislatures, within their respective spheres, shall find necessary, in order adequately to regulate commerce, protect public health and safety and safeguard economic security. Thus we propose to maintain the letter and spirit of the Constitution.

The Merit System in Government.

For the protection of government itself and promotion of its efficiency we pledge the immediate extension of the merit system through the classified civil service—which was first established and fostered under Democratic auspices—to all non-policy-making positions in the Federal service.

We shall subject to the civil service law all continuing positions which, because of the emergency, have been exempt from its operation.

Civil Liberties.

We shall continue to guard the freedom of speech, press, radio, religion and assembly which our Constitution guarantees; with equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

Government Finance.

The Administration has stopped deflation, restored values and enabled business to go ahead with confidence.

When national income shrinks, government income is imperiled. In reviving national income, we have fortified government finance. We have raised the public credit to a position of unsurpassed security. The interest rate on Government bonds has been reduced to the lowest point in 28 years. The same Government bonds which in 1932 sold under 83 are now selling over 104.

We approve the objective of a permanently sound currency so stabilized as to prevent the former wide fluctuations in value which injured in turn producers, debtors, and property owners on the one hand, and wage earners and creditors on the other, a currency which will permit full utilization of the country's resources. We assert that today we have the soundest currency in the world.

We are determined to reduce the expenses of government. We are being aided therein by the recession in unemployment. As the requirements of relief decline and national income advances, an increasing percentage of Federal expenditures can and will be met from current revenues, secured from taxes levied in accordance with ability to pay. Our retrenchment, tax and recovery programs thus reflect our firm determination to achieve a balanced budget and the reduction of the national debt at the earliest possibly moment.

Foreign Policy.

In our relationship with other nations, this Government will continue to extend the policy of good neighbor. We reaffirm our opposition to war as an instrument of national policy, and declare that disputes between nations should be settled by peaceful means. We shall continue to observe a true neutrality in the disputes of others; to be prepared, resolutely to resist aggression against ourselves; to work for peace and to take the profits out of war; to guard against being drawn, by political commitments, international banking or private trading, into any war which may develop anywhere.

We shall continue to foster the increase in our foreign trade which has been achieved by this Administration; to seek by mutual agreement the lowering of those tariff barriers, quotas and embargoes which have been raised against our exports of agricultural and industrial products; but continue as in the past to give adequate protection to our farmers and manufacturers against unfair competition or the dumping on our shores of commodities and goods produced abroad by cheap labor or subsidized by foreign governments.

The Issue.

The issue in this election is plain. The American people are called upon to choose betwen a Republican administration that has and would again regiment them in the service of privileged groups, and a Democratic administration dedicated to the establishment of equal economic opportunity for all our people.

We have faith in the destiny of our Nation. We are sufficiently endowed with natural resources and with productive capacity to provide for all a quality of life that meets the standards of real Americanism.

Dedicated to a government of liberal American principles, we are determined to oppose equally the despotism of communism and the menace of concealed fascism.

We hold this final truth to be self-evident—that the interests, the security and the happiness of the people of the United States of America can be perpetuated only under democratic government as conceived by the founders of our Nation.

Last Minute Scenes as Democratic Platform Is Drafted

Economic Security Structure For All Cited as Party Aim

Labor Planks Propose Continuation of Attempt to Insure Right of Collective Bargaining; Action Against Monopolies Promised.

Militant Platform Adopted

"wide fluctuations," and asserted that "today we have the soundest currency in the world."

The party's 1932 appeal to "the forgotten man" echoed throughout the document, although he was never mentioned by name. The platform was liberally sprinkled with references to the "consumer," promises to decrease the price spread, proposals to "humanize" the Government through low-cost housing, economic security and unemployment relief measures and the obligation of "protection of the family and the home." It was literally studded with the word "prosperity" and the "road" the New Deal has taken to assure it.

Work Relief Indorsed.

Unemployed relief was declared a national problem to be met in a "national way." Where business fails to supply employment, the party declared for made work at prevailing wages in co-operation with State and local Governments on "useful" public projects.

On the question of monopoly, called "the master of the producer, the exploiter of the consumer, and the enemy of the independent operator," the convention adopted the strongest plank in the history of either party. While second degree holding companies were not mentioned by name, they were plainly implied by a reference to "corporate devices."

Enforcement of both the criminal and civil provisions of the anti-trust laws was pledged.

This plank slapped at the courts by suggesting "the extent" to which anti-trust laws have been weakened by "judicial construction."

The only note of repentance, and a pledge to do better, was struck in the economy plank.

"We are determined to reduce the expenses of government," it read. "We are being aided therein by the recession in unemployment. As the requirements of relief decline and national income advances, an increasing percentage of Federal expenditures can and will be met from current revenues, secured from taxes levied in accordance with ability to pay."

D. C. Ballot Unmentioned.

There was no mention anywhere in the platform of the District of Columbia franchise sought by Commissioner George Allen and Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District Committee.

A strong civil service plank was included, however, approaching in its scope the territory covered in Gov. Alf Landon's message to the Republican convention, but at the same time providing a sop to patronage job holders.

The Democratic pledge declared for extending the civil service to "all non-policy-making positions in the Federal service."

Implied "blanketing in" of non-civil service patronage jobs was included in the following addition to the plank:

"We shall subject to the civil service law all continuing positions which, because of the emergency, have been exempt from its operation."

The Constitutional plank, like the farm and rural electrification proposals, was agreed to by the full committee only after much argument and revision in the full committee. Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, is said to have sounded the strongest note against the plank as originally drafted, assuming Federal authority in the "twilight zone" between Federal and State powers.

The committee solved the problem of whether to declare in favor of a constitutional amendment assuring regulation of wages and hours, by going beyond Governor Landon's declaration for an amendment, "if necessary," giving the States power to supervision over working conditions for women. The Democratic plank declares for Federal as well as State authority, and couches the scope in general terms "to regulate commerce, protect public health and safety and safeguard economic security."

Believed Lehman's Work.

Gov. Herbert Lehman, of New York, whose New York minimum wage law was invalidated by the Supreme Court, was believed largely influential in obtaining this plank.

The much-controverted foreign plank made no mention either of the world court or the League of Nations, whereas the Republican platform had urged against entry into either. The Democratic plank pledged extension of the "good neighbor" policy, declared for peaceful settlement of disputes between nations, but asked a "true neutrality" in the disputes of others, and promised "to guard against being drawn, by political commitments, international banking or private trading, into any war which may develop elsewhere." There was a pledge "to work for peace and to take the profits out of war."

The labor plank, briefly treated, accepted but a few of the recommendations of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, turning thumbs down on his proposal that laws be invalidated only by a two-thirds vote of the Supreme Court, and that recognition be withdrawn from Soviet Russia.

Increased pay for workers, shorter hours and the right of collective bargaining and self-organization free from interference of employers were hailed as accomplished facts.

"The worker has been returned to the road of freedom and prosperity," the plank stated. "We will keep him on that road."

The platform opened kith a 270-word preamble, accusing the Republican Party of "surrender" to the privileged, and asserting that Government obligations of equal opportunity "under the new leadership * * * will never be neglected."

It concluded with a dedication to "a government of liberal American principles, "opposed equally to "the despotism of communism and the menace of concealed fascism."

Calls Privilege Issue.

The "issue" it stated as a choice between "a Republican Administration that has and would again regiment them in the service of privileged groups and a Democratic Administration dedicated to the establishment of equal opportunity for all of our people."

Other planks in the platform included:

Law—A pledge to continue the drive against kidnapers and bandits, and prosecution of "malefactors of great wealth who defraud and exploit the people."

Security—To provide economic security for "all our people" on the foundations of the social security act.

Business—"The American businessman has been returned to the road to freedom and prosperity. We will keep him on that road."

Youth—Educational and occupational aid to youth.

The sub-committee of 12 reached a final agreement on their platform draft at 3:15 p. m., after an all-night, nine-hour session, in the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, and another four-hour meeting in the early afternoon.

They were herded from the hotel to the convention hall like so many cattle, closely guarded against inquiring reporters. Senator Walsh, who was acting chairman in Wagner's absence, was in a conversant mood, but when he started to talk too freely with newspapermen, he was interrupted by a sub-committee attache, with the curt:

"What's going on here?"

Senator Wagner was afraid of a premature leak, and had given instructions accordingly. Further secrecy precautions were taken at the convention hall. With an official list of the full committee in one hand, and the doorknob to the conference room in the other, a guard closely "checked in" all of the committee members. Reporters and curious delegates were excluded.

Is Ended at 5 A. M.

The night conference at the Bellevue Stratford started at 8 p. m. and concluded at 5 a. m. As the session dragged on, food and refreshments were carried into the room in a seemingly never-ending procession. Reporters, condemned to sit it out in the corridors, finally were invited into an adjoining room by Ambrose O'Connell, Farley aid, to share in the repast.

From time to time Wagner popped out of the door, to report things going along "splendidly." Once he heatedly denied radiocast reports of a fight in the sub-committee.

At 5 a. m., sub-committee members wearily dragged off to their rooms for a few winks of sleep, only to go into session again at 11 a. m. Secrecy rules continued. Once Postmaster General Farley dropped into the room "just to see how things are moving along." Rumors flew around that only formal approval of the President was holding up the report.

Attracted by the newspaper throng, Dr. "Jafsie" Condon, of Lindbergh kidnaping fame, paused to chat a few minutes. Yes, he had a plank he thought every political platform should include, but he wasn't going to submit it. What was it?

"Every man rated according to his worth in the United States."

Anxious for an authentic lead, reporters closely pressed around every sub-committee member who passed through the corridor. Walsh wanted to help. He was telling reporters all about the short "but not modest" nature of the draft, how no reference was made to a constitutional amendment, but a paragraph was devoted to the Constitution—when the attache reminded him of the rule.

Report on Two-Thirds Rule

Philadelphia, June 25.—The text of the report submitted to the Democratic National Convention tonight by Senator Clark, of Missouri, chairman of the committee on rules, recommending abrogation of the historic two-thirds rule:

By the unanimous direction of the committee on rules and order of business, I desire to submit the following report of that committee to the convention:

Your committee on rules and order of business unanimously submits to the convention the following report and recommends its adoption:

"Resolved, That the rules of the last Democratic National Convention, including the rules of the House of Representatives of the Seventy-fourth Congress, as far as applicable, shall be the rules of this convention, with the following exception, to wit:

"That all questions, including the question of nomination of candidates for President of the United States and Vice President of the United States, shall be determined by a majority vote of the delegates to the convention, and the rule heretofore exisitng in Democratic conventions requiring a two-thirds vote in such cases is hereby specifically abrogated.

Sets Speech Limits.

"Be it resolved, That all nominating speeches presenting candidates for the nomination of President and Vice President will not exceed 20 minutes, and the seconding speeches shall not exceed five minutes.

"Be it resolved, That no delegate shall occupy the floor in debate for more than 30 minutes except with the unanimous consent of the convention."

The order of business which your committee recommends is as follows:

1. Report of committee on credentials.
2. Report of committee on permanent organization.
3. Report of the committee on rules.
4. Report of the committee on resolutions.
5. Nomination and selection of a candidate for President of the United States.
6. Nomination and selection of a candidate for Vice President of the United States.

Committee Selections.

7. Confirmation of the selection of the members of the Democratic National Committee.
8. Such miscellaneous business as may be in order.
9. Adjournment of the convention.

In addition your committee unanimously recommended the adoption of the following resolution:

Be it resolved, That the Democratic National Committee is hereby instructed to formulate and to recommend to the next national convention a plan for improving the system by which delegates and alternates to Democratic national conventions are apportioned.

And be it further resolved, That in formulating this plan, the national committee shall take into account the Democratic strength within each State, District of Columbia and Territories, etc., in making said apportionment.

District Vote

prove influential in bringing about the appointment of a joint committee of House and Senate members to make a study of the question. If this committee believes the Nation's Capital should have the franchise, it undoubtedly would specify what methods should be pursued to that end.

Allen has thus made more progress in seeking suffrage for the Nation's Capital than has ever been made before. The District of Columbia delegation to the Republican convention also failed to get a plank on the subject and then abandoned the fight. But Allen refused to surrender when he was turned down by the resolutions committee.

Has Impressed Delegates.

Indeed, Allen has pitched his battle in behalf of the franchise for the Capital on a long-range plane. He never expected that he would achieve a platform plank on the subject. But he believes he has made progress in impressing delegates from other States in the equity and fairness of the District of Columbia demand.

Allen said he also had made progress in interesting one or more individuals in most of the State delegations in the cause of the National Capital. His purpose, he explained, was to form committees in most of the States through which he can work in an effort to make "votes for the District" a national issue.

The District of Columbia delegation's representatives voted in committees for both the abrogation of the two-thirds rule and for the platform adopted.

Spangler Caustic On Robinson Talk

Chicago, June 25 (AP).—Harrison E. Spangler, director of the Republican Western headquarters, said in a statement today that Senator Joseph T. Robinson in his convention speech last night "has gone farther in his frankness than the other apologists for the New Deal."

"His readiness to concede the existence of a Washington dictatorship was almost disarming," said the Spangler statement, "although he did qualify it by his reference to its 'kindly' nature.

"Benevolent tyrants have been recorded in history before, but they were tyrants none the less, and the people have always remembered them for their tyranny and not their benevolence.

"In the same strain of frankness, Senator Robinson let the public in on what appears to be one of the major New Deal projects that has previously escaped notice—'promoting national happiness.' The characters in the act were not named, but it isn't hard to guess that the 'happiness boys' include as two of their principals, Postmaster General Farley and Democratic National Committeeman Farley."

Minister Declines Post As Townsend Keynoter

Detroit, June 25 (AP).—Dr. Frederick B. Fisher, of the Central Methodist Church here, said today he had declined an invitation to deliver the keynote address at the second annual convention of the National Townsend Clubs in Cleveland June 15.

The convention headquarters announced Wednesday that Dr. Fisher would be the convention keynoter.

"I received a telegram from Dr. Frank Dyer, the convention secretary, on Tuesday, inviting me to deliver the address, but I wired them Wednesday that it would be impossible for me to accept," the minister said.

Two-Thirds Rule Revoked

cratic National Committee is hereby instructed to formulate and recommend to the next national convention a plan for improving the system by which delegates and alternates to the Democratic National Convention are apportioned.

"Be it further resolved that in formulating this plan the national committee shall take into account the Democratic strength within each state, the District of Columbia, and Territories in making said apportionment."

The resolution was presented to the sub-committee by Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, after two days of debate on the subject.

Sub-committee Named.

After a long period of bickering during which Southern delegates threatened to submit a minority report and carry the fight to the convention, the rules committee adopted a resolution calling for abrogation of the rule, by a vote of 37 to 13. A sub-committee, headed by Senator Clark, chairman of the full committee, was then named for the purpose of working out a plan of representation.

The Southern opposition to ending the rule was based on the fact that with only a majority necessary for nomination, the naming of candidates would be in the hands of the large delegations from the North. They contended that the solidly Democratic South was in effect being penalized. In the sub-committee, Judge Beeman Strong, of Texas, proposed that each State have a minimum of six delegates and that other delegates be named on the basis of two for each Democratic representative and Senator. This would mean that in years when some Northern States have very few Democrat in Congress small Southern States would outnumber them in the convention. This proposal was voted down and the compromise plan, leaving the solution up to the National Committee, was adopted.

Theoretically, abrogation of the two-thirds rule applies only to the present convention where it is of no significance because there is no contest for the nominations. However, it is expected to be morally binding on the next convention. It was brought up at this time for the reason that the change would have no effect upon the convention.

Committee Proposal Out.

Another proposal was that the national committee be given authority to act for the party in the matter of representation, the plan adopted to be binding on the next convention. This was objected to on the ground that the national committee, by juggling representation, might be in the position to nominate a candidate. Party leaders deny that the ending of the century-old rule means that President Roosevelt is attempting to place himself in a position to be nominated for a third term.

In addition to the so-called Solid South, Northern and Western States voting against abrogation of the rule were Colorado, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New York. The New York vote against abrogation was cast by Representative O'Connor, chairman of the Rules Committee of the House, in spite of the fact that a majority of the New York delegation was reported to be for abandoning the rule.

The movement to get rid of the two-thirds rule was started in the 1932 convention, where it was decided the matter should be solved at this meeting. The rule since its adoption has caused much difficulty in numerous Democratic conventions. It was largely responsible for the long New York meeting in 1924 and for the controversy in the Baltimore convention in 1912, when Woodrow Wilson defeated Champ Clark, of Missouri, after the latter had received a majority of the votes.

Factor in History.

Thus the two-thirds rule has been a great factor in charting the course of American history. Originally intended to settle a controversy over the 1832 nomination, the rule has been kept for a century by the powerful Southern leaders who saw in its abandonment a surrender to the Northern majority.

When the compromise plan was presented to the full committee, Judge Strong said he would withdraw his opposition and abide by the committee's decision. Representative Cox, of Georgia, one of the most ardent supporters of the rule, said that he had intended to file a minority report, but that in view of the compromise he would throw the report in the waste basket. Strong thanked Senator Clark, son of Champ Clark, for his fairness as chairman of the committee.

With the two-thirds rule, another time-honored law of Democratic conventions is expected to disappear. That is the unit rule, providing that States must vote as units. This has been gradually abandoned with election of delegates in primaries. Texas is the only large State retaining the unit rule and it is expected to do away with it. There was some feeling in the committee that a resolution abrogating this rule should be presented to the convention, but it was decided that the action might confuse the issue and would not be practicable at this time.

Curley Plans to Second Nomination of Garner

Boston, June 25 (AP).—Gov. James M. Curley said today he would second the nomination of John N. Garner, of Texas, for renomination for Vice President at the Democratic convention as he had done in 1932.

Gov. Curley made his statement just before he left by train for the convention in Philadelphia.

Steward, Green Ideas Written In Merit Plank

Covering of the Emergency Agency Workers Under Civil Service Asked.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25. — A pledge to extend the civil service to "all non-policy-making positions in the Federal service, and to cover under the merit system other permanent Federal jobs," was written into the Democratic platform here tonight.

The plank adopted part of the language used by President Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employes, and answered pleas for civil service extension also made before the resolutions committee by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and several women's organizations.

It compared in strength with the civil service pronouncement made to the Republican convention at Cleveland by Gov. Alf Landon, of Kansas, who proposed that all Government offices below the rank of undersecretary come under the merit system.

Unlike Landon's declaration, however, it didn't specifically promise to cover the postoffice and first, second and third class postmasters into the system, but resolutions committeemen insisted this construction could be drawn.

With the Administration now carrying the largest peace-time pay roll in history, and with most of the New Deal laws calling for appointments in emergency agencies outside of civil service, there are some critics here who charge the committee approved the plank figuratively with its tongue in its cheek.

An effort to "blanket" into the civil service permanent patronage employes, through special legislation next session was seen in the following clauses:

"We shall subject to the civil service law all continuing positions which, because of the emergency, have been exempt from its operation."

The paragraph, which followed closely the plank laid before the committee by Steward, follows: "For the protection of government itself and promotion of its efficiency we pledge the immediate extension of the merit system through the classified civil service—which was first established and fostered under Democratic auspices—to all non-policy-making positions in the Federal service."

Charlottesville High Honors Announced

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 25.—The scholarship offered by the local Rotary Club to the girl in Lane High School making the highest general average in her studies during the session and who is going to college has been awarded to Ann Maury Van Doren. The highest ranking girl graduate of the class, however, was Marion Taylor, but she does not intend to pursue a college course.

The scholarship to the University of Virginia, donated by the Albemarle Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to the boy whose work was outstanding in extra-curricular activities, goes to Wallace Dabney Trevillian, class president.

The scholarship offered by the University of Virginia to the boy making the highest grade in his class was won by Arthur Tuthill.

Winners of the prizes offered by the city school board were: Best short stories, first, "One More Yankee," Jean Spicer; second, "He Murdered Himself," Margaret Coleman. Best essays, first, "Revolution," Herta Spatzer; second, "Meeting an Appointment With My Dentist," Bill Snavely. Best poem, first, "Beauty Immortal," Mary Winston Crockett; second, "Sonnet," Charles Freeman.

Church Women Meet.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frostburg, Md., June 25.—The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Frederick District met today at First Methodist Episcopal Church. A business session was held with Mrs. George Hunter, Berkeley Springs, W. Va., president of the district, in charge. Devotions were led by the Rev. F. Reid Isaac, jr., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

Jail Breaker Caught.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Danville, Va., June 25.—Frank Miller, colored, city farm trusty, who recently escaped from the institution is back again today with all privileges removed and with 30 days extra to serve. A policeman found him lolling against a post on the city's main street. He told the officer that he had forgotten that he was a prisoner.

Parade

ments. You can bet that nothing like this will ever happen again."

But it was doubtful that 10,000 more police could have handled the crowd when it decided to move. The streets were black with people for miles in every direction visible from the front of the Museum, and were packed liket Moscow's Red Square before the tomb of Lenin for a Stalin speech.

The stands, which had filled completely by 6:30 p. m. everywhere they had been built, were soon linked by thousands upon thousands of people sitting on the curbs and grassy spots of the Parkway. Then they stood, as the pressure behind became greater. Then the police hastily strung 2-inch ropes along the entire route. In half an hour after they were put up, the crowd had passed completely beyond and was 20 deep in front of the ropes, which served as a backstop when the police pushed against the mob-front.

Attempt to Cut Wedge.

When at last the parade began the police superintendent sent every available mounted trooper, three white Voice-of-Safety loud-speaker cars, two squadrons of motorcycle police, a half-dozen prowl cars and a small battalion of police on foot with unloaded rifles, ahead of the parade as a flying battalion to cut a wedge through the now solidly jammed streets for the marchers.

Moving as fast as they dared, and trying to remain good - natured with the crowd these police exhorted and urged and sweated passage way open. It was impossible. Only when the brass bands and the marchers finally appeared did the crowd part, and then reluctantly and only because they were being pressed back by rifle bearnig police at 10-yard intervals.

Fist Fight Disrupts Convention

ons. Men and women spectators rushed from their seats away from the fighting.

Smith Attacked.

A few minutes later Senator Clark, of Missouri, on the platform to read the report of the rules committee, referred to the fight.

"The conduct of a few interlopers here in behalf of Alfred E. Smith is in contrast with the conduct of the great body of Democrats here," he said. "It forms an adequate comparison of Al Smith and the Liberty Leauge on one hand and President Roosevelt and the Democratic Party on the other."

It was the fist attack made upon Smith since the opening of the convention. Mention of Smith's name was booed.

Smith last Sunday wrote a letter to the delegates asking them to "put aside" President Roosevelt and to nominate a "genuine Democrat."

Later David Lawrence, Democratic State chairman of Pennsylvania, went to the platform and told the delegates that the "demonstration" was the work of "hoodlums from the Second Ward of Philadelphia."

"Their leader, "he said, "has been identified as a Republican worker in his precinct. His companions were Republicans from the same district. The demonstration was arranged this afternoon. It is significant that motion picture operators were in the gallery when it started."

Lawrence said that the scene was "typical of what always has confronted the Democratic Party in Philadelphia and throughout Pennsylvania."

"I serve notice," he concluded, "that the day of such tactics as well as ballot-box stuffing and other skullduggery is over in Pennsylvania."

The crowd loudly cheered this statement.

Motion picture men later protested to convention officials against the Lawrence statement that they had their cameras ready to photograph the fight. They denied the charge and said they had known nothing about it in advance.

Girl Seeks Record.

Special Dispatches to The Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 25.—Virginia Republican leaders will gather here tomorrow for the Seventh District convention of the Young Republicans preparatory to the State gathering at Woodstock Saturday.

W. C. Demming, of Front Royal, Seventh District chairman, will be the keynote speaker.

Other leaders expected here and at Woodstock are H. B. McCormack, Winchester, State chairman; Henry B. Wise, Accomac, Virginia national committeeman; John Locke Greene, Arlington, candidate for Congress in the Eighth Virginia District; the Rev. John Locke, Woodstock, president of the Virginia Young Republicans; Mrs. W. H. Logan, Woodstock, secretary of the Young Republicans; Mrs. Murray Boocock, of Albemarle County, Republican national committeewoman; J. Everett Will, Luray, candidate for Congress in the Seventh District; Mayor-Elect John W. Morrison, of Harrisonburg, former Seventh District chairman; J. Givens Fulton, Grottoes, State executive committeeman, and D. Wampler Earman, Harrisonburg, State executive committeeman at large.

Planks Meet Needs of All, Jones Asserts

Administration Blessing to Everyone, RFC Chairman Says.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Tired delegates, who had just completed the only real business thus far before the Democratic National Convention—adoption of the platform and abrogation of the two-thirds rule—restlessly listened to more speeches tonight.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, who has been mentioned as a 1940 Presidential possibility, recited his conception of the virtues of the New Deal. He declared that the platform just adopted "met all the requirements for a successful Administration in the interest of all the people."

"The Roosevelt Administration has been a blessing to every man, woman and child in the United States," he said. "If it had not been for the Government credit agencies I shudder to think where we would be today."

Answering charges that the Administration had violated 1932 platform pledges, Jones explained that at the time it was written private relief had not broken down and the Government had not found it necessary to take it over. He said he favored withdrawal of emergency agencies as soon as possible.

"I want to slow down and stop Government spending when we can," he said, "but if we jam on the brakes too suddenly another wreck will be inevitable."

Guy T. Helvering, of Kansas, collector of internal revenue, read two telegrams from his State telling of the switching of voters from the Republican to the Democratic Party.

"Kansas is the home State of the candidate of Hearst and the Liberty League," he said, "but nevertheless, it will vote Democratic in November."

On the floor of the convention a demonstration was staged in honor of Gov. Curley of Massachusetts. The delegation, led by Curley himself, marched around the floor with a band, flags and an armed color guard. Curley recently said he would accept the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination if it was offered, but thus far the convention has shown no disposition whatever to "put aside" Vice President Garner.

Spinsters Seeking Pension Equality

London, June 25 (U.P.).—English spinsters, seeking equality with widows in the matter of pensions, will carry their campaign to the streets of London tomorrow.

The "spinster army" plans a huge parade through the city, including the fashionable West End. Special trains will bring the army from all over England.

Miss Florence White, of Bradford, the leader, said: "We have more than 352,000 members and now we want to get London interested." She said spinsters should be on an equal basis with widows who obtain 10 shillings weekly when they become 55.

Newton D. Baker Backs Landon—as Club Head

Cleveland, June 25 (AP).—Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in President Woodrow Wilson's Cabinet, had a chuckle today about his fraternity brothers' sunflower badges.

At a convention dinner of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity last night, sunflower badges were passed around boosting Gov. Alf M. Landon, a member of the fraternity, "for President."

Baker, also a member, was asked to verify a report he accepted a badge advocating Mr. Landon's be very glad to wear a Landon badeg advocating Mr. Landon's election as president—of the fraternity. I carried the badge."

Attack on U. S. Court Deplored by Talmadge

Atlanta, June 25 (AP).—Democratic Convention utterances of Senator Alben W. Barkley and Senator Joe T. Robinson drew from Gov. Eugene Talmadge today the comment:

"I hate to see my party behaving that way.

"The Supreme Court, unintimidated and unafraid, is the bulwark of freedom of any country. I hope that $4,800,000,000 is not making our boys arrogant up there."

The Georgia executive forecast yesterday that President Roosevelt would be defeated and the "solid South" broken by New Deal "violation of the principle of State rights."

Escort of 1,000 Greets Landon At Estes Park

By the Associated Press.

Estes Park, Colo., June 25.—One thousand Coloradans on horseback welcomed Gov. Alf M. Landon today to Estes Park, where the Republican Presidential nominee plans to "rest and catch trout" for the next ten days.

"A tremendous sight," said the Kansas Governor as his automobile topped a small mountain and he looked down into the hollow of Estes Park, jammed with cheering men, women and children, each astride a trail horse.

At the van of the throng was Mayor C. N. Rockwell of Estes Park, who accompanied the Governor through the village and then to the secluded McGraw Ranch, 7 miles north, which the Landons have leased for the summer.

Landon told the crowd he was "in a big rush" to fish a Colorado trout stream. At the ranch in his second press conference of the day, Landon shunned politics and insisted he was in Colorado "to rest and catch trout."

Mrs. Landon and the two smaller Landon children, Nancy Jo, 4, and John Cobb, 2, were in a second car and Peggy Anne, the 19-year-old daughter, traveled in a third machine to the ranch.

At Longmont, north of Denver, the party, with about 30 cars carrying an official and unofficial welcoming committee, halted for ten minutes. A huge sign said: "Welcome Landon."

There was a pink elephant, made of cardboard, standing beside the street at the point where Landon stopped and told the crowd he was "glad to be in Colorado." Mrs. Landon was handed a huge bouquet of roses by Mayor Ray Lanyon and officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

Banners were strung about Estes Park and the village was in holiday mood when the Landon party arrived shortly before noon.

Goal of Lemke Is Presidency, Not Vote Split

Names States He Says He Will Carry; Hopes for Townsend Aid.

Detroit, June 25 (AP).—William Lemke, Union Party candidate for president, declared tonight after a conference with Father Charles E. Coughlin that his goal was not only to split the vote of either major party, but to attain the presidency.

"I will carry Ohio, all of New England, Michigan, most of the Middlewest, the extreme West, Pennsylvania and Illinois," the United States Representative from North Dakota said. "Indiana will be nip and tuck.

"I see the Union Party on top. I'm not concerned with who will be next."

He said he hoped to make alliances with the Farmer's Union, the Farmer Labor Party and the old-age pension groups, in addition to Father Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice. Father Coughlin predicted that 85 per cent of the 5,000,000 members he claims for his National Union would vote for Lemke, although formal indorsement must await a convention in August.

Hope for Approval.

Both Lemke and Father Coughlin stressed the fact that no overtures had been exchanged with Dr. Francis E. Townsend and his group, but expressed the hope that indorsement would be given the new Union Party at the Townsend Clubs' convention next month.

In Philadelphia, however, Dr. Townsend said that "we may nominate a man of our own" for the presidency as a move to bring out the Townsend vote, which he claimed totaled 20,000,000.

Townsend said he would "not be interested at all" in the Lemke movement unless delegates at the convention in Cleveland manifest "profound interest."

Lemke declared that, if elected, he would propose an embargo on imports of "all farm products and all other goods that can be produced in the United States at a profit."

Father Coughlin said the union party's platform would call for "wiping out $20,000,000 worth of bonds held by banks as security for credit to the Government." Denying that would be repudiation, he said that bankers "obtained the bonds with nothing and they should be paid with nothing."

Father Coughlin said he had "a good idea" what would be in the Democratic platform, and declared that it was "repudiated before it was written."

Asked if he would accept a Cabinet position in the event of Lemke's election, Father Coughlin said he would "not accept any Government position."

Farm-Labor Vote Drops in Minnesota

St. Paul, June 25 (AP).—The Republican vote at the Minnesota primary election June 15 exceeded the Farmer-Labor total by 13,983, official returns announced today by the State canvassing board showed. It was the first time since 1930 that the Farmer-Labor Party took second place.

The Republican total was 209,510 and the Farmer-Labor 195,527. The total Democratic vote was 129,272.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Labor nominee for United States Senator, got 175,652 votes; his Republican opponent, Representative Theodore Christianson, 143,684, and the Democratic nominee, Patrick J. Delaney, 78,807.

Martin A. Nelson, Republican gubernatorial choice, received 174,586 votes. United States Senator Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite, who will oppose Nelson, received 126,088 votes, while Fred A. Curtis, Democratic nominee, received 66,423.

Church Women Hear Missionary to China

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 25.—The Rev. H. H. McMillan, a missionary from China, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union, auxiliary to the Shiloh Baptist Association, today at the Baptist Church at Criglersville, presided over by Mrs. Mack Marshall, superintendent.

Following organization and the reading of the report of the treasurer, Bettie Jones, talks were made by Mrs. Robert E. Miller, Mrs. Rufus W. Clore, Mrs. A. H. Shipman and Mrs. A. N. Fray. Blanche White, of Richmond, discussed the jubilee of the Union.

Other speakers during the morning were Mrs. A. L. Piercy, Mrs. May O. Graves, Mary L. Willis, Mrs. Rosa B. Kite, Mrs. Orville Nalle, Mrs. L. R. Hudson, Mrs. J. Frank Jones, Mrs. W. Booton Hitt, Mrs. R. Kessear, Mrs. B. R. Cox and Mrs. R. E. Miller.

Geraldine Fray spoke of the value of holding camps during the summer months, and Mrs. Fray discussed the Sunbeam Jubilee. The session closed with a memorial service conducted by Mrs. J. R. Tinsley.

2,000 at Outing Of Northeast's Business Men

Dr. Greaves Wins Horse Race; Bathing Beauty Contest Is Held.

The Northeast Business Men's Association—members and their families—sailed down the Potomac on the City of Washington yesterday to Marshall Hall on an annual frolic that lasted all day.

Two thousand persons were there. It was like a carnival or a fair. It was like a picnic, too. "Miss Washington" was picked from 16 dance hall. A rodeo was held and supper were eaten in the open dancehall. A rodeo was held and a greasy pig was chased for a slippery half-mile. Boxers and wrestlers plied their sport—and dancing lasted till nearly midnight.

The day was fair and warm, and the first boatload of vacationers arrived shortly before noon. Men and women and children, out for a holiday, continued to arrive till late afternoon.

Lunch was served at 12:30 p. m. That began the program.

After the last dessert was finished, guests went to the Marshall Hall stadium to watch a horse race and a mule race. For 200 jogging yards four prominent men cantered in the horse race. Dr. James J. Greavy, dentist, finished first, followed by Sam Rice and Walter Johnson, famous former "Nats."

Sixteen Washington girls tried for the beauty contest awards. Evelyn Thomas, of 1811 Wyoming avenue northwest, was picked as Miss Washington. Second was Grace Linkins, of 1330 Massachusetts avenue northwest. Maxine Cling, of 1117 Vermont avenue northwest, and Loujean Barker, 2410 Twentieth street northwest, were third and fourth.

Randy Simmons, Indian Creek, Md., caught the greasy pig. The name of the pig was Buzzy. He was black with lightning in his hoofs and a squeal in his lungs. It took 15 minutes to catch him. The prize was the pig himself.

John Papas was chairman of the committee in charge of the outing. Among judges in various contests were Capt. Dick Mansfield, Metropolitan police; Walter Johnson, Nick Altrock, famous baseball comedian; R. Dunn, president of the association; Lou Bowdler, vice president of the organization; Lieut. R. M. Bauer, of Fort Meyer; Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, who made the awards to beauty contest winners.

Col. C. W. Bowen Dies In Virginia Auto Crash

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 25.—Lieut. Col. Charles W. Bowen, of York, Pa., official in the Federal Housing Administration, was fatally injured near here today when his automobile crashed into a beer truck.

Walter Parish, Clinton, Md., was held by local police pending a coroner's inquest.

Col. Bowen was driving on the Lee highway a short distance from here when the wreck occurred. Both machines were demolished.

Democrats' Use of Sound Truck Protested by G.O.P.—in Vain

Roosevelt Rally Advertised With Blares, but Even Police Cannot Do Anything About It; Special Privileges, It Seems, Is the Reason.

The ugly head of special privilege, allegedly a playfellow of politics, has been lifted in the streets of voteless and pure Washington, it was learned at police headquarters yesterday.

It seems that police officials have granted permission for the "Roosevelt Nominators," sponsors of the Democratic rally at Griffith Stadium tomorrow night, to operate a sound truck broadcasting advertisement for the affair into the city's formerly partisanless atmosphere.

So the device, used with such telling effect by the late Senator Huey P. Long in his whirlwind campaigns for himself and Senator Hattie Caraway and adopted widely throughout the less pure States as a substitute for the stump of Andy Jackson and Davy Crockett, bellows invitations to listen at the ball park to the President's acceptance speech.

Protests Received.

It was understood that many protests against operations of the truck have been received at police headquarters from the righteous and the Republicans, the latter believing there is some connection between the fact that District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, a "Roosevelt Nominator," is in charge of the horse brigade in the rally parade tomorrow, and that Commissioner George E. Allen is now at Philadelphia engaged in nominating Roosevelt.

The question in the minds of protestors is that they don't remember other sound truck sullying the city's echos with commercialization, for such they believe the purpose of the broadcasts to be as the money resulting from the rally is to go toward the Democratic campaign fund.

Strictly Against Law.

They are right, at least in the memory of old-timers at police headquarters who do not care to be quoted can be trusted. The broadcasts from sound trucks are strictly against the law, the anonymous policemen say, but "what can we do," they add, as "we have been ordered not to interfere with the truck."

One commentator argued that it is recognized that loud shouting from moving vehicles has been deemed rather of a traffic hazard as was similar broadcasting of advertisements and music from airplanes overhead. Motorists had to crane necks to see the source and consequently did not see the other automobile, it was pointed out.

In one policeman's memory the only such device he had heard abroad in the town was Traffic Bureau Capt. Milton D. Smith's late "Voice of Safety," which went around warning motorists that they had cut a corner or failed to stick out their hand. This experiment has been languishing for several months.

In the official order to the force from the front office of the Police Department telling the men on the beat and in the patrol cars and on the motorcycles not to "interfere" with the sound truck in discharging their duties, which include the tagging of parked cars and reporting of depressions in the sidewalk and location of dead cats, it was stated that it was understood the truck would keep moving so as not to retard traffic.

Fliers' Parachutes to Carry Kit Of Supplies for Jungle Landings

"Jungle emergency landing kits," which are carried in parachutes, have been developed by the Army Air Corps for use in the Philippines and the Panama Canal Zone.

For several years it has been the practice of Army pilots flying over jungle regions to carry a small bag loaded with emergency supplies in case of forced landing for protection against the many hostile jungle forces, from dense shrubbery to poisonous reptiles and insects.

In most cases, however, pilots making forced landings would be separated from their planes and the emergency supplies. To remedy this the new emergency landing kit has been developed.

The kits are designed so they can be inserted in parachutes in the place of the air-inflated cushion. While flying, the pilot uses the kit as a cushion, his weight having no effect on its contents.

In the kit are a standard Army engineer corps prismatic compass to assist the aviator in finding his way to his station; a bolo knife to hack his way through shrubbery; a standard Army mosquito headnet to protect the head and neck from insect bites; a water-proof box of matches; another water-proof matchbox containing a one-fourth ounce bottle of iodine; a small bottle of quinine to be used as a preventive for fever; a standard Army .45-caliber pistol with ammunition, and two pounds of emergency rations inclosed in a moisture-proof airtight container.

Ex-Senator Dill Fights Charges Of Wife in Suit

Each Accuses the Other in Spokane Divorce Action Brought by Him.

By the Associated Press.

Spokane, Wash., June 25.—Charges that former United States Senator C. C. Dill drank "like a fish," and that his wife had "filthy and disreputable habits of dress," echoed through a courtroom here today in opening testimony of a contested divorce action.

Dill, now a Washington, D. C., attorney, filed the suit, charging Mrs. Dill with cruelty and desertion. She answered with counter charges.

Both Mrs. Dill, the former Rosalie Gardner Jones, of New York, militant campaigner for women's rights, and Dill were in court.

The Senator's depositions sought to support his contention that Mrs. Dill told friends he "drank like a fish," and that he was losing his mind; also that she dressed with poor taste, injured him politically with labor by underpaying and starving their servants, and buried dead dogs in the yard of their Spokane home. Mrs. Dill's one deposition complimented her on her dress and disposition.

In an opening statement, Frank Graves, chief of Mrs. Dill's counsel, said she turned over large amounts of money to the then Senator and, for several years after their fashionable Long Island, N. Y., wedding, gave him $1,000 a month.

"Unless he is the biggest hypocrite who ever penned a letter to a devoted and loving wife," Graves shouted, "he had not criticism of her."

Sometimes, he said, the late Speaker Byrns of the House of Representatives, Vice President John Garner and other notables were along.

"There often was liquor on our fishing parties," he said, "but I have never seen the Senator take a drink on one of these parties."

Parachute Saves Life of Test Pilot

Hagerstown, Md., June 25 (AP).—Richard Henson, test pilot for a local airplane corporation, joined the "caterpillar club" this afternoon when he was forced to leap in a parachute from a plane he was testing. He landed safely on a farm near Mason-Dixon, ten miles north of here. The plane fell nearby and was demolished.

According to Henson, he was testing a device which would assist in recovery during certain manuevers. The test was being conducted in level flight and was proceeding satisfactorily when a cable attaching the device fouled the rudder control cable. This caused the plane to go out of control. Henson shut off the ignition, climbed out on the wing and leaped to safety.

The issue—that of the Washington Post of July 13, 1889—mentioned in a sports page story an outfielder named Billy Sunday.

Not Candidate For Assembly, Says Burnside

Former Prince Georges Judge Rejects Offer of Tingley Vacancy.

Waldo Burnside, of Hyattsville, former judge of the Prince Georges County police court, has informed Democratic leaders of the county that he will not be a candidate for the Maryland Legislature in the November elections.

It was expected, according to those in authority, that Burnside would be the party's selection for the vacancy made by the resignation of Egbert F. Tingley. Tingley resigned to become postmaster at Hyattsville.

Among others who have stated definitely they will not be in the running are H. Winship Wheatley, attorney and president of the Young Men's Democratic Club of the county, and Caesar L. Aaello, former commander of the State Department of the American Legion. He also is an attorney.

The selection of the candidate will be made by the Democratic State central committee of the county. The Republican State central committee will announce its candidate at an outing at Fords Beach, Md., July 18. Voting for the legislative seat will constitute the only local contest next November.

492 Farmers in Page Join in Soil Program

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Luray, Va., June 25.—According to figures compiled by G. W. Clark, county agent, 492 farmers of Page County have taken advantage of the Government's soil building and conservation program.

Clark's figures show 236 farmers took part in the old control program and 259 in the corn and hog control program. Clark says this will mean the distribution of about $50,000 in this county.

Page County has been assigned $10.50 per acre for the diversion of farm lands from soil depletion crops to soil conserving crops.

Roosevelt Rally To Draw 3,000 FromArlington

County Democrats estimated last night that more than 3,000 of their party members from Arlington would attend or participate in the rally at Washington tomorrow night.

The Young Democratic Club and all other organizations affiliated with the party will join in the parade and the celebration at Griffith Stadium, where President Roosevelt's acceptance speech will be heard from loud speakers.

Arthur C. Stickley, chairman of the finance division of the National Democratic committee for the county, announced the county section of the parade would form at Sixth street and Constitution avenue at 6:45 p. m.

Stickley requested that all persons seeking information about the plans communicate with him at his office opposite the courthouse. He said persons distributing tickets should make their returns to him not later than tomorrow afternoon.

Bill Expanding Air Unit Signed By Roosevelt

54 Others Made Into Law as He Continues on Renomination Speech.

Legislation against strike breaking, for the expansion of the Army Air Corps and assuring a continued 3½ per cent interest rate for farm borrowers topped the list of 55 bills signed into law yesterday by President Roosevelt.

As the Chief Executive continued work on the renomination acceptance speech he is to deliver tomorrow night in Philadelphia, the list of approved measures was made public yesterday.

By his signature he made it a felony to transport in interstate or foreign commerce persons to be employed to interfere or obstruct the rights of peaceful picketers in labor controversies.

More Planes Authorized.

Purchase of additional airplanes by the Army Air Corps, intended to bring this force up to 4,000 fighting planes within the next five years, was authorized in another measure he signed.

With a scratch of the executive pen he signed into law amendments to the farm credit and Federal farm acts.

The rate for farm borrowers would have gone up to 4 per cent July 1, and eventually to 4½ per cent in the future, under the law enacted a year ago. The House, however, passed a bill to continue the 3½ per cent rate for two years, but agreed to the Senate's insistence that the extension be limited to July 1, 1937.

Two District Measures.

Two of the bills to which the Chief Executive affixed his signature were District measures.

Foremost of these was an amendment to the District traffic act, which provides that first offenders in reckless driving cases shall henceforth pay more dearly for their carlessness than have their predecessors.

This law, passed by the Seventy-fourth Congress, allows the court to impose a penalty of $250 fine or three months in prison or both. The former provision, which it automatically repeals, set a maximum penalty for second-offense reckless driving convictions within two years will remain $1,000 or a year in jail or both.

The President also signed the bill which amends the District code to provide for perpetual succession of trust companies. The charters of the local trust companies were due to expire within two years, and this fact, it was said, was impairing their business.

Other Bills Approved.

Other approved bills provided:

Extension of the jurisdiction of the United States Court for China to offenses committed on the high seas.

Restoration of pension cuts for numerous veterans in the regular Army.

Still on the President's desk unsigned, in the big stack of pending legislation, were the ship subsidy bill and the Walsh-Healy bill, calling for wage and hour specifications in contracts for Governmental supplies.

He was returning to Philadelphia, he added. Tomorrow he will sail from New York on the Aquitania for his post in London.

Earlier in the day the Chief Executive also talked with Vice President Garner.

"The President and I never talk politics," Garner later said smilingly.

Among the other visitors to the White House were Gov. Brann, of Maine, who predicted his State and the Nation would go Democratic in the November election, and Resettlement Administrator Rexford Guy Tugwell, who announced his agency had been ordered to grant loans to farmers in the dry areas of South Carolina and Georgia.

11 Killed as Soldiers Defeat Arab Snipers

Jerusalem, June 25 (AP).—Nine Arabs, a British soldier and one Jew were killed today in encounters between British troops and Arabs near Nablus.

A detachment of Seaforth Highlanders vanquished a band of snipers in the Nablus hills in a five-hour battle, killing four and wounding three.

The Akraba British platoon in a cover-to-cover skirmish in the rocky hills killed two raiders and wounded one. The others were killed in outbursts of sniping, which gained in intensity in the Jerusalem area.

There is so much more to a playground patrolman's job than receiving awards, that when you do win one you may as well make the most of it.

Dorothy Valentine, patrol captain at Burroughs School playground, left her duties long enough yesterday afternoon to make this observation. She and the five other members of the patrol squad there had just been awarded the civic award banner from the American Automobile Association "for the high civic standard they maintained during the month of May."

"I like the work, understand," said Dorothy, "But we've a big job. We begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, and work until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Not all of us all the time—but some of us have to be here."

Dorothy explained it best in her report to the AAA — the report which convinced officials her patrol deserved first prize for the month.

"The members of the patrol are Dorothy Valentine, captain, and Ernest Morrissette, Betty Ann Dorr, Jack Wise, Bernice Lovett and Margaret Welsh," the captain reported.

"During the recess, Ernest stands near the corners of the grass so no one will run on it. Betty Ann watches the porches so no childish voices will ring through the corridors.

"Bernice watches the volley ball net because some people pull on and ruin it. Margaret plays around the swings and will not let any child stand up.

"Jack does not let any foolish children run down the slide and hurt themselves. Some of the boys on our playground have rolled the tennis courts and have now given us a chance to play tennis. The school boy patrols have helped us by doing odd jobs."

Such is life on the playground patrol.

Six Washington playgrounds were included in the awarding of prizes yesterday. Loban shared first place with Burroughs. Second place went to Virginia avenue and Rose Park, and third to Twin Oaks and Payne. These schools keep their banners for a month, after which they go to June winners.

Rites Tomorrow For Willis Lephew

Special services will be held at Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow at 11 a. m. for Willis Lephew, 67, of 5 Midhurst road, Silver Spring, Md., who died of pneumonia Wednesday in Walter Reed Hospital.

The funeral will be conducted at 10 a. m. at Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest. The Richard J. Harden Camp, No. 2, of Spanish-American War Veterans, will conduct the services at the grave.

McAdoo Son's Ex-Wife Becomes Bride in Miami

Miami, Fla., June 25 (AP).—Mrs. Lorraine Rowan McAdoo and Thomas Shelvin, jr., of New York, were married today by County Judge W. F. Blanton at the courthouse.

They planned to leave tonight for Cat Cay, in the Bahamas, where Shelvin has a home.

The bride, who gave her age as 30, and Robert McAdoo, son of the California Senator, were divorced yesterday. Shelvin, 22, is a son of the noted Yale football player of the same name.

Bolters' Protest Mysteriously 'Lost'

Philadelphia, June 25 (AP).—The question of what became of the statement of Alfred E. Smith and four other anti-New Dealers asking that the party convention nominate a "genuine Democrat" for President bobbed up today in James A. Farley's press conference.

Told that friends of Smith said the statement had been mailed, the Democratic national chairman, who also is Postmaster General, said he had not received it and knew of no one who had.

New York, June 25 (AP).—Former Supreme Court Justice Daniel Cohalan, who with Alfred E. Smith and three other anti-New Deal Democrats, issued a statement to the Philadelphia Democratic convention, said today the statement was mailed last Sunday night and bore the following address:

"In care of the temporary chairman."

Gen. Sherrill, U. S. Diplomat, Writer, Is Dead

Heart Attack Is Fatal at Paris Home; Won Fame in Athletics.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, June 25.—Brig. Gen. Charles Hitchcock Sherrill, American diplomat and writer, died unexpectedly tonight of a heart attack at his Paris home. He was 69.

He had resided in Paris since retiring as Ambassador to Turkey in 1933. He was United States Minister to Argentina from 1909 to 1911, when he declined to become Ambassador to Japan because of ill health and left the diplomatic service, to which he did not return until he took the post at Istanbul in 1932.

Gen. Sherfill originated a series of international inter-university track athletic matches, the first between Yale and Oxford in 1894. He won seven intercollegiate championships himself, and was the American 100-yard champion in 1887.

He was a member of the executive committee of the international Olympic sports committee and at one time was chairman of the aviation commission of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

He mastered eight languages, including Turkish and Russian, by a self-invented system, and was able to make public addresses in all of them.

He is survived by his wife and a son, Gibbs W. Sherrill, of Boston.

Services Are Held For Drowned Trio

The bodies of Mrs. Nancy Curry Parker, 41, of 4029 Columbia pike, Arlington County, Va., and her daughters, Isobel, 10, and Patricia Ann, 8, all of whom were drowned in Lake Charlevoix, near Ironton, Mich., Wednesday, were cremated near the scene of the tragedy yesterday.

Parker, a veteran of many years in the Navy and an accountant in the Interior Department, telephoned relatives here last night from Michigan that he intended to bring his other two daughters, Dorothy, 13, and Ellen, 3, back to Washington.

Mrs. Parker lost her life in an attempt to rescue Isobel and Patricia Ann, both of whom stepped beyond their depth. The three sank together. Their bodies were recovered several hours later. Parker and his other two daughters were visiting several miles away at the time.

He'll Give Razzberries To Sunflower Wearers

By the Associated Press.

Secretary Morgenthau had a quick comeback yesterday for reporters who arrived at his press conference wearing the sunflower emblem of Gov. Alf M. Landon's Presidential candidacy.

"I'll bring you all some razzberries when I return from my farm next week," he said.

Ex-Lieutenant Was Honored for Heroism in Action During War.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Lieut. Alexander Jenkins Converse, 46, one of the outstanding heroes of the World War and son of Mrs. Antonia Thornton Jenkins Converse, of the Everett Hotel.

Lieut. Converse died Sunday in a hospital at Dublin, Ohio, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near O'Shaughnessy Dam, Ohio, where he had gone with his daughter, Alice, on a trip from his home, Cherry Lane Farm, near Powell, Ohio. His car, according to reports, was struck ay another machine which speeded into it broadside at an intersection.

Lieut. Converse was the grandson of Admiral Thornton A. Jenkins and Judge George L. Converse, of Ohio.

Father Retired.

Lieut. Converse's father was Col. George L. Converse, jr., famous Indian fighter, who now is retired and lives at Columbus, Ohio.

Born in that town, he was educated at Virginia Military Institute, where he distinguished himself in athletics and studies.

He then went to the Philippines as the youngest captain in the Philippine Constabulary. Hurt in 1912 in the line of duty, he was invalided home.

When the World War broke out in 1914 Lieut. Converse enlisted with the Canadians. He became a commissioned officer and served through fours years at the front, being wounded four times and winning the D. S. O. for gallantry under fire.

Wounded at Ypres.

At the third battle of Ypres he was wounded and he was reported missing for months as he lay in a hospital between life and death. He recovered and returned to the United States in 1919, where he lived with his mother for two years.

Later he was on Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer's "red squad," and was credited with having arrested "Red Mary," a radical character of that era, and her four sons, single-handed.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Clara Converse; a daughter, Alice Carol, who was with him at the time of the accident last week, and a son, Stanley Pendleton Converse. He leaves his mother, his father and a brother, Maj. George L. Converse 3d, U. S. A., retired, of Columbus.

Funeral services were held on his farm last Tuesday under the auspices of the Episcopal Church, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

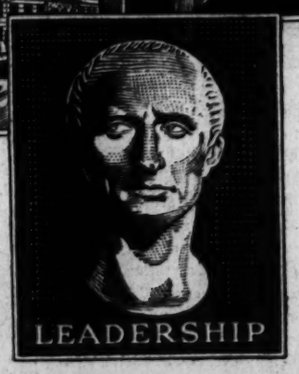
They tell you that only Budweiser tastes like Budweiser....that its utterly distinctive, dry flavor will continue to please you long after you've forgotten less distinguished brews. How about another bottle?

Largest bottling plant on Earth. The demand for Budweiser made it necessary. Capacity: 2,799,300 bottles per day. Fifty-five freight cars can be loaded simultaneously on its basement tracks . . . forty-four more at outside platforms. Visitors are cordially invited to inspect our plant.



Beer used as money? Yes—for hundreds of years. German monks in the Ninth Century were first to accept beer in place of coin. The practice lasted for centuries and spread to England. Think what purchasing power a bottle of cold Budweiser would have had in those days!

Two Out Of Four.

With respect to traffic bills during the last session of Congress, Washington scored twice in four trips to the plate. Yesterday the President signed a bill to amend the local traffic law, allowing an increase in the maximum penalties for reckless driving. Some weeks ago the Commissioners were empowered by another act to prohibit driving in Washington by persons holding permits from other jurisdictions after they have violated local regulations.

The logic of the second bill is self-evident. As for the first, it must be stressed that the maximum penalties are not made mandatory. It simply makes it possible for a judge to bring an excessively dangerous driver to heel. Instead of a maximum fine of $100 for first offense speeding, the limit has been raised to $250. Maximum imprisonment has also been raised, from 30 to 90 days, with the proviso that both jail sentence and fine may be imposed if deemed necessary. For a second offense within two years, the maximum penalty remains at a fine of $1,000 or a year in jail, or both. There will be no objection to these stiff punishments if they tend to rid Washington of its high number of criminally reckless drivers.

In regard to two other traffic proposals, however, the District was not so fortunate. Neither the bill to compel semiannual mechanical inspection of all motor vehicles nor the bill to establish a magistrate court reached enactment. One possible criticism of the former lies in the fact that compulsory inspection can result in a racket unless carefully supervised. But such a danger can be completely avoided by careful legislation. And with hard times keeping many an undependable vehicle on the road long after its designers visualized it in the dump-heap, the need for periodic inspection is clear. As for the magistrate court, it was proposed as a means of easing the confusion in the Police Court by taking from it the bulk of the minor traffic cases. But certain members of the House and Senate objected to any extension of the District judiciary, though just why is not entirely clear.

In any case, no valid objections have yet been raised to either of the two bills which died in pigeon-holes. Washington will look forward to their early reintroduction next January, confident that their true worth will not be missed by next year's guardians of the Capital.

The Taxes Come Later.

The people of the Philippines have begun to discover that independence, while a beautiful flower, may also be very costly in the nurturing.

As newly created field marshal of the Philippine army, Gen. Douglas P. MacArthur, former United States chief of staff, has been enjoying the rare experience of having a virtually free hand in building up a nation's defense system and being able to do so from the ground up. It goes without saying that Gen. MacArthur will do a good job. It is also obvious that the expense will be staggering.

Hitherto the Filipinos have been within the sheltering arms of Uncle Sam and have not had to bother their heads about the protection of their island archipelago against outside attack. They will now be pleased to learn from Gen. MacArthur that, from a military and naval point of view, the Philippines enjoy exceptional geographical advantages. But their joy will be tempered by the realization that to consolidate this advantage demands large outlays to make of each island a "citadel of defensive strength."

The first fruit of independence for the Filipinos was a system of conscription which will permit the creation of a regular army of around 7,500 officers and men and a reserve force trained at the rate of 40,000 men a year. To this is to be added a navy of fast torpedo craft and an air force of swift bombers. What all this will cost remains to be seen.

The present estimates are modest. Gen. MacArthur's plan for a Philippine navy calls for the expenditure of $80,000,000 during the next ten years, at the rate of only $8,000,000 a year. But unless the Philippines enjoy an altogether unique experience in defense history, armaments expenditure will not be limited to preliminary estimates. And it is harder to raise a million dollars from Manila than from Washington.

The American people will fervently hope that Gen. MacArthur is right in saying that the plan of defense he has proposed will make it possible for the Philippines to maintain "a peace of self-respect and self-reliance." But the achievement of this noble aim will inevitably mean for the Filipinos, as it has meant for all other peoples of the world, the necessity of tightening belts to pay for those enormously expensive toys that are the prerogative of national sovereignty.

Minimizing The Deficit.

In their addresses to the Democratic convention both Senator Barkley and Senator Robinson did their disingenuous best to minimize the size of the Federal deficit and the seriousness of the fiscal situation created by New Deal extravagance.

Senator Barkley, to be sure, vaguely realized that the deficit was a political liability. So he indulged in a little financial juggling, leading to the conclusion that the net increase in the Federal debt during the past three years is but little more than the increase during the Hoover Administration. This astounding result was reached by allocating all the RFC loans to the Roosevelt Administration and deducting them along with other so-called recoverable advances from gross debt totals.

Mr. Barkley also claimed for the Democrats the chief credit for the post-war debt reductions, "under sinking fund requirements passed in the Wilson Administration." He evidently forgot that succession of surpluses which a Republican Secretary of the Treasury used to retire outstanding indebtedness. But such perversions of fact are less disturbing than the obvious eagerness to escape frank discussion of budgetary problems. This same evasiveness is revealed in the empty but confident assertion that the Administration's "great problem of rehabilitation has been carried on not by endangering but by enhancing the credit of the Government."

Senator Robinson shows slightly more concern over the unbalanced state of the budget, but he, too, glosses over the truth by maintaining that the budget is balanced except for extraordinary expenditures. Moreover, he claims that prompt balancing of the budget would terminate all relief, leaving the unemployed to suffer cold and hunger. Even the most superficial analysis of the spending record of the Seventy-fourth Congress shows the utter falsity of such an assumption. Senator Robinson surely does not need to be reminded of the bonus act, the sums voted for work relief that could be expended more economically for direct aid, the huge outlays for flood control, rural electrification, defense and other projects of a non-relief character. If the Senator from Arkansas had remembered these things, the Republican platform declaration in favor of speedy budget balancing without new taxation would not have seemed so absurdly impossible of attainment.

Apparently both Senator Barkley and Senator Robinson think that the Administration's spending program can be adequately defended by emphasizing the nobility of purpose of the New Dealers and the desirability of the ends sought. They simply refuse to recognize that financial stability cannot be preserved unless expenditures are brought within the capacity of the country to pay. Although the best legislative plans are sure to be frustrated if public credit is destroyed, these spokesmen for the Democratic Party fail to realize that the unbridled spender is the worst foe of the underprivileged.

This is no time for concealment of the consequences of Government extravagance. The situation is the more dangerous because evidences of inflation are not apparent to the average man. The Government has financed deficits by placing its obligations in the banks which today hold about 60 per cent of the total outstanding Federal debt. As these securities are sold by establishing credits in favor of the Government, bank deposits rise and the volume of created bank purchasing power steadily expands. The longer spending continues to be financed in this way the greater becomes the menace of uncontrollable inflation. Public confidence may endure for a time as the well-oiled machinery for floating loans functions smoothly. But some day the public will awake to a perception of what is happening. Then the eloquence of politicians will be of no avail; nothing but a prompt reversal of spending policies will serve to prevent a major catastrophe to our monetary and credit system.

A Permanent Relief Agency.

As a result of budget cuts which have severely limited the funds available for payment of salaries to District relief workers, Public Welfare Director Street has been compelled to dismiss 125 employes of the public assistance division. However, reorganization of the local relief agency on a permanent basis, with greater security of tenure and better pay for the remaining employes, will undoubtedly increase administrative efficiency and partly compensate for the loss of funds.

The establishment of a permanent District relief agency is a recognition of the fact that the relief problems of today are likewise permanent in character and cannot adequately be handled by an emergency organization. It is essential to look ahead and develop long range policies to meet the demands of the future instead of pretending that the need is a passing one. More than a score of States have already taken action to establish permanent relief agencies; so the District is simply following a trend that has already become significant as an indication of the changing attitude toward the relief question.

The local reorganization will not only make it possible to attract and retain a more competent staff of workers, classified in accordance with civil service ratings, but, also, more intelligent planning will be possible under a permanent set-up. The waste of funds due to false starts, frequent changes of policy and high labor turnover, characteristic of emergency agencies, will be greatly reduced. As a result, each dollar spent for relief in the District after reorganization ought to go farther, representing more relief and less overhead.

Reviving The Entente.

The friendly reception which the French government's declaration on foreign policy has received in Great Britain presages a turn for the better in Anglo-French relations and with it a strengthening of the structure of peace in Europe.

The two great democracies of Western Europe have not been very happy bedfellows in the post-war period. The British have viewed with a baleful eye what seemed to them excessive legalism of the French attitude on international affairs. The French, for their part, have repeatedly thrown up their hands in despair at Great Britain's temperamental unwillingness to be pinned down to any future course of action, however logical.

Nonetheless, destiny has thrown them together as the co-guardians of Europe's peace. Britain's frontier, Stanley Baldwin has admitted, is now the Rhine. And for France that ancient rivalry with its neighbor across the Channel is a thing of the past. It is only Germany which France now fears. And while, in an effort to safeguard its security against another Teutonic incursion, the Third Republic has made persistent efforts to increase the number of its allies on the continent. Britain's friendship is still desired above all else.

It is an axiom among students of European affairs that when Great Britain and France have a falling out Europe's temperature rises; when the two nations find it possible to work harmoniously together war fevers on that continent subside. It was no coincidence that, in the years immediately following the war, when Anglo-French tension increased, Europe was in a turmoil; that when after the Ruhr occupation friendship was restored between them the Locarno agreement became possible. Invariably when they have worked together at Geneva the League has been strengthened; when they have not the League has been doomed to impotence.

It is clear that the Blum government, while anxious to establish good relations between France and all other nations, is particularly eager to restore the old entente cordiale. It is not surprising, therefore, that its declaration of policy is in many particulars an open bid for British support.

In promptly following the British lead regarding the abandonment of sanctions, in discussing the German problem without rancor or prejudice, in proposing that the duty of enforcing the Covenant of the League devolve primarily on regional groupings, which is what the British favor, the Blum regime has sounded a chord that is bound to have a welcome echo in London.

At Gibson Island.

On nearby Gibson Island the sixth annual summer research conferences conducted by the Johns Hopkins University are now in session. For a month leaders in biology, chemistry and physics will live together in idyllic surroundings while discussing the new problems that have arisen in their special fields.

The conferences developed from the fact that the national scientific societies have each grown to such size that their conventions have grown too unwieldy. So many papers are presented, for example, that there is scant opportunity for full discussion of any single subject. Smaller meetings were needed, not only for more complete consideration of new points but also for more intimate contact between men working on the same or related problems. The Hopkins summer conferences were the answer.

Generally, one topic is presented each day by a specialist. All discussion for the day centers about the work of this one man. Thus work in current fields is clarified and, as a corollary, new problems are opened up for study. This year's session will hear reports on new advances suggested at earlier conferences. The Gibson Island meetings are equivalent to the councils of an army: there the next campaigns are plotted against the enemy—in this case, of course, the Unknown.

The Rise In Diplomas

From the Texas Weekly.

Business and industry this spring recruited the largest number of men from the 1936 college graduating classes of any year since 1929 . . . Moreover, virtually all of the universities and colleges included in the survey report also that salaries are from 10 to 25 per cent above those offered graduates a year ago.

During the past few years a good many college students have wondered whether it was worth while to make an effort to continue their education. They can hardly be blamed for that, and the results of this survey certainly come under the head of good news. Employment is opening up again, and the first demand is for trained, qualified men and women. A college education continues to pay dividends in hard cash, and those students who graduated from institutions of higher education during the bleakest years of the depression will now learn that their efforts were not misplaced, financially speaking.

The Communist Convention.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

Once again the American people are being privileged to view the political wares of the two "major" parties. First, the Republican convention and now the Democratic convention. Same old story over again. For, we, the American people, it has always been heads we lose and for the Morgans, Rockefellers, duPonts, Hearsts, etc., tails they win.

We are being given the choice of the Republican Party, today the center of the most reactionary and fascist elements in the country who want to take away the hard-won democratic rights of the American people, cut relief and smash the labor movement; on the other hand we have the "liberal" New Deal Democratic Party, which has in the last four years made demagogic gestures toward the masses and been forced to make certain concessions to mass sentiment. What have we seen under Roosevelt: Veto of the bonus and restoration of Government employe wage cuts, rise of company unions under NRA, cutting of relief but largest military appropriation in history of the country; not a word against lynching of the Negro people, not a thing but words to prevent the Supreme Court from usurping the powers of Congress. Roosevelt is no barrier to reaction.

Today things are different from previous election years. The American people have found a third choice or road, learned from the Peoples Front in France and Spain. It is being expressed in America as a national Farmer-Labor Party, independent of all capitalist connections, ready to fight for the everyday political and economic needs of the American people.

Today, at the same time that the Democratic Party is holding its convention, the Communist Party is holding its national convention in New York City. What a vast difference in the two—one a gathering of politicians and big finance stooges, the other a rallying point of workers and farmers from every section and industry in this great country of ours, where a program will be hammered out to meet the present needs of the American people, the Farmer-Labor Party, unemployment, organizing the unorganized, the fight against war and fascism.

Sunday, June 28, from 4 to 5 p. m., the nominating session of the Communist Party convention will be broadcast, WJSV and WRC being the local outlets. Every intelligent American who is interested in finding a solution to his social problems is invited to listen in by the Communist Party of the U. S. A.

Still The Gulls.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

Senator Barkley's keynote opus, had it been delivered in the silver-tongued eloquence of William Jennings Bryan, is the kind multitudes would have swallowed whole several decades ago. Probably there are enough around that young and tender they will fall for it now.

It was a masterly bit of demagoguery. So clogged with seeming facings—really foggings—of fact, far-fetched claims, defenses of radical quackeries, and quotations in the billions that the average Deal voter will be too befuddled to translate it into coherence or reason.

The Senator's apery of the Republican keynoter's "three long years" refrain, did nothing to increase its conviction; and his harping back 12 years to excuse and camouflage the failures of the Deal, did even less.

All that raking up of ancient history is remindful of the man brought to the surgical ward with near-fatal wounds 12 years ago, and restored. Four years ago a motor smash-up again necessitated surgery. Now, bruised and shaken and in need of emergency treatment—and rest—he hears the amateur surgeons bicker over the merits and demerits of the artistry employed on him 12 and 4 years ago.

Honesty and sincerity are not yet in the kit of New Deal witch doctors. The pee-pul are still the gulls; while alibis are offered for blocking and stalling natural recovery and bucks are passed to business brigands, entrenched greetsters, liberty leagues and other sinister characters in the New Deal melodrama.

To increasing handfuls of reformed Roosevelt voters of '32 last night's keynote speech is summoned up in the words: "Essence of Futility."

DAN K. MILLER.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

There are two phrases in your long editorial this morning entitled "The Keynote Speech" that have a particularly patriotic American appeal to me. It may be an American "economic predilection" that makes me want to hold to the political philosophy and representative institutions George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and the "founding fathers" gave us. I cannot escape the conclusion that the reason why any man can get from a day's effort of brawn or/and brain here in America from 4 to 44 times more of the good things of life (wages, both real and apparent), than he can get in any other land is due to our institutions, and our traditional "political formalism." The only big difference that explains to me why we with only about one-fifteenth of the world's population have over half the automobiles, over half the telephones, over half the radios and over half all the other really good things the world has, is our institutions and American "Formalism."

How any true friend of the forgotten man or/and woman, or any thoughtful loving parent, unless his head is buried so far in the Federal tax trough that his ears, eyes and reason are drowned, can embrace any such "excessively modern" Russian "twentieth century collectivism" as this present New Dealism has us headed "hell bent" for I cannot comprehend.

As you suggest, "the keynoter vastly prefers a Government of men" to one of laws. I do not. That is why I do not prefer the New Deal or F. D. R. No doubt the Senator has reason to think he will be one of those few Government "men." Apparently Trotsky, Emma Goldman and some others also thought they would be the few "men" who would govern.

Autocratic government by men or women has not been popular in America, at least not since 1776 anyway. I cannot believe it ever will be, or anyway, as long as we have history read in our public schools, and the American people continue to have the same capacities for free institutions they have had in the past. There is no doubt there have been racial infiltrations of capacities for European collectivism and that the New Deal is a clear manifestation of such alienism. For after all institutions do reflect the character and capacities of peoples.

It does seem to me, a Democrat, that the present Democratic Party has been obsessed and dispossed by Communists and Socialists. I am no Communist nor Socialist. I believe life is a struggle for existence. I thank God it is. I do not believe other people's things should be deliberately taken away from them and "distributed," or given to someone else so that "someone else" can have something to be taken away from him. I think that is stealing and a violation of more than one of the Ten Commandments. I do not believe any one who advocates any such larceny and dishonesty, and at the same time pretends to pray and is said to say that what the country needs most is a religious awakening, is anything but a designing demagogue and downright hypocrite.

J. D. MASON.

Unfortunate Inference.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

In The Post of June 24 your astute and clever columnist, Franklyn Waltman, points out that the delegates now assembled at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia are composed, to a large extent, of Federal jobholders. In referring to the enthusiasm shown at the mention of the President's name, he makes the following statement: "These delegates along with the Democratic Senators and Representatives and the local party bosses through whom Federal patronage is dispensed are all beholden to Mr. Roosevelt. They do his bidding because their political prestige and strength is at stake and they are for him heart and soul for he represents their meal ticket."

In other words, Mr. Waltman cannot conceive of how those persons in the employ of the Federal New Deal agencies can conscientiously support Mr. Roosevelt but do so because of their jobs.

Doesn't this columnist by such an assumption lead the reading public to believe that he is not writing his own convictions? As a daily reader of Mr. Waltman's column, "Politics and People," I trust this is not the case, but nevertheless, this is the inference which he has made.

FRANK R. COLEMAN.

As It Might Have Been.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

While resignedly listening last evening to Senator Barkley's castigation of "the sinister figure of William Randolph Hearst," an amusing little thought came to me, to-wit:

Had it not been for the interposition at Chicago in 1932 of "the sinister figure of William Randolph Hearst," Senator Alben W. Barkley, temporary chairman and keynoter of the Democratic National Convention of 1936, would, in all probability, have devoted the major portion of his keynote speech to an inspiring eulogy of the achievements of the administration of that great leader and sterling Democrat, the thirty-second President of the United States, Alfred Emanuel Smith.

And, doubtless, on Friday, June 26, 1936, President Smith would be placed in nomination for a second term by his good and eloquent friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Governor of the State of New York, and would receive the unanimous vote of the convention.

The Cradle Of Greatness.

Post Office, Friday.

THIS columnist seldom sits in the seat of the literary judges; but there do come occasions when, a new work of classic worth seeming to be in danger of oblivion, he feels it his duty to assume the Johnsonian toga. He rarely undertakes the facile task of a Literary Guild or a Book-of-the-Month Club; but there do arise exigencies when it becomes necessary for him to indicate to such leagues their sins of omission — even, sometimes, frankly to revise their judgments.

* * *

* * *

We see that some of these organized "best-book" associations have named "Sparkenbroke," by Charles Morgan, as the "outstanding" novel of the present season. We see that, here in Washington, the currently best-selling novel is "Sparkenbroke."

So we say to Washington that "Sparkenbroke" oughtn't to be the best seller.

And we say to the "best-book" associations that "Sparkenbroke" isn't what they've said it is.

* * *

Instead, it is an essentially tedious trifle extended to egregious length—a melodrama, a "Castle of Otranto," feebly disguised as a psychological tragedy, a "Wilhelm Meister." "Sparkenbroke" is a necrophagous "Anthony Adverse." "Sparkenbroke" is—and we intend no Chestertonian paradox — Poe gone neurotic.

* * *

But were it a new "Tom Jones," a fresh "Awkward Age," it would still fall far short of being the Best Work of Fiction of 1936.

The Best Work of Fiction of 1936 is "Our Ethnic Inheritance."

* * *

So far as we know, this is the production of a pen heretofore fictionally virginal; but that only adds to its manifold elements of surprise. It is the product of a German novelist—but that only adds to the qualities which, given its other claims to greatness, might have been expected.

Alfred Rosenberg is the author.

* * *

Some while ago, Adolf Hitler appointed Dr. Rosenberg Sole Superintendent of Education for the Third Reich. Now "Our New Ethnic Science" is published in Das Lehrertagebuch — "The Teacher's Journal"—and it is nothing less than a complete recasting of universal history according to those principles whereby, it informs us, that subject must henceforth be taught throughout the Third Reich.

* * *

Shortsighted folk might think a task of this sort left little play for the fancy of the imaginative artist. Not so. The greater the difficulties of a problem the more the imaginative artist rejoices in overcoming them—his conquest of them is the measure of his greatness.

* * *

Ancient inscriptions once led such scholars as Germanic Mummsen to assert that Western Asia gave civilization to the world. In the glowing pages of the Sole Superintendent of Education, on the other hand, you are present at civilization's birth—and it occurs in Brandenburg.

"Our New Ethnic Science," says the Herr Doktor, "has wiped out the old idea that Asia was the cradle of civilization. On the contrary, Nordic tribes swept East in recurring waves"—carrying, of course, civilization along with them.

No need to inquire about
"The glory that was Greece
And the grandeur that was Rome."
So broadminded a man as the Herr Doktor wouldn't belittle them, so good a Nordic couldn't—because, as the Herr Doktor's thrilling pages prove—they were really founded by those lads from Brandenburg.

* * *

Says he: "The large reverence we Germans have paid the classic art of the Greeks throughout history shows plainly that our instinct never slept, in spite of false teachings. Today that German love for all things connected with the name of the Parthenon shows a proof of this deep Nordic relationship of our souls."

* * *

Dr. Rosenberg's style is vallantly virile. His plot attains the height of originality, and there is no page without its climactric surprise. The bits of landscape-description here and there introduced make the ancient world bloom again for modern eyes. Nor does our author fail in the final test of the novelist: his characters "come alive," and the hero—the Nordic—is so vibrant a creature that even the most jaded reader will find it hard to believe him a figment of the human brain.

* * *

In short, surveying history "from dawn to dewy eve," Dr. Rosenberg has written one of the most brilliant historical romances of all time. It is almost the only romance of all time.

What though the Literary Guild and the Book-of-the-Month Club overlook him now?

P. S.: And—oh, yes—perhaps we had better announce the fact that the Post-Impressionist has returned from his vacation!

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler.

Rainy Afternoon.

Philadelphia.

For several years your correspondent has been hearing that the real deliberations of the rulers of the American people are not conducted in open meeting but informally in more or less social knots, usually impromptu. So yesterday afternoon because it was raining and because the program of the Democratic convention called for business of a routine nature, your correspondent did not go out to the hall.

Instead, he went nutting around the lobby of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, where he met, first, an old colleague of the sport business who was looking for Frank Frisch because the St. Louis Cardinals had been rained out of a ball game; next, Mr. Teddy Hayes, late trainer of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, and, presently, the Honorable Ray Cannon, member of Congress from Milwaukee.

Representative Cannon is a sterling statesman who keeps ever before his eye the sacrifice of the heroes of Valley Forge, the sacred heritage of the Founding Fathers, the undying principles of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, and the Constitutional rights of the accused. At each mention of the heroes of Valley Forge, the sacred heritage, the undying principles and the Constitutional rights of the accused, each member of the little circle at the table, at first, would bo whis head a moment in silent reverence. Later on it got so that each member would get up and march three times around the table at each mention of these priceless mementoes, singing, "I Get a Kick Out of You."

* * * *

Your correspondent forgot to mention that in order to obtain the true story of the Democratic convention he practiced seduction. "Don't you ever buy," your correspondent implied, "a drink, you cad?"

"Why, you cur," said Congressman Cannon, with an evil leer, "you know I never take intoxicants in any way, shape or form."

"Good," your correspondent said. And when the little circle was seated at the table your correspondent mentioned the case of the memorable Chicago Black Sox who faked the World Series of 1919 between Chicago and Cincinnati. Mr. Cannon, then a criminal lawyer, defended the sacred rights of the accused in that deplorable vulture-swoop upon the very tap-roots of the ideals of American youth.

"The sacred rights of the accused," Congressman Cannon said, "will ever be uppermost in my thoughts. And Valley Forge, Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln."

"Which Jackson do you mean?" your correspondent asked. "Do you mean Andrew, Stonewall or Shoeless Joe, the fleet-footed outfielder of the Black Sox who was so fleet of foot.

* * * *

"Who me?" said Congressman Cannon. "Well, I want to tell you something, you cynical, smart-cracking, overdressed Broadway fop."

"Yes, fop," the Congressman said. "F. O. P. Broadway. Let me tell you something about the sacred rights of the accused. But first let me hear you tell the waiter something."

At this, your correspondent, who is bright at repartee and quick to take the slightest hint, raised a spoon and rang a glass standing on the table. Congressman Cannon and two colleagues in statesmanship instantly upset their chairs and were fighting in the doorway to get through to the street when your correspondent exclaimed, "Gentlemen! Gentlemen of the bar! Be calm. That was not an ambulance bell."

Your correspondent told the waiter something and Congressman Cannon began his story.

There was, it seems, an honest American citizen in Milwaukee who wished to uplift the common man and, to this end, decided to sell breeding rabbits by mail, promising to buy from his clients at a profit to them all the progency of the original stock. He advertised in certain magazines, offering three rabbits, two does and one buck.

* * * *

Not to bring the ugly subject of sex into the political essay, there were unavoidable errors in the shipping department of the rabbit firm. The rabbits were grown and shipped by a Philadelphia colored man who raised them in his back yard and it seems that he made mistakes, shipping three little girl rabbits or three little boy rabbits per order instead of two little girls and one little boy.

This made all the difference in the world. Friendship did not ripen into love, there were no bunnies for the customers to sell back to Congressman Cannon's client and presently the man was arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Congressman Cannon says it is very hard to distinguish little girl rabbits from little boy rabbits and he believes with all the beautiful idealism of his nature that criminal intent was lacking.

He and his client were walking to court one day to make bail. The client had $50,000 cash in a little satchel and Congressman Cannon said, "If you are tired I will carry the satchel."

"But he had a lion's heart," the Congressman said. "He gave me a look and, tired as he was, he said, "No I wouldn't burden you with the $50,000 cash. I will carry the satchel."

* * * *

There was a terrific scuffle of Democratic patriots at the door of the room. They are still carrying out lawyer statesmen of the Democratic convention, dead and wounded in the scuffle.

Canada's Constitution

Rulings Of Supreme Court, To Be Appealed To Privy Council In London, Raise Issue Over Revision Of Dominion Constitution.

By William Marchington.
Special Correspondence of The Post.

Ottawa.

THE VERDICTS delivered last week by the Supreme Court of Canada regarding the constitutional validity of a series of industrial and social reform measures passed by the ousted Conservative ministry, which had tried to sponsor a Canadian replica of your "New Deal," have left a very unsatisfactory state of affairs.

During the parliamentary debates upon most of these measures the Liberals had expressed grave doubts about their constitutional soundness and argued that they should not become operative until it had been tested in the courts. The Bennett ministry did not accede to this demand, although it kept some of the measures in a state of suspended animation and so, as soon as the Liberals came into office, they resorted to the common Canadian practice about dubious legislation, and submitted special references to the Supreme Court.

The new Liberal ministry, although its leaders had severely criticized the legislation in Parliament, felt it incumbent on themselves as custodians of the federal authority to uphold its validity. Accordingly, it briefed some of the ablest constitutional experts in the Dominion and instructed them to make the best defense possible against the attacks of counsel representing the provinces.

Unfortunately there were only six judges available on the Supreme Court when it heard the arguments, as the vacancy created by the death of Mr. Justice Lamont had not been filled. As a result there were unsatisfying three-to-three verdicts on three of the references, concerning measures which fixed minimum wages, limited hours of work and ordained a weekly day of rest in industrial enterprises. Only one measure, the farmers' creditors' arrangement act, was held completely valid, but partial bills of constitutional health were given to the Dominion trade and industry commission act and to Section 498A, which was incorporated in the criminal code setting heavy fines and imprisonment for unfair business practices.

However, the two most important items of the Bennett "New Deal" program, the "employment and social insurance act" and "the natural products marketing act," were both pronounced "ultra vires."

Verdicts Lack Binding Effect With Private Suit.

THESE VERDICTS were merely opinions without any binding legal effect and do not wipe the challenged legislation off the statute books. The latter objective could be achieved if an individual or corporation brought a suit, as in the Schechter case in the United States, and secured a favorable verdict. Moreover, on practically every question there was revealed a sharp division of opinion among the judges and it is noted that Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, who has sat on the Supreme Court since 1906 and is accounted the possessor of the best legal and judicial brain in Canada, pronounced himself in favor of the validity of most of the measures at stake but found himself in a minority on several issues.

The federal government will take an appeal from the verdicts to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London which is the final court for the British Commonwealth. The experienced and learned judges who sit on this tribunal are most British but Sir Lyman Duff, although he will not sit on these particular cases, is also a valued member of this Court and it is to be presumed that his opinions will have some influence with his august brethren from Britain and the other Dominions. It will be next fall before the Privy Council can hear the arguments.

At one time the judges of the Privy Council, largely through the influence of the late Lord Haldane, manifested a persistent disposition to take the side of the provinces against the Dominion in any constitutional dispute. But in recent years there has been a tendency to take the opposite viewpoint and uphold the Federal authority wherever possible.

Meanwhile pending the decisions in London such of the legislation as in operation will remain effective but that portion is not large. The employment and social insurance act as well as the measures concerning wages, hours of work, and a weekly day of rest have never become operative and the Dominion trade and industry commission has not been appointed. The measure of which most use has been made is the farmers' creditors' arrangement act and it has been held "intra vires." The natural products marketing act, however, has been made the basis for a number of marketing schemes in which there is a compulsory feature resented by a minority and if some objector cares to take a case for an injunction to the courts, he has a good chance of success and can cause troublesome confusion.

King Ministry Placed In Awkward Predicament.

IF THE PRIVY Council upholds most of the doubtful legislation, the King ministry will have no alternative but to administer it.

The Liberal Party is pledged to the hilt to establish a system of unemployment insurance for the workers of Canada and also to secure for them favorable wages and hours of labor. If the existing legislation designed for these purposes fails, spokesmen of the trades unions and other labor elements will soon be on the doorstep of the ministry demanding some substitute legislation. But since the present employment and social insurance act would be pronounced "ultra vires" only because it constituted an invasion of rights secured to the provinces by the constitution, there would be no guarantee that a Liberal ministry even if it controlled a majority in the Senate could evolve and pass a new act which might have any reasonable prospect of being sustained in the courts if challenged. So the whole issue of constitutional reform may be brought into high relief and become one of the dominant issues in Canada.

Already this session the King government has made a modest gesture in this direction by introducing a resolution designed to pave the way for constitutional amendments which would enable the Federal government to assist in the rehabilitation of provincial finances. But the Conservative majority in the Senate has so mutilated the resolution, which easily passed the Commons, that the government has dropped it for this session.

There is also at work a committee of legal experts, on which the provinces are fully represented, in the task of trying to devise a means of procedure whereby Canada could secure the right to amend her own Constitution which is now under the trustee guardianship of the British parliament. Owing, however, to the obduracy of the delegates from New Brunswick who oppose any change whatsoever in the present constitutional arrangements, little headway has been made in this enterprise. But sooner or later the issue will have to be boldly faced as by common consent the present constitution of Canada is obsolete and archaic on many points.

Meanwhile the Liberal press is rejoicing over the verdicts of the Supreme Court as they justify the stand taken by the Liberal leaders.

Borah Intimates He's Court Critic

By the Associated Press.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, told reporters yesterday he had "no fault" to find with Democratic National Convention critics of the Supreme Court, but that "I might reach different conclusions from those they found."

Borah's reference was to the speeches of Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, and Barkley, of Kentucky.

In a press conference he reiterated he had "no statement" to make on the part he will play in the campaign, and declined to say whether he would seek re-election to the Senate.

Borah said he thought it "very debatable" whether the Presidential candidacy of Representative William Lemke, on the Union Party ticket, would draw more votes from the Democratic or Republican Parties. In response to queries, he said he had "seen nothing" to indicate the Union Party was fabricated by "sinister interests" as a means of cutting down the vote of either the major parties. Father Charles Coughlan, who in a radio speech praised Lemke, was described by Borah as "a very able gentleman."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips.

How Do They Stand?

The following questions are put squarely up to both Presidential candidates in the belief that the great American public will not give its support to any man without knowing his position on matters close to the hearts of all Americans:

1. If elected will you or will you not work for more milk in milk shakes?
2. How do you stand on the issue of canned versus bottled beer?
3. Once in the White House, what will you do about finding places for autoists to park?
4. How do you stand on hitchhiking, and will you promise to abolish the use of female "stooges?"
5. Are you for the return of the old-fashioned free lunch?
6. If elected will you oppose the dizzy tendency to decorate saloons so they look like boudoirs?
7. Do you think sitting down makes drinking more moral than standing?
8. Will you urge legislation to end the American gyp game of cha to 750 for seats 50 rows from the ring and marking them "ringside?"
9. What is your attitude on cigarette lighters as birthday gifts?
10. Will you take a firm stand for the air conditioning of air-conditioned trains?
11. Do you pledge yourself to stand for showing the feature film in any movie house without first showing 1,000 feet naming every person in any way connected with the darned thing?
12. What is your attitude on amateur hours?
13. Will you or will you not curb the Postoffice Department in its policies indicative of a belief that what the public needs more than anything else is more postage stamps?
14. Will you do anything about the brakes on street buses?
15. Do you or do you not advocate the abolition of the banana diet?
16. Do you favor cocktails with meals or meals with cocktails?
17. Will you do anything about the matter of flickering lights in subway trains?
18. Are you for or against traffic policemen at important intersections sleeping on duty?
19. What is your idea of adequate punishment for a chef who lets chips of chicken bone get into orders of chicken a la king?
20. Will you give the public your promise to advocate fewer mirrors in men's barber shops?
21. Are you for capital punishment of men who steal bulbs from desk lamps?
22. If elected what will be your position on six-day bike racing, bunion derbies, waltz marathons, contract bridge, back-seat driving and zippers?

PLEASE!

Talk if you must about weather and war,
Politics, crime or the farmer;
Candidates, issues and scandals galore—
But NOT how Max toppled the Bomber!

Rant of the New Deal as much as you will,
Give me those gestures unfailing;
Rave about waste and the ultimate bill—
But nerts on how Joe erred with Schmeling!

Tell me those yarns of your bridge-playing skill,
I'll take 'em wholesale or retail;
Talk of those treatments you take when you're ill—
But DON'T give that fourth round in detail!

Give me the intimate facts of your life—
Ailments and symptoms that hover;
Garrulous be on your home and the wife—
But, lissen, that big fight is OVER!

Alf Landon is a pipe smoker, and this will cost him the women's vote unless his wife swears that he doesn't knock the ashes out against the arm of the chair.

The thing for both major political parties to do is to take a warning from the Louis-Schmeling fight and not put all the emphasis on youth.

Well, anyhow, this week there could be only one answer to the inquiry, "What's that funny noise in the radio?"

The Poet.

The thought
That Life was a wild bird
That could be captured
With a net of shining words.
So he wove his net of Rainbows and pale moonlight,
Fastening the edges with
A few silver-pointed stars.
But when he flung his net
It snapped into a thousand pieces,
And Life went dancing on,

French Border Also Britain's, Official Avers

England Did Not Enter War From Sheer Kindness, Secretary Says.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, June 25.—Alfred Duff Cooper, British secretary for war, told the Association France-Grand Bretagne today that France's frontier "is our frontier."

"One of the realities which my compatriots sometimes lose sight of is that Franco-British friendship is not a question of sentiment or even of choice," Duff Cooper said.

"It is urgent necessity, a question of life or death for our two countries.

"There still are today many Englishmen who are so blind in their prejudices that they sincerely believe Britain entered the war from sheer kindness of heart, solely in order to aid her friends, the French.

Interests at Stake.

"We entered the war because our vital interests were at stake and because our lives were endangered.

"It is this kind of ignorance which from time to time leaves Englishmen to propose reorientation of our foreign policy and the choice of other friends.

"They do not understand the nation is not free to choose at its pleasure its allies. . . ."

"You know Prime Minister Baldwin has said the frontier of Britain is on the Rhine. Your frontier is our frontier."

Officials saw an attempt to "embarrass" the Baldwin government in the efforts of some to "read political significance" into the speech of the war secretary.

Friendly Speech.

They said they considered the British war minister's talk to the association "a friendly speech by a warm friend of France, and nothing more."

One official said:

"Somebody is always trying to throw a monkey wrench into Franco-British relations. The specter of a Franco-British alliance probably would scare the English public away if they believed it."

Officials asserted the "very words" of the speaker denied there was any thought of a Franco-British alliance, pointing out the war secretary declared "our vital interests keep us tied to France."

Duff Cooper also said in his speech, "two sailors who find themselves on the same raft after a shipwreck, might not be friends—but they must be collaborators."

About-Face Hinted.

London, June 25 (AP).—Diplomatic quarters suggested tonight, following War Secretary Duff Cooper's Paris speech, that a sharp British about-face on Germany might be imminent in view of Adolf Hitler's failure to answer the British Locarno questionnaire.

The diplomats, recalling Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain publicly knifed sanctions shortly before they were abandoned, believed Prime Minister Baldwin used Duff Cooper similarly—to impress Der Fuehrer that British patience is near an end.

Although responsible persons have been accustomed to the plain speech of the war secretary, they were astonished at his directness in saying the French frontier also was the British frontier at this particular time, even though Baldwin was on record as having said the British frontier was on the Rhine.

Authoritative sources declined to confirm that Duff Cooper spoke for Baldwin, but did not deny his speech reflected the anxiety which Britain feels over German re-armament and the uncertainty on points raised by the questionnaire.

(The questionnaire, resulting from Hitler's re-armament of the Rhineland and his simultaneous offers of new European security arrangements, in effect asked Germany whether she was prepared to make and respect such agreements.)

Plea to Hitler Renewed.

Paris, June 25 (U.P.).—Premier Leon Blum, Jewish dictator of the governing popular front, and foreign minister Yvon Delbos tonight repeated France's plea to Chancellor Adolf Hitler for a Franco-German reapproachment to preserve European peace.

Blum first extended the olive branch to Nazi Germany Tuesday in his foreign policy declaration to the Senate.

"We renew our call to Germany, and we most sincerely hope that conditions will become propitious for a Franco-German accord," Delbos said before the Senate.

The Senate has given the government a vote of confidence in its foreign policy, as well as the Chamber of Deputies.

Delbos said France hopes to obtain disarmament, but pending such an agreement she must maintain her present military, naval and aerial strength.

They were indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury on charges of 19 overt acts to violate the espionage laws.

Now Serving Sentence.

Thompson now is serving a county jail sentence for illegally wearing the uniform of a Navy officer.

The activities of Thompson and Miyazaki were defined in the indictment as extending over nine months, between July, 1934, and March, 1935. During that period Thompson, who previously had been discharged from the Navy, boarded key vessels and various flagships of the United States fleet here at San Diego.

It is charged he sold to the Japanese navy officer confidential documents stolen from the United States fleet.

Deputy United States Attorney Thomas said the investigation and indictments involved only the two men, Thompson and the Japanese naval officer.

"Reports that a Japanese woman was involved emanated from Thompson's statement that he knew a Japanese waitress," said Thomas. "We have found no connection between her and the conspiracy."

Patient Now Hospital Gardener

Appreciative Hospital Patient Beautifies Grounds, Gains Job

John C. Caton, Tuberculosis Arrested, Shows He's Glad to Be Alive at 13th and Upshur Institution; Now Is Its Gardener.

The rehabilitation service of the District Tuberculosis Association yesterday revealed the story of Jonn C. Caton, how he turned to landscape gardening to show his appreciation that he is still alive.

Several years ago, Caton, a man in his 40s, was admitted as a patient at Tuberculosis Hospital, Thirteenth and Upshur streets. His was a serious case but eventually his improvement reached the point where he said he would like to "fix up" the hospital grounds, which was then an ugly, undeveloped tract.

He confided his desire to Superintendent J. W. Peabody and Dr. A. C. Leonardo, resident physician, who gave him encouragement. Through them, plants, seeds and shrubbery were acquired from various sources.

What ensued benefited both Caton and the hospital's appearance. His convalescence was hastened and the institution's ample grounds, under his care, were soon handsomely landscaped.

Court Enjoins Wire Surrender In Lobby Study

Western Union Restrained From Turning Over Law Firm Files.

An order calling for a permanent injunction restraining the Western Union Telegraph Co. from turning over to the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee telegrams received or sent by members of the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw of Chicago was signed yesterday by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court.

The original injunction against the lobby committee was granted last March, when suit was brought by Silas Strawn, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the American Bar Association.

Specifically, it asked that the court enjoin the telegraph company from giving the Black committee copies of messages sent by the firm.

Justice Jesse Adkins issued a temporary restraining order on March 3. More than a week later a hearing was held, and several weeks ago the original injunction was granted.

All Telegrams Subpenaed.

The trouble arose when the Black committee made much of telegrams sent at the instigation of utility companies to various members of Congress asking them to vote against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill, passed at the session of Congress which adjourned late in August, 1935.

Yesterday's injunction was merely an outgrowth of the original injunction. The lobby committee has been represented as a "mere intervenor," and thus not properly subject to litigation.

Originally the suit named the Western Union, which had been directed by summons to furnish the committee with all telegrams filed by members of the Strawn firm.

Throughout the controversy, the wire firm has placed itself in a non-committal position, asserting it would abide by the orders of the court.

Japan's Tariff Attacked By Australian Official

Canberra, Australia, June 25 (AP). Prime Minister James Lyons charged in an address to the nation tonight that retaliatory tariff restrictions by Japan on Australian goods constituted "a deliberate attempt to coerce the commonwealth's trade policy."

Australia recently adopted a new tariff policy designed to increase her trade with Great Britain. Speaking by radio, the prime minister said the situation would be carefully considered and no hasty counter measures would be taken against Japan.

(Effective today, Japan imposed a licensing system on imports of Australian wool and wheat and raised tariffs on some other products.)

Farmers Fight Tithes; Threaten to See King

London, June 25 (AP).—British farmers, who demonstrated yesterday in the city streets in protest against payment of church tithes which they consider exorbitant, wrote Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin today threatening to exercise their "constitutional right to approach the king" if he refused to receive a deputation of farmers.

The tax takes about $11,000,000 each year from agriculturists for the benefit of the church.

Russia has no aggressive intentions, said Litvinoff, adding:

"The demand of Black Sea countries for the greater security of their shores does not injure the interests of other states who are given freedom of passage within reasonable limits for all peaceful purposes."

Great Britain and Japan demanded that the Dardanelles be kept open for eastward-bound warships, just as Russia demands such passage for westward-bound vessels. France, allied to Russia by their pact of mutual assistance, sided with Moscow.

Italy's absence from the deliberations was a further complication. Technical committees will work while the delegates are attending sessions of the League.

$750,000 Left By Hammond To His Children

Salem, Mass., June 25 (AP).—The will of John Hays Hammond, noted engineer and inventor, who died early this month, provides trusts of $750,000 for his children. The will was filed in Probate Court today.

It also provides that real estate taxes, executors' costs, inheritance, legacy and succession taxes be paid as part of the administrators' expenses for which Hammond set aside $75,000.

He named the Rigga National Bank in Washington and his sons, Harris and John Hays Hammond, jr., as executors.

The will directs that his estate at Gloucester, where he died June 8, and property in Washington be sold and become a part of the residue of the estate to be divided equally among his children.

Under the terms of the will his daughter, Natalie, receives a $300,000 trust in care of the Guaranty Trust Co., New York; Mary Elizabeth Hammond, of Washington, his sister, receives $10,000 in cash and $100,000 in trust; a son, Richard P. Hammond, a $200,000 trust fund, and his wife's sister, Mrs. Charles Hoyle, of Washington, $400 per month and after the administration of the estate, a $30,000 trust.

Hammond directed that his photographs go to his son, Harris, during his life and after that to the National Press Club in Washington.

The will leaves $10,000 to the Boys Club of America, and an equal amount to the Addison Gilbert Hospital in Gloucester.

Other smaller bequests were made to his employes.

New Bag Planned For Stratosphere

Minneapolis, June 25 (AP).—Elated over the success of the unmanned experimental stratosphere balloon sent up from the University of Minnesota yesterday, John D. Akerman, head of the University Aeronautical Engineering Department today said work would be begun immediately on a second balloon.

The one sent up yesterday landed at Huntsville, Ark., 613 miles from the starting point. Akerman said it would be several days before instruments the 30-foot balloon carried will be returned to the university.

"We learned a lot from our mistakes with this balloon," he said, adding that the next one would be larger, designed to reach a 15-mile altitude and the gondola would be thoroughly insulated against cold.

Cutting Crash Responsibility Denied by Vidal

Senate Report Erred in Blaming Navigation Aids, He Says.

Eugene L. Vidal, director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, yesterday denied failure of the bureau's navigation aids was responsible for the airplane crash in which Senator Bronson Cutting was killed, as charged in a report of the Senate sub-committee on air safety.

The facts of the accident, as described in the sub-committee's report read into the Congressional Record Saturday by Senator Royal S. Copeland, were basically at odds with the facts as ascertained by the bureau's own investigators and made public last June, Vidal said.

"The testimony taken at the bureau's investigation directly contradicts the statements in the sub-committee report," he declared. "We made our investigation and we're going to stick to our report. Nothing in the sub-committee report would warrant any change in our findings."

Failure of Aids Charged.

The Senate report, which was signed by Senators Copeland, Clark and Donahey, placed responsibility for the crash on the failure of three of the bureau's navigation aids—first that "the Kansas City radio range was off course;" second, "the radio station at Kirksville, Mo., was dangerously weak," and third, "the light beacons were useless." The crash occurred near Kansas City, Mo., in May, 1935.

In its investigation of the crash, the bureau charged the Transcontinental Western Air, operators of the transport in which Cutting was killed, with seven violations of regulations. Fines of $500 for each violation were imposed, but they have gone unpaid pending an appeal of the company to the Attorney General. In deciding the company's appeal, the Attorney General's office may be forced to choose between the two reports.

Besides charging the bureau with responsibility for the Cutting accident, the sub-committee report criticized heads of the bureau's various sections and suggested a number of reforms in administrative organization. Many of these reforms, Vidal said, were "good suggestions" that we will try to put into effect."

Suggested Changes.

Among the changes suggested and changes made by the sub-committee in its report are:

The bureau be given added prestige by restoring it to the status of a special branch of the Department of Commerce with an Assistant Secretary of Commerce at its head, as was the case before 1933.

All promotional and development work in the bureau be "kept apart and entirely separate and distinct from the routine matters of the bureau" to eliminate "personal promotional and political activities from cropping up" and "making for inefficiency."

Gretaer co-operation with State aviation departments.

That a single head be placed in charge of the bureau to assume "full responsibility" and remedy "the lack of decision in the bureau."

"Every man in the bureau, with the possible exception of the director and his two assistants, should be on civil-service status."

Improvement in the methods of budgeting the bureau's requested appropriations.

That there is no merit system in the bureau by which the man who does his work well is rewarded at the expense of those who do not.

Rotary Shows Interest In World Language Plan

Atlantic City, N. J., June 25 (AP).—Interest in a new "universal language" being constructed by the International Auxiliary Language Association for use throughout the world was expressed by Rotary International at its twenty-seventh convention today.

The Montclair, N. J., Rotary unit sought to have the 10,000 delegates "indorse" the new language in the 83 nations having clubs, but the resolution was toned down to an expression of "interest" before it was offered for vote.

Dr. Walter D. Head, of Montclair, a leader of the new language movement, explained it had been in the process of construction for ten years and that a preliminary offering of the new tongue would be submitted to the public about three years hence.

Freed in Policeman's Slaying

Wife Is Acquitted in Slaying Of Park Policeman; Collapses

Mrs. Connelly Unable to Leave Courtroom for 15 Minutes After Son, Daughter Help Revive Her From Effects of 3-Day Trial.

Weak and trembling after a three-day trial, Mrs. Alice J. Connelly, 38, collapsed yesterday as she heard a District Supreme Court jury acquit her of slaying her 41-year-old husband, John F. Connelly, park policeman.

Culminating three days of testimony that brought out the ill treatment she had suffered at the hands of the man she killed and said she still loved, Mrs. Connelly had to be supported by her attorneys, James A. O'Shea and Alfred Goldstein, as she stood to hear the jury's verdict.

As a court matron was called to revive Mrs. Connelly, two of her children rushed to her side to comfort her. They were John, 20, a former Public Links golf champion, and Frances, pretty 18-year-old redhead.

It was more than 15 minutes before Mrs. Connelly recovered sufficiently to leave the courtroom. She was then taken to the matron's room, where she spent another half hour recuperating from the strain she has undergone since the fatal St. Patrick's Day celebration last March.

The jurymen charged by Justice Peyton Gordon a few minutes after noon returned their verdict at 2:15 p. m. They had had a choice of judging Mrs. Connelly guilty or not guilty of second-degree murder or manslaughter.

The killing in the apartment at 2220 Eighteenth street northwest was in self-defense, Mrs. Connelly's attorneys sought to prove. The shooting occurred about 1 a. m. March 18.

Assistant United States Attorney Henry A. Schweinhaut, prosecuting the case, contended Connelly was lying on a studio couch when shot and was not rushing toward his wife. The bullet, he said, passed through the policeman's body and into the couch.

It was brought out in the testimony of Mrs. Connelly's son and daughter that she was frequently beaten by her husband. Park policemen who knew the slain man said he was brutal and unreasonable when drinking.

The trial was dramatically recessed Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Connelly fell from the witness chair in a faint after describing the fatal shooting. Just before her collapse she sobbed, "I didn't mean to do it. He drove me to it. I loved him and I love him still."

Jury to Sift Death Of New Born Baby

A coroner's jury yesterday held Evelyn Manning, 24-year-old unwed mother, for the grand jury after an inquest into the death of her newborn baby.

Witneses testified the infant was found dead in a bathtub at the woman's home, the Astoria Apartment, Third and G streets northwest, several weeks ago. The woman was arrested by police shortly after the baby was found. Physicians said the baby died from exposure and lack of care.

It was understood at the inquest the woman was not held on a murder charge, but only that she might receive hospital treatment and undergo mental examination.

Boys' Club Will Open Summer Camp July 16

The boys Club of Washington will open its summer camp near Joplin, Va., July 6, it was announced yesterday.

The new camp, now under construction in the Chopawamisc area, will consist of 25 dormitory cabins, five counselors' cabins, five lavatories, five recreation lodges and a large recreation field.

Construction of the camp is under supervision of the National Parks Service. Physical examinations for the first contingent of boys will be held July 2. The camp capacity will be 75 boys, with each group attending for two-week periods.

Army Studies Disappearance Of Four at Sea

Mystery Grows Deeper as Capt. Bowsel's Widow Reaches New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—Mystery surrounding the disappearance at sea of Capt. Lindsay M. Bawsel and his three small children was deepened late today with the arrival of the widow and mother of the victims aboard the United States Army transport Chateau Thierry.

Mrs. Bawsel, overwhelmed by grief, was unable to explain the tragedy to relatives who met her at the Army base pier in Brooklyn.

A board of inquiry composed of a colonel, a Medical Corps major, and a captain of the line, investigated the occurrence while the ship was steaming toward New York and will report its findings to the War Department in Washington.

Maj. Gilmer M. Bell, in command of troops aboard the ship, said the 35-year-old flier and his three children were lost overboard early Monday when the Chateau Thierry was about 8½ miles northeast of Cape Maysi, Cuba.

Splash Is Heard.

The only indication that anything was amiss at the time, Maj. Bell said, was a splash heard on the forward port side of the vessel, returning with approximately 1,200 troops from Hawaii and points en route.

Capt. Bawsel, who was to have entered Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for observation and treatment, boarded the transport with his family at Panama.

His wife did not learn of her bereavement until she arose Monday morning and tried to find her children, whom she had tucked in bed the night before.

Maj. Bell declared there was nothing to indicate what had happened during the night, with the exception of the splash and "a grunt" heard by a sentry and a woman passenger.

The ship back-tracked over its course for 6 or 7 miles, playing a 30,000,000-candle-power searchlight on the waters, he said, but no bodies were found.

Previous reports that the children had been washed overboard during a tropical hurricane and their father drowned in an effort to save them were contradicated by Maj. Bell's version. He said the night was calm and clear.

Irate Mob Beats Union Leaders, Wrecks Offices

By the Associated Press.

Gadsden, Ala., June 25.—An irate mob stormed an organization office of the United Rubber Workers Union today, beat a number of the occupants and ordered them out of town.

The union men quickly obeyed, departing for Birmingham under a police protective escort shortly after the crowd, estimated at 300, swarmed into their office in the business district.

Blows passed when the milling throng entered the building, collared the organizers and hustled them into the street.

Police who rushed into the melee and rescued the beleaguered men, said none apparently was hurt seriously. The interior of the office was wrecked.

The incident followed launching of an intensive organization drive, backed by a $100,000 fund, among employes of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plant here.

The drive was called after S. H. Dalrymple, of Akron, Ohio, president of the United Rubber Workers, told police he was beaten three weeks ago following a preliminary organization meeting.

Frank Grillo, secretary of the organization, in a statement at Akron, said the Goodyear Co. was responsible for today's outbreak.

"The responsibility for the mobbing of our organizers rests directly on the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.," Grillo said.

"Impartial witnesses have informed us that Goodyear flying squadron men led in the attack.

"If any serious injury is done to our men we are holding every city official and the company responsible and we certainly will take immediate action to punish the guilty ones.

"No effort or money will be too great to bring this mob to justice."

No arrest was made immediately in connection with the alleged attack on Dalrymple or today's demonstration.

A Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. spokesman at Akron said the concern "has no statement to make" concerning the Gadsden controversy. He added that the only information executives had so far obtained was from newspaper accounts.

YALE LAUNDRY
MAIN OFFICE & PLANT
WASHINGTON, D.C.

June 19, 1936

Ford Motor Co.,
Alexandria, Va.

Gentlemen:

Some time ago we standardized on Ford V-8 trucks for use in our laundry business.

Our prime reason for doing this was economy of operation. Our previous experience with Fords had proved that their overall cost of operation and upkeep was lower than other trucks in the same work, and this economy was further magnified by the exclusive Ford Factory Engine Exchange Plan. This plan has proved a big money saver for me by eliminating long layups for repairs and greatly increasing truck service life. We have found that the reconditioned engines operate as smoothly and economically as new ones and have stood up splendidly. Our drivers report no trouble and are more than happy with their performance.

Yours very truly,
YALE LAUNDRY
L. Lee Combs
L. Lee Combs, Manager

MR. COMBS' experience is typical of that of thousands of truck owners all over the country who have taken advantage of this exclusive Ford plan.

The Ford engine exchange plan enables you to exchange your worn motor for an engine which has been completely reconditioned at the Ford factory with factory machines and methods and new parts—at a cost considerably less than that for an ordinary "overhaul" job. A factory-reconditioned engine can be expected to perform practically like a new one and to stand up the same way.

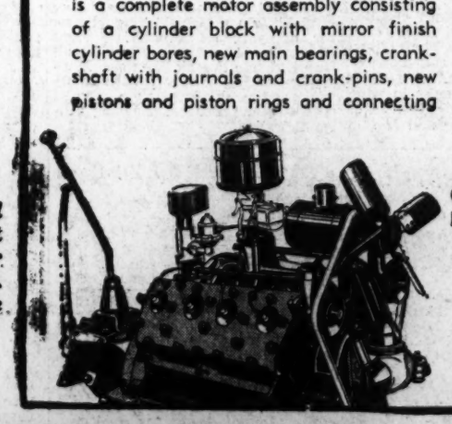
The plan also applies to many other vital parts of Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars. The cost of these parts installed also represents a substantial saving over the usual "repair" charges.

When you choose a new truck be guided by Mr. Combs' experience. Choose the only truck that gives you V-8 power and stamina plus this extra time and money saving feature.

Borrow a Ford V-8 Truck from your Ford Dealer and Make the "On-the-Job" Test with your own loads over your regular routes with your own driver at the wheel. Your Ford Dealer will gladly furnish the gasoline and oil for the test.

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET IN A FORD FACTORY-RECONDITIONED ENGINE

A Ford Factory Reconditioned engine is a complete motor assembly consisting of a cylinder block with mirror finish cylinder bores, new main bearings, crankshaft with journals and crank-pins, new pistons and piston rings and connecting rods like new. All worn parts are replaced and recent improvements are included in many cases. The engine assemblies are block tested and pass a rigid factory inspection.



OTHER PARTS AVAILABLE UNDER FORD FACTORY EXCHANGE PLAN.

Carburetor	Clutch
Generator	Brake Shoe Assembly
Distributor	Fuel Pump

And nearly 80 other parts.

Warners Close With Columbia For New Films

Contract Signed for 58 of Feature Output for the Season of 1936-37.

Contracts were signed yesterday whereby outstanding screen productions made by Columbia Pictures during the 1936-37 season will be presented in Washington at the Earle and Metropolitan theaters.

Announcement of the arrangement was made yesterday afternoon by John J. Payette, Warner Bros. general zone manager for the Washington territory.

Leading the list was "Lost Horizon," the Frank Capra production of James Hilton's best-selling novel. Ronald Colman has the leading role in this new film produced by the man who made "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "It Happened One Night." Others in the cast include Jane Wyatt, Isabel Jewell, Margo, Edward Everett Horton, John Howard and Thomas Mitchell. Produced at a cost of $1,500,000, "Lost Horizon" is the most ambitious production ever presented by Columbia.

Capra Will Do Another.

Frank Capra will make another picture for Columbia during 1936-37, but no title or cast has been selected as yet.

John Boles and Rosalind Russell will be featured in "Craig's Wife," filmization of the George Kelly Pulitzer prize play.

Chester Morris, Fay Wray and Lionel Stander will appear in "There Goes the Bride," Octavus Roy Cohen story which Alfred E. Green will direct.

Jean Arthur and Joel McCrea will be teamed in "Adventure in Manhattan," from the Collier's Magazine story by May Edginton.

Clarence Budington Kelland's story, "Preventer of Accidents," will come to the screen under the title "Junior League." Kelland was author of "Mr. Deeds" and "Strike Me Pink."

Dolores Del Rio will star in "Continental," first screen original by Richard MacCauley, well-known humorist and magazine writer.

Other Possibilities.

In addition to these films which have already been announced, Columbia will produce photoplays based on many of these various properties, the rights to which have been acquired:

"Valley Forge," by Maxwell Anderson.

"Secret Marriage," by Kathleen Norris.

"Five Little Heiresses" and "Birth of a Hero," by Alice Duer Miller.

"Murder on the 8:06," by Philip Wylie.

"No Gold Medal," Saturday Evening Post story by Leonard Lee.

"A Nightingale Flies Home," Rupert Hughes story.

"Campus Hero," by Corey Ford.

"I Promise to Pay," exposure of the loan shark racket.

In all, Columbia has 55 stars and feature players under contract for the new season. Vehicles for Grace Moore, Irene Dunne, Herbert Marshall, Maurice Chevalier, Jack Holt, Richard Dix, Walter Connolly, Leo Carillo, Mary Astor, Victor Jory and Melvyn Douglas will be announced shortly.

At Maestro Harold Stern's house party last midnight, Ben Platt, jr., took the play away from the stage professionals with a double-talk routine that was sensational . . . Double-talk is a Broadway gag . . . You start a normal conversation with a person and then, in the midst of it you switch to a completely different topic, sort of a chop suey monologue . . . The listener (invariably they pick on the politest guest) nods his head pleasantly and pretends not to be bewildered . . . After Platt had victimized one nonprofessional guest, the victim walked over to me: "These Broadway people are intensely interesting. I just had the most extraordinary conversation with Mr. Platt. Why the man has a magnificent mind" . . . I agreed . . . "What does Mr. Platt do?" he asked . . . I assured him that Platt managed a famous dance team, Gomez and Levinsky.

Tommy Gott, cornetist with the Stern band, is one of Tin Pan Alley's great trumpeters . . . Greatest of all was Herbert Clark, with Sousa's band . . . Jules Levy, a Jewish cornetist, and Libratti, an Italian, ranked next to Clark . . . Bert Clark is still living, and at 71 has a chest development that would shame most heavyweight fighters . . . You can always spot the great cornet players because they play ballads, slow tunes that require amazing breath control for the notes have to be "bent," as the musicians express it . . . Gott's "When Day Is Done" is a cornet classic . . . Perfect newcomer to the Stem: Muriel Martin, who sings "Topics of the Tropics" for Joe Moss. . . Eli Lloyd Hoffman says that Jim Farley's theme song at the convention should be: "Let's Take a Walk Around the Bloc."

Vincent Astor, ye old boniface, has interested himself in the musical likes and dislikes of his St. Regis' patrons . . . Mimi Richardson always asks Jacques Fray to play "Let's Face the Music and Dance" . . . Georgette Whalen asks for "These Foolish Things," a gorgeous lyric that lacks wide appeal because it doesn't rhyme home and roaf . . . Serge Obolensky asks only for the "Blue Danube" . . . Dorothy di Frasso, Erskine Gwynne and Jules Glaenzer insist on rhumbas . . . Muriel Richards prefers "The Very Thought of You" . . . Mrs. Jack Hearst skips all the other tunes for a definite rhythm of "Christopher Columbus" . . . Betty Shevlin Smith's pet is "Glad to Be Unhappy" . . . Wendy Iglehart solicits "Lady, Be Good," a grand melody . . . Aside to V. Astor: So fas so good, but what is your favorite tune, Mine Host?

Boat Line Elects Thom as Director

Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co., was elected a director of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. at a directors' meeting yesterday afternoon.

He will fill the unexpired term of the late George L. Starkey. Thom also is a director of the Washington Gas Co., the Real Estate Title Co. and the Security Storage Co.

At their meeting yesterday the Noarfolk & Washington directors voted the regular 3 per cent dividend.

Nelson B. Bell

About the Showshops

THERE is more, it seems, to booking a big-time motion picture theater than casually meets the eye. Take the case of RKO-Keith's, for example—or leave it lay, if that's how you feel about it.

BELL.

At any rate, a timorous soul cast in the Caspar Milquetoast mold, I dare say, would have yanked "Show Boat" off the Fifteenth street screen at the end of the third week of the run that now is stretching itself into six. Business had begun to sag a little, as was to have been expected. However, a moment or two of intense concentration on the comparative returns at the wicket of "Show Boat" and other long-run pictures in the same house developed the fact that the Universal picturization of the Edna Ferber rehabilitation of the "good old days" on the Mississippi River was averaging better than most of the rest and demonstrating a remarkable ability to draw a steady, profit-making volume of patronage. So it was kept on a fourth week.

At the end of the fourth week, it was found that gross receipts, surprisingly, were a little better than those for the second. So the picture went a fifth and now, at the end of the fifth, the whole thing adds up to a public response that registers a good 25 per cent better than the fourth. So the picture—this really is getting a little monotonous—goes a sixth week, not through sentiment, but as a result of sheer box-office pull.

But that is only half of it. During the unexpected extra weeks of the "Show Boat" run, Bobby Breen and Henry Armetta, in "Let's Sing Again," have been piling up satisfactory box-office records in pivotal key cities where the picture frankly was rather expected to prove a flop of noble dimensions. The radio orchestras and singers are beginning to send the "Let's Sing Again" songs through the loudspeakers and considerable furore is belatedly being made over a juvenile vocalist who seems to be going places in the grand manner.

While RKO-Radio did not produce "Let's Sing Again," they did secure the distribution rights to the film and have been so impressed with the steadily mounting interest in Bobby Breen that they have recently placed him under contract to make three more pictures under the RKO-Radio banner. Now here comes that "more than meets the eye" business.

With "Show Boat" more than holding its own, and "Let's Sing Again" coming along by leaps and bounds, District Manager Jim Brennan, of RKO-Radio, and Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's, have put their heads together by long-distance phone—which is a good trick, even if you can't do it—and determined not to crowd the rapidly mounting popularity of the Breen youngster. So "Let's Sing Again" will not be the next attraction at RKO-Keith's opening next Friday. It will be deferred until Bobby and his new-found rep hit the peak, which is expected to find him up there with Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper and the other little big-shots.

Next Friday at RKO-Keith's the major attraction will be "The Bride Walks Out," the new vehicle for Barbara Stanwyck, Gene Raymond, Helen Broderick, Ned Sparks and a cast of notables—that is, unless "Show Boat" is held for a seventh week!

Smart showmanship, I calls it.

• • • •

Incidentally, contracts were let yesterday for the extensive alterations that are to be made in the physical property of RKO-Keith's in the immediate future. The entrance is to be entirely done over, new box office installed and the theater's foyer converted into a prime example of modern theater architecture to replace the antique design which was "hot" a quarter of a century ago when B. F. Keith's ranked with the finest vaudeville houses on the continent. The improvements will extend throughout the house and will not end until they have reached those desolate waste spaces known as the ladies' and gentlemen's lounges at the theater's lowest subterranean level, which also are scheduled for a complete rearrangement and thorough going over, looking to their modernization and increased utilitarianism—and there's a word for you!

• • • •

A Washington visitor being wined, dined and feted by his former associates along film row this week is Joe Oulahan, Cincinnati branch film exchange manager for Paramount Pictures. Joe formerly was attached to the sales staff working out of the Washington office of Paramount, under the direction of Exchange Manager Harry Hunter. In a national competition in the gentle arts and artifices of salesmanship he copped the prize and as a reward was made branch manager in Cincinnati, where he has continued the good work and compiled an enviable record. He was here for the Variety Club's midwinter jamboree and now is vacationing around his old stamping ground, like the postman who goes for a walk on his day off.

• • • •

Jackie Heller, who wowed 'em all week with his ne plus ultra tenoring on the stage bill that closed last night at Loew's Fox, is another one who finds time to take the trouble. I mean to say that yesterday there came to hand a cordial note from Jackie expressing kindly sentiments that are wholly reciprocated. He evidently is quite as nice as his voice and duly takes his place along with Katharine Cornell, Lee Baker, Edmund Gwenn, Hobart Bosworth, Ruth Etting, George E. Stone, Mitzi Mayfair and a few others who bother to extend what Mr. Bosworth describes as "the writer's round of applause" to those they deem not always offensive.

• • • •

Personal aside to C. V. D., 1330 L street: All that is necessary is to indicate that it is "Not for publication" and it will not be. As simple as that.

• • • •

Word-to-the-Wise Note.

"WOMEN ARE TROUBLE"
"AND SUDDEN DEATH"

Weyerbacher Transferred.

Commander Ralph D. Weyerbacher, who supervised the construction of the dirigible Shenandoah, was detached yesterday from the Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department here and ordered to the U. S. S. Wright, flagship of the aircraft squadron of the base force, for duty.

Popular Drama Accorded Fine Interpretation

THE CAST.

John Cartaret.....Arthur Van
Dr. Owen Harding.....Edgar Kloten
Ellen.....Dorothy Davidson
Kathleen Dunpannon....Margaret Myers
Willie Ainley.....Gordon Potter
Kenneth Wayne.....Stephen Trodden
Mary Clare.....Marguerete Nordstrom
Jeremy Wayne.....Stephen Trodden
Moonyeen Clare.....Nell Orton

Fitting the play to the season and the place of production, the Blackfriars Guild, under the auspices of the Community Center Department, last evening offered Allan Langdon Martin's lovely "Smilin' Through" at the National Sylvan Theater before an audience of more than 6,000.

Preceding the drama was a half-hour concert by the United States Navy Band under the direction of Assistant Leader Alexander Morris. The program included "Soaring" (Nowoieski), "The Bag Pipes" from the opera "Schwanda" (Weinberger), "Universal Judgment" (De Nardis), "Santiago" (Corbin), "King Cotton" (Sou a) and "The Patriot" (Frier) as a trombone solo by Musician Clarence Edwards.

No stranger to Washington drama lovers is "Smilin' Through," nor is the creditable work of the Blackfriars Guild unknown, and the happy combination of play and players made for one of the finest evenings of sentimental drama to be offered in any summer festival season. Cast with a keen eye and set in the natural beauty of the Sylvan Theater, augmented by simple and effective properties, the evening held little room for improvement.

Of the play one need say nothing—Jane Cowl, Norma Talmadge and Norma Shearer have quite well expostulated on that—but one unique feature should be pointed out: For the first time two people have been cast in the roles of Kathleen and Moonyeen—Margaret Myers in the former, Nell Orton in the latter. Both were excellently cast, adding still more to the effectiveness of the two parts.

Arthur Van was seen as the opinionated uncle, John Cartaret, and Edgar Kloten as the kindly buddy-doctor, both of whom played well the two major time sequences. Dorothy Davidson made an excellent Ellen, housekeeper, and Marguerita Nordstrom was charming as Mary, Moonyeen's sister.

Stephen Trodden was fine as the lover and also as his own father. Gordon V. Potter, another play reviewer to make his thespian debut, was good as Willie Ainley.

The general excellence of acting and production, to which Harold Snyder gave effective lighting, all abetted by a perfect June evening, caused this second festival to set an entertainment standard that subsequent events may have difficulty in equaling.

'I'm Falling in Love With Someone'

This heavily braided, epauletted and accoutered young officer, sitting in his stage box with his hat on, evidently is deeply impressed with the young woman reflected in the lenses of his opera glasses. That probably would be Adrienne Ames, in the role of Therese, Viennese dancer, whom the young officer defended against the sinister attentions of the Sultan. All this will be definitely divulged in "Abdul the Damned," opening on the screen of the Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater Today. Nils Asther it is, pictured above, who plays the handsome young lover; Fritz Kortner, the Sultan.

Fulkerson Wins Seat In Florida Legislature

Roe Fulkerson, Washington optician and editorial writer for the Kiwanis magazine, received a telegram yetserday telling him he was the successful candidate in the run-off primary for the Democratic nomination for State representative in Florida, where he has a residence in Hollywood.

Nomination is equivalent to election on the Democratic ticket in his district. He will represent Broward County in the State Legislature.

State Delegations Hold Convention Carnival

Borras, Host At Madrillon, Captures Prize

Secret Gets Out When Kiwanians Flock to Sample Theories.

By Chanticleer.

That modest fellew, Peter Borras, your Madrillon restaurant host, has been winning "success story" prizes awarded by the National Restaurant Association—and saying nothing to old Chanticleer about it. Peter has some theories about food and entertainment and they apparently are as sound as an elected candidate's views, because they won the prize.

It just came out yesterday, in connection with the arrival of the Kiwanians, many of whom knew of the Madrillon's latest distinction on a coast-to-coast basis. Incidentally, the Madrillon's present policy of no floor show failed to cramp the style of the Kiwanians. They put on their own shows. The New York delegation starred Harry Fosdick Welch the other night. Welch is the original radio Popeye.

"He flies through the air with the greatest of ease, that daring young man on the flying trapeze!" Yessir, Shoreham's Gardner Moore has done it again. Meaning that he's presenting the Four Flying Flemings in the back yard at the Shoreham this week, where guests on the Terrace can see the act 60 feet in the air. And 60 feet above terra firma is a long distance to be stranded for a couple of swift seconds without anything to hold to. See for yourself.

And nice ways to start a good weekend: have luncheon at Matt Windsor's Russian Roof (Club Volga Boatman) with music and entertainment from 12 noon to 4.

Ramon, the Powhatan Roof's host, gets that Spanish name and complexion honestly. He was born in Barcelona and came first to these shores in 1917. After a 5-year stop-off in Montreal. You've seen him at the old La Paradis, at the Michel and in the winter months at the Heigh-Ho.

Maestro Moe Baer greets the Kiwanian guests at the Hamilton's Rainbow Room with "Welcome Stranger."

Bill Brady, who was starred at the Coconut Grove the second big opening night, with Ann Pennington, is back for a longer stay. He had to return to New York after the opening to make a movie short. He's sharing vocal honors with Honey Davis. A really big show at the Grove, with many bee-yootiful gals.

It looks as though La Paree will crack all precedents and continue its floor show through the summer. Soon the Daughterty band will begin a summer tour and a smaller unit will replace it—but floor shows probably will run straight through.

That new bandstand at Maryland Club Gardens is now the pride and joy of Maestro Jimmy Harris. It was used for the first time Wednesday night and even Jimmy's bull fiddler was in full view of the audience. By the new arrangement a much enlarged dance space is provided, too.

Ex-Sailor Tells Of Snake Death, Then Collapses

Is Led From Courtroom as Mate of Slain Woman Laughs Hysterically.

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, June 25.—Charles Hope, a former sailor, collapsed on the witness stand today as he described the death of a beautiful woman whose husband, he said, strapped her half-naked body to a table and jammed her bare leg into a box holding a killer rattlesnake.

The woman was golden-haired Mary James, seventh wife of Robert James, a barber, who the State charges killed her for $20,000 life insurance money.

James' green eyes never left Hope's leathery face today as the former sailor testified. Hope already has pleaded guilty to a first-degree murder charge, declaring he was James' accomplice in the fantastic killing.

"She was roped to the breakfast table," Hope said.

"She was tied down on her back. Her eyes and lips had wide strips of adhesive tape over them. She was partly dressed in a pink silk nightgown."

Previously he told the court that, under threats from James, he had bought two snakes, seen them kill some chickens as a test of their virulence and carried the glass-topped box holding the largest snake into the James home in August, 1935.

"Suddenly, he grabbed her left leg. He held it over the box. He jerked the top off the box with a quick movement and stuck her foot in.

"Her foot was only down there a little while. I heard a rattle and she writhed and threw herself against the straps. She groaned. Then James took her foot out of the box."

At this point in the story, Hope grew sick and was taken from the stand. As bailiffs led him away, James leaned his head back and his loud, hysterical laugh rang through the crowded courtroom.

Hope said later he went to the garage, where the bodies of the chickens were still lying. Both men had been drinking, he declared. James came out to him, a few moments later, and handed him a water-glass full of whisky.

Later, he continued, James told him:

"This thing's blown higher than a kite. Those snakes were no good. My wife's not even sick. I'm sick of fooling around. I'm going to drown her."

More time elapsed, Hope continued. Then James again came out of the house and told him, "That's done. Help me carry her out to the fishpond now." Hope said they went into the house and saw Mrs. James' body, surrounded by sopping wet towels, on the floor near the bathroom.

The Federal Diary

By Betty Read.

Forty-three years ago this month one of Washington's great tragedies occurred—the catastrophe in the old Ford Theater, in which 21 clerks of the War Department lost their lives.

Very few of the survivors of that day are still in the Government service, but on the rolls of the Bureau of Internal Revenue are three men whose Government record dates back even beyond that fateful day. Each year they are asked by younger employes to recount the story of what happened, and the bureau has buzzed recently with the revived tale.

The three in the bureau are George S. Paull, head of the personnel division; William R. King and Samuel Cottrell, of the income tax unit. King was injured, but Paull and Cottrell escaped unharmed.

The old Ford Theater, on Tenth street northwest, was the scene of the assassination of President Lincoln in April, 1865, and in subsequent years the record and pension division of the War Department took up headquarters in the building. At the time of the tragedy excavations were being made for the instalaltion of an electric lighting system and a pier was undermined, causing part of the building to fall.

A. F. G. E. Backs Walsh Bill.

The American Federation of Government Employes hopes the President will sign the Walsh-Healy bill which Congress passed in its last hours As the Federation points out today in a statement, the bill is aimed primarily at maintaining suitable wages and working conditions in private companies that do Government manufacturing, but it also affects the Government worker because private firms that do not have the same standards can frequently underbid the Government agencies.

The Government is engaged in manufacturing to a far greater extent than is generally realized, for its Navy yards, arsenals, Coast Guard depots, quartermaster depots and others all have manufacturing activities.

The bill applies to all Government contracts of more than $10,000 and calls for a 40 hour work week, the payment of prevailing wages of the locality where the work is to be done, and prohibits child labor.

These are the conditions under which Government manufacturing is done and, when not adhered to in private industry, it frequently means a lower bid for work than the Government can make and consequently less work and fewer Government workers than there would be if higher standards were required.

Orchestra Being Formed.

Do you toot a horn, bow a fiddle, beat a drum? If so, and always provided you are a Government employe, the Welfare Association of the Procurement Division, Treasury Department, invites you to join its new orchestra. From somewhere or other the association has gathered a large number of orchestral instruments and they will be loaned to Government—musicians without charge, in case the applicant does not have his own. Both men and women of talent are urged to join. J. I. Bellows, of the division is the one to apply to for a place in the orchestra.

At the orchestra organization meeting recently Morris Weingarten was elected president; I. R. Toor, vice president; Stephen Bednarchak, treasurer; Ann K. Shaw, secretary, and Maude O'Connor, librarian.

Flood Control Parley Vital.

The question of flood control means something in Washington, for there aren't many who didn't walk along the flood's edge in the spring to see the swollen Potomac.

Some days ago Secretary Wallace, Agriculture, announced an upstream engineering conference for September, but it was pointed out recently by the Soil Conservation Service that this conference, for which President Roosevelt appointed a committee on arrangements, has a much more important meaning than appears on the surface, for it is the first attempt to coordinate all factors of flood control.

It will be the first integrated program to consider the whole question of how to remedy the situation. Those on the committee to bring the Government's experts in all phases of flood control as well as private engineers together are Morris L. Cooke of the Rural Electrification, H. H. Bennett, soil conservation, and F. A. Silcox, of the Forest Service.

Jobs Open.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces it will accept applications not later than July 13, 1936, for the following positions:

Pharmacologist, $3,800 a year, United States Public Health Service, Treasury Department.

Junior motion picture director, $3,500 a year; motion picture specialist, $3,200 a year, Department of Agriculture.

Now It's Day Cruises.

For a while a moonlight cruise was the popular thing for after-office hours in the Government circles. Maybe the moon isn't out these nights, or perhaps entertainment fashions have changed, for the members of the Recreation Association of the National Labor Relations Board leave on a sunset cruise this afternoon at 5:30 from the Seventh street wharves. And tomorrow at 2 p. m. the canoeing enthusiasts of the association meet at Key Bridge for a paddle down the river.

Everyone is in holiday spirit with the approach of the Fourth of July. Anyone of Uncle Sam's workers who want to spend that week-end in New York, going there on a special train and having the sights of the city pointed out for him, should apply to the Athletic and Recreational Association of the Department of Agriculture. Employes of this department have made this week-end trip one of the features of their summer entertainment program.

D. C. Nurse Wins Army Diploma

She is Felisa Jenkins, of 1901 Lawrence street northeast. A graduate of McKinley High School in 1927 and Maryland University in 1931 she received her master's degree at Mills College, California, in 1932. She studied dietetics at the Medical Center.

Other dietetics graduates are Leonora Andrus, Elizabeth K. Brown, Marian J. Haagenson, Olga S. Heard, Elizabeth L. Kingsbury, Catharyn K. McAndrew, Katherine A. Sands, Virginia Smith and Eunice C. Williams.

Brig. Gen. Wallace De Witt, commandant of the center, presented the diplomas. The graduation address was made by Lieut. Col. George F. Lull, of the Medical Corps.

Drought Costs $100,000.

On the Air Today

If the national conventions have done nothing else, they have brought the name and pleasant microphone personality of Charlie Lyon to many a listener who might have had a little difficulty in identifying the name before the first convention week at Cleveland.

Lyon, however, is a well known radio name in the Middle West, where he has been handling NBC programs for the last four or five years. And to listeners in the Chicago area, and those communities served by stations on the NBC Midwest networks, Charlie Lyon sounded quite at home in a booth at Cleveland or Philadelphia, reporting the big fireworks.

Whether or not it is a coincidence or a prompt capitalizing of the new listeners brought into Lyon's range on the air, he has been engaged as master of ceremonies for the new "Clara, Lu 'n' Em" series which makes its debut at WMAL at 8:30 tonight, using the same coast-to-coast facilities Lyon has been appearing on from convention halls.

Ted Fio-Rito and his orchestra will be heard in the new series, which will be half-hour programs, once a week, instead of the former five times a week schedule for this group of one time Northwestern University coeds.

* * * *

Although I have a deep-dyed aversion to small children appearing in adult radio programs, some good apparantly is coming out of Paul Whiteman's use of 5-year-old talent in his Sunday night show. This week five youngsters received screen tests at Warner studios in New York as a result of their Whiteman appearances.

* * *

Features today:

Ann Southern and Francis Lederer: In preview of "My American Wife," in "Hollywood Hotel," WJSV, at 8. Music feature will be introduction of Hollywood's latest fad, "Adult Nursery Rhymes," by Dick Powell and other artists.

Frank Fay: The incorrigible "Elf of the Ether" presents Deems Taylor, who will frankly discuss Fay's performance with Jane Cowl in scenes from "Romeo and Juliet" last week, WMAL, at 7:30.

"Maple Leaf Rag:" Played by the master musician group of Andre Kostelantz, WJSV, at 9. Also: "Adios, Muchachos," "Say, Si, Si."

* * * *

Just a word about "Clara, Lu 'n' Em." Although the new show as mentioned above is all dressed up with an orchestra and a half-hour of time, the old familiar over-the-back-fence conversations will continue. Everything from potatoes to politics will be covered, and the three will settle the affairs of the Nation—and their neighbors. Clara, Lu and Em are played by Louise Starkey, Isobel Carothers and Helen King. The trio was formed when they all lived in a sorority house on the Northwestern campus, for the prinicpal purpose of amusing their sorority sisters. With school over, they separated, but on the occasion of one reunion in Chicago, "Em," who had remained in Chicago, talked the other two into auditioning their old sketches for radio. They were accepted and have been on the air for five years, with the exception of vacation periods.

Cosmopolitanites To Convene Sunday

Last-minute arrangements for the convention of Cosmopolitan International at the Mayflower Hotel beginning Sunday were completed yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the local Cosmopolitan Club, held at the Carlton Hotel.

Robert McChesney, chairman of the local planners, outlined his complete program for June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, for the 300 visiting delegates and members of Cosmopolitan International who will come from all sections of the United States and Canada.

The opening session Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Mayflower will be devoted to the business of the Capital District Federation of the Cosmopolitan Club, of which Lawrence E. Rubel, of this city, is governor. The lieutenant governor of this body is H. I. Teagle, of Norfolk; the second lieutenant governor is H. A. Lawry, of Baltimore; treasurer, James T. Lewis, of Richmond; secretary, Michael D. Schaefer, of Washington, and sergeant at arms, R. L. Bryant, of Newport News.

Attacks on Jews Spread in Rumania

Bucharest, Rumania, June 25 (AP). Anti-Jewish disturbances spread today to Moldau Province, where members of the anti-Semitic "Iron Guard" dragged Jews from trains and beat them.

Many were reported injured, but the exact number was undetermined because of censorship. Some of the victims were taken to hospitals and others to their homes.

The growing seriousness of the situation forced the ministry of the interior to ban all political meetings throughout the nation until July 12.

This order was given after Iron Guard students attacked Socialist headquarters here, smashing windows and firing guns. Some 20 persons were injured.

Drastic measures were predicted by some observers as government officials conferred.

German Youth to Talk Of Americans on Air

Wolfgang Schill, German youth vacationing at Camp Letts in an experiment in international friendship, will give his opinion of American boys in a radio broadcast today at 5:15 p. m. over Station WJSV.

The boy, one of 23 German students who are spending two weeks at the Y. M. C. A. shore playground on the Rhode River, will be interviewed by "Skipper" Mell Champ, sailing instructor at Camp Letts and founder of the Scota Clubs to encourage good sportsmanship among Washington boys.

Culbertson on Bridge

The Eternal Question.

Perhaps the most difficult thing in bridge to learn and to teach is when and when not to lead trumps! General rules are easy to lay down and may be valuable for a reasonable percentage of hands, but countless situations arise in which only specific analysis can avail.

Today's hand offers a striking illustration of two distinct methods of handling: the one actually used by the declarer which resulted in a two trick penalty, and the correct line, involving the nondrawing of trumps, which would have brought home the contract.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 club	1 heart	2 clubs
3 hearts	4 clubs	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

North's immediate club raise was wrong, the adverse part-score not to the contrary. He should have passed.

North opened the club king, dummy ducked, and declarer ruffed with the four-spot, leading the ten of hearts. North and dummy played low and South, to lull declarer into a false sense of security, won with the ace, returning a low club. Declarer discarded a spade, won in dummy with the ace, and led the spade queen. South covered and West won with the ace. Another heart now was led up to dummy's queen and, to declarer's disgust, North failed to follow suit. South won with the jack and cashed the king, reducing declarer and dummy to one trump each. A third round of clubs took the last trump from declarer. Dummy's jack of spades now was cashed, followed by the king and ten of diamonds. When South failed to follow, West foolishly played the ace and took no more tricks except dummy's trump, since he never could re-enter his own hand. Passing the second diamond would have saved a trick, inasmuch as North had no club to return.

Now consider how easy it would have been to make the contract.

The first club should have been won in dummy with the ace, declarer discarding a diamond. There was no need to draw trumps, because neither dummy nor declarer had any long suit to protect. It was, however, vital to attack the spade finesse as soon as possible. Therefore, the second play should have been the queen of spades. South would cover and declarer would win with the ace, returning a spade to dummy's jack. Now a club should be led and ruffed by declarer, after which the third round of spades would be ruffed in dummy. Another club ruff would give declarer entry for the lead of the fourth and good spade, dummy discarding a diamond.

Whether or not South ruffed this trick with the jack and laid down the ace and king of trumps, there would be no way to defeat the contract. No more than two of dummy's trumps could be drawn, which still would leave one for the all-important third round ruff of diamonds.

If South failed to ruff the good spade, choosing to discard a diamond, a low diamond should be led to the king. Again it would not matter whether or not South ruffed, as the defenders never could make more than the three top trumps.

Greek Envoy Entertains Countrymen

Reception Is Tendered 35 Touring Leaders at University.

Party Has Traveled 2,000 Miles by Bus in Two Weeks.

By Dudley Harmon.

Thirty-five much traveled and enthusiastic Greeks, members of the first tour to the United States ever organized in their country, were guests of honor yesterday at an informal reception given by the Minister of Greece, Mr. Demetrios Sicilianos.

In two weeks, members of the party, which includes industrialists, army officers, lawyers and politicians, have traveled 2,000 miles by bus, visiting New York, Chicago, Detroit, Toledo and Pittsburgh. Washington is their last stop before sailing for home Sunday aboard the Normandie.

All of them speak fluent French, but few speak English. One of the group, an Athens industrialist, knows only the words "please" and "chicken salad." He has found the first very useful, but explains that chicken salad grows a little tiresome as a steady diet.

Several Prefer Washington.

Several of the visitors prefer Washington to other cities they have visited, partly because it reminds them somewhat of Greece. They have been agreeably surprised to find so many parks and lawns in the places they have visited. They had pictured American cities smoke-filled and comprised largely of factories.

Mrs. Agis Tambacopoulo, whose husband is legal adviser to the Bank of Athens, says the United States Minister to Greece, Mr. Lincoln McVeagh, is rapidly making a name for himself in Athens as an archeologist. In a city in Macedonia, the minister unearthed a stone lion many centuries old, such as were used by the ancients as trophies. He is having it restored and remounted as a gift to the Greek government. The Minister and Mrs. McVeagh, she says, have learned to speak Greek and are planning a trip to the islands in the Aegean this summer.

Cousins of Counselor.

Mr. and Mrs. Tambacopoulo are cousins of the Counselor of the Greek Legation, Mr. Nicholas Lely. The former is president of the League for International Peace in Athens, and it was through his influence, as sponsor for the Balkan conferences, that an understanding was reached among the peoples of the Near East. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tambacopolou say that King George, restored last year to his throne, is popular in Greece, and that Athens is much gayer since his restoration.

Among the guests yesterday were the First Secretary of the German Embasy, Mr. Ernest Meyer, and the Attache of the Embassy, Herr Herbert Blankenhorn, who have been stationed in Athens and who spoke fluent Greek with the visitors; Mrs. Chester Snow, Mrs. William T. Mann and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Beale.

Before leaving tomorrow for New York, the Greeks will visit Arlington National Cemetery, where the Minister will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The Minister and Mr. Lely are leaving this week-end to spend Saturday and Sunday with Representative and Mrs. Charles Eaton at their home in Plainfield, N. J.

Miss Brothers Becomes Bride

Wedding Is Solemnized in Reformation Church.

Miss Barbara Caroline Brothers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Steel Brothers, was married last night at the Church of the Reformation to Mr. Edward Bachschmid, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bachschmid. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Oscar Blackwelder, pastor, assisted by Dr. John Weidley, pastor emeritus.

The wedding music included vocal solos by Mrs. John Bullough, an aunt of the bride, and Mr. William Raymond, a friend of the bridal couple, as well as a selection by the church choir of which both bride and bridegroom are members.

Mr. Brothers gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by Miss Fredrica Bachschmid, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Vance Farr acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Fred Johnson, Mr. Carl Bachschmid, brother of the bridegroom; Mr. Harry Pitt and Mr. Gordon Fletcher.

Anne Smith Betrothed To James W. Eastwood

Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. A. Smith, who recently left Takoma Park, Md., to reside in Panama, announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Clara Smith, to Mr James William Eastwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Eastwood, of Washington. The wedding will take place in October.

Invitations Recalled.

Mrs. E. Phillip Schreier has recalled the invitations to a luncheon planned to take place at the Congressional Country Club on Saturday because of the death of Mr. Schreier's mother, Mrs. Edwin A. Schreier, of Stafford, Conn.

Iliffs Take Boat On Way to Maine

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Iliff, jr., who were married last Monday, went by boat to Boston on their wedding trip and will go from there to Maine. Upon their return in August, they will reside in Baltimore.

Mrs. Iliff before her marriage was Dr. Elizabeth J. Haines. Her marriage took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Haines, at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney officiating. Dr. Charles Hauser, of Cincinnati, was best man.

The bride, a graduate of Wellesley College, recently received the degree of doctor of medicine from Johns Hopkins University, where Mr. Iliff, an alumnus of Williams College, is now studying medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Benson, of Chevy Chase, Md., announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Alice, to Mr. John Robert Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glenn Wells, of this city.

Loudoun Hunt Sets Show at Hurley Estate

Horse Events Will Be Held Tomorrow at Belmont; Society to Attend.

The attention of society and sporting people tomorrow will turn to historic Belmont, the home of former Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, where the annual horse show of the Loudoun Hunt will be held. The show ring is located on the eastern side of the Hurley mansion, considered one of the most beautiful settings in northern Virginia. Diplomatic and resident society of Washington and many other points will gather for the event.

The Hurley estate was originally owned by the Ludwell Lees, and at one time belonged to E. B. McLean, Washington sportsman and publisher. Presidents and diplomats have been visitors there, and the long rambling house, situated on a knoll has been the scene of many brilliant parties. The house overlooks a wide expanse of ground and commands a view of all the surrounding country.

Many small and informal luncheons will be given on the day of the show. The Hurleys will entertain and a number of picnic lunches will be given on the grounds.

The exhibitors will include some of the leading horse fanciers in the country, those whose entries are seen wherever fine horses are exhibited. From Washington will be Miss Anna Hedrick, Miss Nancy P. Hanna and Mr. Marty Gallegher. Dr. L. M. Allen, of Winchester, will have his noted Clifton Stables entries at the show. Mr. Ray S. Shoemaker will bring from Harrisburg, Pa., four fine hunters and the Peach Brothers, of Upperville, will have a long string.

Mrs. P. J. Hurley, who is one of the vice presidents of the Loudoun Hunt, will show Tim and Break of Dawn. The Alexander boys, sons of the judge of the circuit court, will enter two fine hunters; Miss Clare Briggs has an entry, Mr. Morris S. Clark, of Orange; Mrs. John B. Anderson, Mr. George Robert Slater and a number of others are on the list.

Eighteen classes will be shown during the day. The Loudoun Hunt trophy is one of the best classes of this number, and this class as well as other events is practically filled. Mr. J. North Fletcher, of Warrenton, and Mr. Courtland H. Smith, of The Plains, will judge the show.

Judge J. R. H. Alexander is chairman of the general committee and Mr. W. F. Peach is secretary.

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Mason Honored at Luncheon Given by Miss Brown.

Among the many parties given for Miss Louise Urquhart Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mason, whose marriage to Mr. Humphrey Harnsberger, of Front Royal, Va., will take place tomorrow at St. Albans ,was a luncheon given by Miss Eunice Brown, of Rutherford, N. Y., one of her bridesmaids, at the Little Tea House yesterday.

Others at the luncheon were Miss Marjorie Prevost, Mrs. Albert C. Morris, of Boston; Mrs. John Hilton Freeman, of Richmond; Mrs. Benjamin M. Hogan, Mrs. James Parker, jr., and Mrs. Wilson Batten, of Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Parker entertained at a luncheon for Miss Mason Wednesday at the Shoreham.

The guests included Mrs. Albert Morris, of Boston, who will be matron of honor; Mrs. John Hilton Freeman, of Richmond, Va., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Hargrave Cunningham, of Marshall, Va.; Miss Marjorie Mallet-Prevose and Miss Eunice Brown, of Rutherford, Va., who have been chosen as bridesmaids; also Mrs. Robert Garrett, of Broklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Randall Buckingham, Mrs. Archer Roberts, Mrs. Benjamin W. Hogan and Miss Wilson Batten.

Daleys to Return Here After Trip

Newlyweds Now Are on Southern Cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Andrew Daley, who are on a Southern cruise on their wedding trip, will return to Washington to live.

Their wedding took place Wednesday in St. Matthew's Church, Mgr. Edward L. Buckey officiating. The bride, the former Miss Gabrielle Marie Derome, daughter of Mrs. Wilfrid Derome, of Montreal, and the late Dr. Derome, former medical legist of the Province of Quebec, was attended by Miss Mary Briscoe Black. Mr. Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Daley, of Burlington, Vt., had Mr. Arthur Brown as his best man.

Daughter Is Born.

The Commercial Counselor of the Swedish Legation and Mrs. Wijkman, of 1705 Hoban road, announce the birth of a daughter, Ruth Elizabeth, June 20, at Georgetown Hospital. Mrs. Wijkman is the former Ruth Wallace, sister of the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry A. Wallace.

Ft. Washington To Hold Second Of Dance Series

Many Girls From Capital Area Are Attending R. O. T. C. Affairs.

Tonight the second of a series of summer dances for college and university students attending the Reserve Officers Training Corps Camp at Fort Washington, Md., will be held there. The young men attending the camp, held for six weeks each summer, represent colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

July 3, 10 and 17 have been set as the dates of the other dances.

The first of the series, June 19, was sponsored by students from the Universities of Maryland, Western Maryland and Johns Hopkins, and was attended by many girls from Washington and vicinity.

At present Fort Washington, which has been garrisoned continuously since Colonial days, is occupied by the Third Battalion, Twelfth Infantry, commanded by Lieut. Col. J. G. Ord.

Attendance at the dances is by invitation only and the transportation to and from Washington for the guests is provided by the boat, the General D. H. Rucker, which makes special trips for the occasion between the Army War College and Fort Washington.

Dr. McLaughlin, Wife Honored

Coast Guard Aid to Leave for New England.

Officers of the U. S. Coast Guard from headquarters last night gave a dinner at the Shoreham Hotel in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Allan J. McLaughlin. Dr. McLaughlin is being detached from U. S. Coast Guard headquarters to assume charge of the Social Security campaign in the New England States.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Russell R. Waesche were among the 50 guests present. Others included Capt. Harvey F. Johnson, Engineer-in-Chief of the U. S. MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I was interested in your article last Sunday, wherein you stated that if a girl doesn't smoke she should decline cigarettes casually. I agree with you absolutely, but what if the other person does not accede gracefully to one's refusal? I go with a group of women, all of whom smoke. I don't smoke and I won't, for more reasons than one. However, I am broadminded enough not to disapprove of women who do smoke.

* * * *

So, when cigarettes are offered, I usually say, "No, thanks," hoping that will end the matter. But no. Mrs. A cries: "Don't you smoke?" and Mrs. B asks: "Why don't you smoke?" and Mrs. C. chimes in: "I only smoke in company. Won't you have just one?" I try to pass it off without explanation, but when pressed, usually admit that my health doesn't permit me to smoke. Then one of them invariably says, "But a cigarette once in a while won't hurt you." It is really most embarrassing for me.

* * * *

Perhaps I should explain that these women are older than I, who am 22. They mother me to a certain extent and I don't mind as a rule, but this smoking issue is getting on my nerves. At various times I have been forced to explain (1) that no one in my home, not even my father, smokes; (2) my mother doesn't wish me to smoke; (3) I don't care to smoke; (4) my health does not permit me to smoke. Why should I have to offer these explanations?

* * * *

I like the company of these women, who are fine and otherwise intelligent and I know they enjoy my company. We share common interests, having met in a class group at one of the community centers. They seem determined to make me smoke (motherly interest), and I am equally determined not to smoke. How can I tactfully cope with this situation? NON-SMOKER.

Absurd Predicament.

DEAR NON-SMOKER: It may be this is a situation in which tact will not prevail. Perhaps this is a case where a good offensive may prove to be the best defensive. Instead of explaining why you don't smoke, and thus placing yourself meekly and apologetically on the defensive, it might be more effective to take the attitude, "Why should I smoke?" You might say: "Well, I can give you four good reasons why I don't smoke. Now suppose you give me four good reasons why you do smoke."

* * * *

You might say: "I don't smoke for the same reason that I don't chew tobacco. Because I don't crave nicotine, because I think it a messy and unnecessary habit, and because I would rather spend my money on something else."

* * * *

Or, in anticipation of another argument about the pros and cons of smoking, you might fortify yourself with half a dozen packages of chewing gum, and when the cigarettes start circulating, set the gum in motion. And if the ladies pass up the gum, stiffen your spine in mock surprise and say: "What, you don't chew? Why don't you chew? But it's such a delightful pastime. So good for the face. Keeps the muscles young and taut."

* * * *

Or, if you wish to reduce the argument to the point of absurdity, arm yourself with a bag of lollipops, and while your friends inhale on their cigarettes, you inhale on your lollipops, meanwhile urging the same on them.

I know a great many women who smoke, and a lesser but still goodly number who don't smoke, but I have never sat in on any arguments between the two schools of thought on the subject. I don't quite comprehend the psychology of these older women friends of yours who are so bent on making you a devotee of the Great God Nicotine. It may be they regard smoking as the hall mark of the sophisticate; as proof of their emancipation from puritanical ways of thinking; but there is no more reason why a girl should smoke, if she doesn't care to, than that she should drink a glass of pink lemonade every morning or take up flagpole sitting as a pastime.

* * * *

The best advice I can give you is to refuse to take their cross-examination seriously. Don't let them "get your goat" with their quizzing and their urging. Be cheerfully flippant and blandly stubborn in sticking to your guns. M. H.

Care of Ears Is Emphasized By Dr. Cutter

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Many of us have habits that carry with them some elements of danger to health. We often see people digging at their ears and some will even probe the canal with such weapons as a toothpick, a lead pencil or the point of a knife blade. The ear itches and unthinkingly we grab the first object that is available and use it to allay the irritation.

If dirty articles are placed in the ear a fungus infection may be planted as there are numerous types of molds—similar to those found growing on moist bread—that can thrive in the skin of the ear canal. Careful investigation has shown that the most common type of this plant parasite is known as aspergillus fumagatis—and its spores (seeds) are widely distributed in the dust of streets and homes. When first inoculated it may not produce symptoms, but if conditions are favorable it may spread along the walls of the canal and involve the eardrum. As growth progresses into the deeper layers of the skin, severe itching or even intense pain may ensue. Sometimes roaring in the ears or even partial deafness results.

Adults Prone to Attack.

As a rule, molds appear more frequently in middle-aged adults. They are particularly prone to attack individuals who work in damp places or away from the sunshine. Once established, these organisms may constitute a real menace. Pus may form and require extensive surgical drainage. The mass of debris may be so thick that it will form a cast of the canal, which when removed will leave a raw bleeding surface beneath.

Treatment is rarely effective if it is directed only at the fungus as by the time symptoms have developed bacteria such as the staphylococci have complicated the picture. Washing the cavity frequently with a saturated solution of boric acid is advised, although on many occasions the deposit of dead cells will be so thick and dense as to demand a stronger solvent. In such circumstances a 2 per cent alcoholic solution of salicylic acid is of value.

If the infection proves stubborn it is often wise to use either sunlight or ultra-violet from an artificial source. A pencil of light can be directed into the canal through a speculum—a funnel-like device that straightens the canal. Of course, exposure must be guarded and the skin of the face and head protected to prevent burning.

It is never wise for the owner of two good ears to introduce anything into either one. If the ear itches, wash it out with a warm, sterile solution of boric acid.

MARY E. WEIN,

By Hope Ridings Miller.

PERSONS PRONE to ask with a sigh of resignation, "What is this younger generation coming to?" should have an opportunity with refreshing Mary E. Wien, of Montmorenci, Ind., who spent this week in Washington as a delegate to the 4-H Club Conference.

This attractive, auburn-haired girl with a sprinkling of freckles across her patrician nose is only 18, but she already knows more than most adults about this business of happy homemaking.

Yesterday she divulged some of her ideas along this line and told, incidentally, why she believes the household in which she lives with her parents, three brothers and a sister is such a successful one.

In her hand she held a sheet of paper bearing a list of "Factors Which Make For A Successful Home," compiled by Miss Gertrude Warren of the Department of Agriculture and distributed to the 160 boys and girls attending the conference. Each was asked to list from the 14 factors the five they considered most important in making a successful home.

Composite Results.

The five factors receiving the highest rating, were:

1. Showing an active interest and encouraging other members of the family in what they are doing.
2. Maintaining a cheerful attitude about the home.
3. Talking over family problems.
4. Sharing in the household duties.
5. Understanding money arrangements.

Looking over the list, Miss Wien observed that her ratings did not tally entirely with the composite results from the 160 delegates. "But I did give first place to the same factor favored by the majority of the others," she said. "Being interested in what other members of the family are doing is tremendously important," she went on. "If each person thinks only of himself, he might as well live alone. In my family there are seven— three boys and two girls besides our parents.

"Each of us is vitally concerned with what each of the others is interested in. We have to be, in order to work together and to share each others' joys and sorrows. Last summer, when I was getting ready to go to Purdue University, for example, my brothers and sister and my parents were just as thrilled as I was. That made it seven times as much fun for me."

She considers "Maintaining a cheerful attitude about the home" and "Sharing in household duties," as of almost equal importance in successful homemaking. "Everybody knows that a grouch around the house makes everyone unhappy," she said, "and everybody knows, also, that all members of a family should co-operate in getting the work done.

Household Systematized.

"In our home we have the latter systematized to a fine point. My father, my three brothers and the hired men do all the work in the fields and the milking. My mother likes to take care of the garden and the flowers, so she does both when she isn't busy in the house. I prefer cooking, so I manage all the meals. My sister, who is younger, does errands and helps around the house. The system works out very well."

While the factor listed as "Being able to develop talent along some particular line" did not receive one of the five highest ratings from the 160 boys and girls as a whole, Miss Wien thinks it is important. "In my family each person is encouraged to develop some talent. As it happens, we are all of a musical turn, we devote most of each Sunday to music in our home.

Teaching the Child to Read Often Proves Difficult Task

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

WHY NOT TEACH Mary to read this summer? She is only 5, but for a year has been hounding mother to teach her. It might be a good idea to have her eyes tested first. The amount of eyestrain involved in learning how to read is trifling, but once she has learned Mary will want to practice the art and will use her eyes too much.

If, however, her eyes are normal or can be made so with corrective glasses, there is no reason why a few minutes a day during the long summer months should not be given over to her lessons. If she wants to learn how to read, all she needs is a little systematic help and suggestion. If she has not expressed a desire to read, she had better wait another year.

Any reader will do, and the best system is the one which proves to be the most effective with Mary. All children cannot be taught reading the same way. For that reason it is best taught to the individual and at one's leisure. Let the child set the pace, and be sure that he enjoys his lessons.

Many women go on the theory that a mother cannot teach her own child. The only obstacle to a mother's teaching her child successfully is that she is too apt to be overexacting, and to lose her temper if the child seems dull or inattentive. If she would look upon the child as a person, like anyone else's child, and not as a part of herself, she would find a change in her whole attitude which would make the lessons pleasant for both teacher and pupil.

One does not need to be a pedagogue to teach reading. All that is necessary is patience and a little ingenuity. The method must be adapted to the individual child, and the teacher must find by experiment which way the child learns best.

Human Race Getting Taller and Slimmer

The human race is getting taller, according to a study of growth recently published in The British Medical Journal. The study also has revealed that city dwellers are generally larger than country dwellers.

And Call It Accident

By Mrs. Belloc Lowndes

CHAPTER 16.

MEANWHILE, Philip Trefane was walking across the great hall toward the door, and his wife called after him: "I don't want you to come, too, Phil."

"I know, you're sure to have better luck with that old trout if I'm not there. But you don't suppose I'm going to let you get out the car? Wait quietly here till I come and tell you everything is O. K., darling."

There came a softer expression over the pale face of Iris Trefane, and as he shut the door: "Phil is a remarkably good husband, as husbands go," she observed, half to the other girl.

Ruth felt touched and amused, too. Like all American women she expected every man to be the bond slave of his wife, daughter, or mother, to say nothing of the pleasant men friends, young or old, who had always seemed eager to carry out her wishes, even before that great stroke of luck had befallen her.

"I feel I'm going to give you a lot of trouble," she said penitently.

"It's all in a day's work."

Iris repeated the well-worn saying in a cold, listless voice, and Ruth exclaimed, "I do want to tell you how awfully grateful I am to you both for all your kindness to a complete stranger. I do appreciate my good fortune in having made two such friends."

"As to that, our meeting you was a marvelous stroke of luck for us. Phil is miserable when he's doing nothing."

She uttered those two words in a mechanical tone. She still felt haunted by what had happened the evening before, and she had lain awake much of the night re-living the fearful half hour she had lived through. It was so terrible to realize that but for that strange prevision, which had suddenly come across her, both her husband and Ruth Starling would have been drowned.

Ruth Puzzles Iris.

She looked furtively at Ruth. How extraordinary that the girl should show so little after effect of what had surely been a frightful experience! But so it was. Save that she had a little less color than usual she appeared today more attractive—in a way more girlish—than she had done yet. And then there came a spasm across Iris' burning heart. Ruth Starling maybe looked like that because she was going to meet Lord John!

Meanwhile the subject of these anxious thoughts was enjoying her breakfast, and feeling quite different from what she had felt during her anxious, worried days in London. For the first time, it might be said for years, she put away from her mind her passionate determination to be an actress, and was living simply in the agreeable present. It was such—well, fun was the only word—to plunge into a world she had thought only existed in old-fashioned plays, and old-fashioned novels.

Every moment of her visit to the manor house had brought a thrill with it. Even Lady Cicester, "the marchioness," as Iris would sometimes call her in a contemptuous tone, appeared to the American girl a typical dowager of romance. Also, and very much also, she had liked Lord John, and she knew that she had attracted him. So no wonder she was looking forward to seeing him again, and telling herself how lucky it was she had brought with her "her riding togs."

Only one thing made her feel uncomfortable this morning. Even before she had overheard that curious interchange of words between Iris and Phil she had sensed that both the husband and wife had been vexed that she had so quickly and easily made friends with Lady Cicester and her homekeeping son.

Ruth regretted very much that they felt that way! How could they suppose that anything could effect her warm and grateful feeling toward themselves? It hurt her that they could believe, even for a moment, that she was capable of deserting them to go and live as Philip had oddly put it, "in his aunt's pocket."

The door of the hall opened. "Darling? The car's at the door—" And Iris hurried off, leaving her paying guest alone in the great hall which had been the scene of many a romance, both tragic and gay, in its thousand years of life.

Ruth had glanced over the funny little local paper which to her secret mind might have been published in Noah's ark, so lacking was it in anything which to her spelled "news" when Iris reappeared.

Finances Bob Up.

She was wearing a quaint bonnet-like straw hat, which was at once exceedingly simple and deliciously becoming. She exclaimed gayly: "The old lady is delighted about the bathroom, and, wonders of wonders, she is quite keen to pay half what it will cost herself!"

"O, but I'd rather pay for it all——"

"Nonsense, my dear! However rich you may be," there came an edge of resentment in the tuneful voice, "it's always foolish to throw money away. As a matter of fact Lady Cicester ought to pay the whole of the cost. Putting in a bathroom there will make it easy to let the annex during the winter. I'm delighted Phil thought of it. And now I must find him to go into Lilyford. We shall be gone about an hour, and I hope we'll bring the builder back with us." Even so, she lingered on in the great hall. "Phil was wondering, just before I pense connected with the bathroom. went off, whether you'd mind giv- He thinks it would buck up the ing him a check for part of the ex- builder quite a lot if he could be given something in advance."

"Why, yes, of course, I'll get a check. I ought to have thought of it——" cried Ruth.

She ran up to her bedroom, but once there she felt vexed she had not asked Iris how much her check should be made out for. It did not seem worth while to go downstairs again, especially as the Trefanes were in a hurry to get to the country town and back.

For a moment or two she waited with the pen in her hand. How much in England would transforming a small room into a bathroom cost? She had not the faintest idea. One hundred pounds? Two hundred pounds? As was Ruth's nature she inclined to the larger sum, so she made out a check for two hundred pounds "to Capt. Trefane, on order."

Iris was waiting at the bottom of the winding stone staircase, and there was an anxious, strained look on her face. But as Ruth handed her the slip of paper, and she glanced down to see what was written there, over her face there flashed a look of keen relief. "You are a good sport!" she exclaimed in so cordial a tone that it touched the girl.

Seldom indeed did Philip Trefane's wife show any emotion. At times she had a touch of mordant wit which would make her husband laugh admiringly, but she seldom spoke to any human being with real kindness in her heart. This time she did, and it was happily that she went on: "We'll be as quick as we can, but Philip will have to bargain a bit, as his aunt is in on this show. What will you do to amuse yourself meanwhile?"

'I shall find plenty to do," said Ruth, smiling. As a matter of fact, she would have liked to accompany the Trefanes into the little town of Lilyford, and to have helped choose the bathroom fixtures.

She had had a glimpse, through an open door, of one of the bathrooms of the manor house, and it had struck her with horror and surprise. The iron bath (long and coffin-shaped, had been lightly covered with some kind of white paint which allowed the rusty iron to show through. The cheapest kind of Japanese matting covered the floor and the only light there filtered in through a tiny skylight. It was a survival of those Victorian days when fixed baths had first been introduced into England, and Lady Cicester thought it still quite good enough for what was called "the bachelor wing" of her country house.

A Debt to Iris.

In spite of her confident declaration that she would find plenty to do, Ruth wondered how she could fill up the next hour on this splendid morning. She walked across to one of the windows and gazed out of it at the great expanse of sea. The green and blue translucent water might have been that of a peaceful inland lake, and yet how very nearly she had been engulfed in that blue-green water—there to suffer a hideous death by drowning. For the first time she began to wonder how Iris had come to know of her own and Philip Trefane's perilous plight. That was certainly a mystery, but never would she forget that it was to Iris Trefane that she owed her life.

She turned at last away from the window and walked through into the sitting room which Iris had been clever enough to turn from what had been a dreary dingy bed chamber—albeit once occupied by a King of England——into a charming palor. It was now furnished with old painted furniture, and the paneling, painted a delicate blue, was covered with fantastic colored birds copied from an old Chinese paper.

On the floor was a faded oriental rug which did little more than hide the trapdoor which Iris had told her led to the kind of horrible little dungeon called by the sinister name of oubliette, because a hapless victim of medieval cruelty once put down there was "forgotten"—and left to a lingering death. A spring of fresh water ran under the castle, and at times the oubliette was filled almost to the top.

500 Registered For Sojourners Sessions Today

Mason Delegates Pay Visit to Mt. Vernon; Are Layman Guests at Quantico.

Five hundred delegates from all sections of the country registered yesterday for the sixteenth annual convention of the National Sojourners at the Mayflower Hotel.

The organization, composed of officers in the United States Army and Navy services who are master Masons, will hold first business sessions today. After registrations yesterday, delegates, several from foreign countries, went to Mount Vernon and placed a wreath on the tomb of George Washington. Then they were guests of Maj. Gen. Charles H. Lyman, commandant of the Marine base at Quantico.

Earlier in the day, officers of the group met in executive session, under the chairmanship of Dr. Bolivar J. Lloyd. Arrangements for the convention are being directed by Maj. Edwin S. Bettleheim, jr., Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, Lieut. Col. Thomas W. Monroe, Lieut. Col. Arthur J. Perry, Dr. William H. Sebrell, Lieut. James Otis Porter and Capt. Louis F. Nickel.

Sessions of the convention will continue through tomorrow. The main meeting will be opened this morning by Maj. Bettleheaim and Col. Alva J. Brasted, chief of Army chaplains.

Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen will deliver the address of welcome. Other speakers wil include Edgar Morris, president of the Washington Board of Trade, and officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

Funeral Services Held For Arthur W. Cutten

Chicago, June 25 (AP).—In St. James Episcopal Church today, funeral services were held for Arthur W. Cutten, whose death Wednesday ended the spectacular career of the "little giant of the wheat pits." Services were conducted by the Right Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal Bishop of Chicago. Following them, the body was sent to Guelph, Ontario, Canada, where Cutten was born 66 years ago. A second service will be held in St. George's Church there at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The Chicago Board of Trade, on which Cutten bought a seat in 1896, was represented at the services today by a committee of 19 members.

Attorneys Ask Early Hearing On Gas Rates

P. U. C. Urged to Schedule Investigation Before August 10.

People's Counsel William A. Roberts and John Burton, of Sullivan & Cromwell, New York, yesterday asked the Public Utilities Commission to schedule the projected gas rate hearing on or before August 10. Roberts asked for an early hearing so that findings may be thoroughly studied before new rates are fixed to become effective September 1.

Richmond B. Keech, acting chairman of the commission, took the request under advisement, but explained that a decision will not be reached for a few days due to the illness of Riley Elgin, commission chairman.

Burton will act as general counsel for the Washington Gas Light Co. in the rate hearing, the first at which a sliding scale adopted last winter will be applied.

Several problems of policy will have to be settled before the hearing is held as the commission for the first time will assess proportional maintenance costs for buildings and equipments in the District against subsidiaries of the gas company operating in Maryland and Virginia.

While many District agencies will be on a light summer schedule, the Public Utilities Commission faces the heaviest calendar in years.

Its first hearing, a bus rerouting case, will begin July 8. Later in the same month a hearing will be held on the request of the Capital Transit Co. to adopt 40 additional one-man street cars either as replacements or increases.

Following the gas hearing in August, the commission will have to start early in September the inquiry on the petition for increased street car and bus fares. This hearing promises to be the most long-drawn-out and productive of protests.

A telephone inquiry also is looming, though it still is indefinite. The commission is awaiting a reply from officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to a letter from Elgin asking for certain information.

R. A. Van Orsdel, general counsel of the telephone company, yesterday assured the commission that the information would be available within a few days.

4,200 U. S. Aids To Get Pay Today

Though appreciably diminished by officials eager to release the pay roll, enough red tape still remained late yesterday to disappoint 4,200 Federal employes who had expected to receive their overdue salary checks.

All doubt was removed, however, that the money would be available today, probably this morning. Charles A. Peters, jr., head of the National Park Service buildings branch, whose 4,200 workers are affected by the delay, said he expected the last Treasury hurdle would be cleared today.

The checks about to be distributed were due June 15. They are backed by funds appropriated in the deficiency bill signed Monday by President Roosevelt.

Building guards, elevator operators, mechanics, charwomen and clerks inconvenienced by the tieup may at least be assured, it was pointed out, that they will receive their salaries due June 30 on time. The deficiency bill carried sufficient funds for the buildings branch to wind up the fiscal year.

Guards Are Added In Ohio Strike Zone

Portsmouth, Ohio, June 25 (AP).—Sheriff Arthur Oakes began late today deputizing 100 persons to act as guards in maintaining peace about the Wheeling Steel Corporation plant, closed by a strike since May 22.

It was over this line that company guards sought to transport food to besieged workers Tuesday when a gun battle broke out that caused one death and the wounding of five men.

Strike-Bound Voyagers Seize Ship Line Offices

Marseille, France, June 25 (AP).—Travelers who were prevented from leaving Marseille because sailors occupied their ships during a strike today retaliated by occupying the offices of shipping companies in protest.

Hundreds of them sat in offices for three hours and refused to move until they were assured the ships would leave tomorrow, following settlement of the strike.

Lawrence G. Atkinson Rites to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at his home, 4907 Fourth street northwest, at 2 p. m. tomorrow for Lawrence G. Atkinson, 29, who died Wednesday after an illness of several months. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Atkinson, a plumber, was a lifelong resident of Washington. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Atkinson, and a brother, F. Bernard Atkinson, survive.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1936

P.-T.A. Asked To Help Fight Diphtheria

Points Out Clinics Are Available if Physician Cannot Be Paid.

Because Washington in 1935 had the highest diphtheria mortality rate in the United States—5.7 deaths per 100,000 population—Health Officer George C. Ruhland yesterday appealed to parent-teacher associations of the District for co-operation in obtaining better communicable disease control.

Writing to Mrs. Walter B. Fry, president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers, Dr. Ruhland said:

"The present appeal asks your support in a campaign to stamp out diptheria in the District. As you no doubt know, medical science has been able to eradicate diphtheria to a large extent and most of the large cities are at the present time conspicuously free from this disease.

"It is rather disappointing to note, however, that in the District of Columbia we have not achieved an equal protection for child life against this disease. At the present writing there have been reported since the first of the year 560 cases of diphtheria and 20 deaths from the disease.

Many Are Crippled.

"It should be noted that the sole damage from the diphtheria infection is not expressed in deaths. Unfortunately many of the children who are infected from diphtheria develop heart disease, which will cripple them for the remaining days of their lives.

"As stated, diphtheria is a preventable disease. However, to secure this protection for a child life we must have the co-operation of the parents and the public. Every child should be given the advantage of this protection. The best time for giving this protection is early childhood—as soon as possible after the sixth month of life.

"Where parents cannot afford to employ the service of a private physician for this purpose, the Health Department clinics will be available."

Sent to Medical Groups.

Copies of the letter, together with statistical tables, also were sent to the District Medical Society, the Medico-Chirurgical Society and other medical groups with the following observation by the health officer:

"While I am planning to make my appeal directly to the public and through the parent-teacher associations to the members of their groups, I also feel that the private physician should urge families under his care to make use of the protective treatments that can protect child life against diphtheria."

Appended data showed that during the first five months of this year there were 17 deaths from diphtheria in the District. On an annual basis this would give the Capital a mortality rate of 7.9 per 100,000 population or far higher than in 1935, when Washington led the country.

125,000 May Attend Rally for Roosevelt

More than 125,000 Washingtonians are expected to attend the Roosevelt nominator's rally in Griffith Stadium tomorrow night, sponsors estimated yesterday.

A torchlight parade, starting at Tenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, will lead Roosevelt supporters to the stadium, where the President's speech in Philadelphia will be broadcast over loud speakers.

Plans for an elaborate entertainment program are being completed by Joseph E. Davies, chairman of arrangements. Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, escorted by 40 mounted aids, will be grand marshal of the parade. State delegations will be headed by prominent political leaders.

Gates of Griffith Stadium will be open at 7 p. m. and the program will begin 45 minutes later. Massed bands of 750 musicians and headline acts from the local theaters will amuse the crowd until the President's speech.

Lollipops for Young and Old

Young Romp as the Old Watch At Party Given at Jewish Home

Two Solos, One by Girl, 5, Another by Woman, 87, Among Features of Affair; Prep Club Hopes to Give Entertainment Every Year.

The extremes of youth and age met together yesterday afternoon on the lawn of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, 1125 Spring road northwest, at a party given for the inmates and for the children of the Jewish Foster Home.

Hosts for the affair were 14 boys between the ages of 14 and 17, members of a social organization called the Prep Club.

Some of the guests were in wheel chairs. Others were so infirm they could not leave their rooms, but watched the proceedings from the windows. Still others were so young they had to be watched lest they eat too many lollipops or hurt themselves in peanut races.

Most of the afternoon the two groups were content to watch each other. The youngsters romped much as they do at the Foster Home, looking only occasionally in the direction of the venerable and bearded men in skull caps and the aged women with shawls over their heads.

The old people, however, kept their eyes fastened on the frolicking youngsters. They didn't seem to have much to say to each other. Through their long residence together they have run pretty dry of conversation.

Then the program began and momentarily merged the two groups—the very young and the very old. Five-year-old Eli Levine had barely finished singing "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round" before Mrs. Rachel April, 87, began a solo. Sitting in her wheel chair, with one tremulous hand waving the tempo, she sang a Jewish lullaby.

Her voice was so feeble that the Yiddish melody could not be heard more than a few feet away, but the children, sitting above her on a bank, stopped their whispering and squirming and were quiet until Mrs. April finished her song.

Burton Ostrow, one of the hosts, sang "My Mother's Eyes," and young Sid Salis played a violin solo. Buddy Rosenthal, another member of the club, was master of ceremonies.

Ice cream, cake, punch and lollipops were served by the boys who gave the party: Herbert Duke, Burton Ostrom, Edwin Ornstein, Buddy Rosenthal, David Silverman, Bernard and Stanley Glassman, Irvin Lewis, Alvin Miller, Bobby Symonds, Bernard Lust, Arnold Herman and Bernard Bennett.

Herbert Duke, president of the Prep Club, announced the organization plans to make the party an annual event, and thanked Mrs. A. Brown, chairman of the monthly birthday parties at the Hebrew Home for the Aged, in guiding the boys through their first effort at entertaining the residents of the two institutions.

Last Rites Today For Kin Who Died At Girl's Wedding

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Hillyard, of 1116 Euclid street, who died of heart disease in her pew at Chevy Chase Baptist Church Wednesday during the wedding of her daughter, will be conducted today by the Rev. E. O. Clark, who was performing the nuptial rites when the 77-year-old woman died.

The funeral will be held at Chambers funeral home at 10 a. m., followed by burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Meanwhile, the daughter, Ruth Hillyard, who was married to Erskine H. Rupp—unmindful that while the vows were being said her mother had died—yesterday postponed her honeymoon indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupp went to their new home at 5710 Fifth street northwest.

Slayer 'Content' With Conviction

Through his attorneys, William M. McNamara, of Petersburg, Va., convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of John Midekas, chef in a K street cafe, announced yesterday he was content with the verdict returned against him by a jury in District Supreme Court Wednesday.

Throughout the trial he contended he had sought unsuccessfully a reconciliation with his wife, who was a waitress in the restaurant where Midekas worked, and that he shot the chef accidentally as he attempted suicide.

The jury's verdict of manslaughter was brought in after an hour and a half of deliberation. The shooting occurred last March 14 in the cafe.

Sentence of from 3 to 15 years, minimum and maximum under the law, probably will be pronounced next week.

CCC Vacancies Open To 36 Local Veterans

Round Table Marks Anniversary Today

The tenth anniversary of the founding of the Washington Round Table will be celebrated at 12:30 p. m. today at a luncheon in the University Club. Dr. Everett M. Ellison, one of the founders, will review the growth of the organization.

The Round Table Club is founded on the legend of King Arthur and his 128 knights, who gained cheer and inspiration from each other at periodical feasts.

Women Hear Talk on NYA By Williams

Aim Is to Keep Door of Education Open, He Tells Catholics.

Bishop Sheil to Speak at Institute Today; 60 Attend.

Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth Administration, last night told Youth Institute delegates meeting at the Catholic School of Social Service that "youth's problems are inextricably bound up with the social and economic problems which are troubling us all."

The present economic disorder, he said, had made it difficult for young men and women to earn their way through college. Since it was equally difficult for them to find a place in business, they were left without purpose or opportunity.

It is the duty of the Government, Williams stated, to create greater educational, recreational and work opportunities.

Seeks to Keep Doors Open.

Energy and self-reliance do not deteriorate when people are given an opportunity to use them, he said, no matter whether the people are young or old. He said it is vital to keep the spirit of self-reliance alive.

Williams explained that a considerable part of the National Youth Administration program is in keeping the doors of education open to young people.

This is accomplished, he said, by giving the students a chance to earn money. He exhibited charts which showed the average earnings of a group of high school students as $6 a month and of a group of college students as $15 a month.

The speaker cited instances in which the Youth Administration had aided gifted students who would otherwise have been without an opportunity for education.

60 Attend Institute.

The present meeting of the institute, which is sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Women, began Monday. About 60 representatives of groups in the Atlantic and Midwestern States are attending.

At the session this afternoon the delegates will hear the Most Rev. Bernard G. Sheil, auxiliary Bishop of Chicago, explain methods used in the youth work there.

Mrs. Mary B. Finan, youth chairman of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, will speak this morning on "Leadership Training in Our Academies and Colleges." Another morning speaker will be Mrs. Mary Filser Lohr, president of the Central Verein of New York City.

The conference concludes this evening with a panel discussion on "Preparation for Home Making." Among those taking part will be Clara V. Bradley, Mrs. James F. Ryan and John O'Connor

Man Loses Memory; Asks District Police To Seek His Identity

A man without a memory walked into Ninth Precinct Police Station last night and asked:

"What is my name? Where am I from?"

There was anguish in his voice and sorrow in his eyes as he asked the questions of Sergt. Bob Frazier.

The man explained:

"I've lost my memory. I don't know who I am. Can't you help me?"

Everything is vague in his mind, he told police. Life is a sort of perpetual twilight. But from the tangled shreds of a twisted mind he said he had an uncertain idea he was Capt. G. Harris, of Soldiers' Home, Hampton, Va.

Police started to check that sole clew last night.

And the man without a name, without a memory, was taken to Gallinger Hospital.

Police said he was well dressed in a brown suit, white shirt and black shoes. He looked, officers said, to be about 40 years old.

Sydney Austin Will Get A. B. Degree at Antioch

Sydney Austin, ward of the late Dr. Louis Austin, of 3136 Newark street, will receive a bachelor of arts degree in secondary education Saturday night at the commencement of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. He has accepted a position with a private school in Morristown, N. J.

Austin has tutored in Hollywood, done playground work at Chicago Teachers College and worked at the Park School in Indianapolis.

Miss Backus Asks Former Post at Deal

She Is 'Not Interested' in Either of the Assistant Superintendencies.

Miss Bertie Backus, who for two years was assistant superintendent of schools in charge of the character education program, now discontinued, yesterday asked Dr. Frank W. Ballou, school superintendent, to assign her to the principalship of Alice Deal Junior High School.

In her application Miss Backus said she was "not interested" in either of the assistant superintendencies for which she has been mentioned.

The Alice Deal assignment, she pointed out, would give her the opportunity to compile materials developed during the character education experiment, and put it in a form "through which the public may have the bene fit of our experience."

Formerly Held Post.

Miss Backus was principal of Alice Deal before she was assigned by Dr. Ballou to the character education work. Should she regain the position she would take the job from Mrs. Margaret R. Merritt. Miss Backus said yesterday she had already discussed the matter with Mrs. Merritt and believed the adjustment could be made without difficulty.

Dr. Ballou announced Miss Backus' request yesterday without comment or indication that it will be granted. He said it is "quite possible" that the appointment and those of the two assistant superintendents, one to take charge of senior high schools and the other to direct junior high schools, will be considered at a special meeting of the Board of Education this afternoon.

The board is meeting at 3 p. m. to discuss several personnel matters.

Termination of the character education program for lack of appropriation was formally recognized by the board at its regular meeting Wednesday.

Seventeen to Lose Posts.

Dr. Ballou announced that 17 persons will lose their positions, and 16 others will be transferred to their former positions in the school system. Discontinuance of the experiment automatically relieved Miss Backus of her duties, and for that reason she had been mentioned as a candidate for the two assistant superintendent positions.

Those losing their posts in the experiment were H. S. Carlson and L. L. Jarvie, counselors in the white schools, and H. E. Moses, Miss E. Rosalie Clark and Miss M. A. Morton, counselors in the colored schools. The others let out were clerks.

During the existence of the character education experiment approximately $150,000 was appropriated for it. Another $73,000 was placed in the budget to continue it for another year but was cut out during the budget bill's course through the House and Senate.

Ex-Patents Official Is Sued for $150,000

Alfred J. Jacobi, a former examiner in the United States Patent Office, yesterday, in the District Supreme Court, filed suit against Thomas E. Robertson, former Commissioner of Patents, for damages of $150,000.

The suit, filed by Jacobi, acting as his own attorney, charged Robertson with interfering in the domestic affairs of the Jacobis beyond the jurisdiction of his office.

Hollis Todd, 10, demonstrates with a toy pistol just what he will do if there is a repetition of yesterday's holdup at his house. The enthralled auditor is Helen Clifford, 3, of 5931 Fourth street northwest.

Housewife Helps Capture Man Half Hour After Home Holdup

A housewife's keen eye for detail, together with fast police work, brought the arrest of a holdup suspect within half an hour yesterday.

Mrs. Vincent H. Todd, wife of a Government patent examiner, was working in the kitchen of her home, 316 Peabody street northwest, when a young colored man came to the door and asked to mow the lawn.

Hired, he went to the basement to get the mower. But when he ascended the steps to the kitchen a few moments later he displayed a pistol.

"Put up your hands," he warned Mrs. Todd and her colored maid, Mattie McLaurin. "Don't make a sound or I'll blow your brains out."

The intruder reached for a glass tumbler containing small change, then ordered the housewife to turn over all the other money in the house. She gave him two pocketbooks, each containing a small amount, and then was herded into an upstairs bedroom with the maid.

"What frightened me most of all," Mrs. Todd said later, "was that my son, Hollis, who was playing on the front porch might burst into the house, yell for help when he saw what was going on and be shot."

The two women were locked in the bedroom, only to walk out through an unnoticed side door as soon as the robber left the house.

Telephoning police, Mrs. Todd gave them such a minute description that the alleged holdup man was arrested 20 minutes later by Privates H. A. Deaner and W. L. Sherer at Fifth and Gallatin streets northwest. The suspect said he was Sidney Person, 400 block of 15½ street southeast, and gave his age as 22. He was held for investigation after being identified by Mrs. Todd.

The gun found in his possession turned out to be a realistic imitation.

Bi-Party Group In Montgomery Backs Landon

One hundred prominent Republicans and Democrats met last night at Kenwood Country Club for the organization meeting of the Landon-LeGore Club of Montgomery County, elected officers and announced the purpose of the organization.

They explained:

Earl Whittier Shinn, president; Wilson L. Townsend, vice president; James C. Rogers, secretary-treasurer.

Paul Sleman, Robert L. McKeever, Mrs. C. W. Mitchell and Walter W. Dawson were named members of the club's executive committee. The club decided to appoint an advisory committee of 100 soon.

Dawson attacked Roosevelt bitterly in a speech. He said the President, if re-elected, expected to appoint two members of the Supreme Court and "those two members would be Donald Richberg and Felix Frankfurter."

Among other speakers was former Commissioner of Patents Thomas E. Robertson, who said James A. Farley is "claiming everything, but really is shaking in his boots."

Other speakers were Don W. Coffman, president of the Thirteenth Election District of Republican Clubs; Mrs. Helen Koch, Mrs. Esther Fleishell, Walker Cross, secretary to Senator Hope, of Kansas; George Horning, jr., George E. Chinn, Dr. C. C. Galloway, County Commissioner Paul Coughlan, Montague Ferry, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor and Paul Sleman.

Purpose of the club is to boost Alf M. Landon for President and Harry W. Legore for Congress from Maryland.

Fund Slashed, 1,000 Facing Loss of Relief

Only a New Allocation of WPA Cash Will Save Incomes.

Only an additional allocation of WPA funds to the District shortly after July 1 will keep nearly 1,000 handicapped families from starving, it appeared yesterday after District welfare officials disclosed that that number must be dropped because of the reduction in administrative staff and appropriation voted by Congress.

Elwood Street, director of public welfare, said the board of public welfare has no alternative in view of the fact that the public assistance staff is to be cut by 125 and the next year's relief appropriation is only $1,600,000.

"Even if we had more money we couldn't handle the cases with the reduced staff brought about by the $200,000 limitation on salaries," he said.

Varied Handicaps.

Whether the heads of these 1,000 families can be given even WPA jobs is conjectural in view of their varied handicaps which placed them on emergency relief.

Their plight is expected to be taken up immediately upon the return to Washington of Commissioner George E. Allen, who is WPA administrator for the District.

Street explained the number would have been dropped last April, when District relief rolls were cut practically to unemployables, had not Congress appropriated $350,000 instead of $250,000 to finance operations for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Miss Alice M. Hill, relief director, estimated there are now about 5,000 cases on the relief list. After July 1 this will be approximately 4,000.

Eligible for Pensions.

A thousand more are believed to be eligible for old-age pensions and will be transferred as soon as their eligibility can be substantiated. In view of the staff reduction, however, these transfers will be slow.

The welfare division has allocated the $1,400,000 for relief over a 12-month period, but the Commissioners may be forced to ask Congress for additional funds early next year. On an average monthly grant of $30 this budget will care for 4,120 families.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate sub-committee on District appropriations, assured the Commissioners last spring he would aid them in obtaining more money if they find it necessary next January.

St. Louis, June 25.—There is virtually no news to report today. The Nats met the Browns again and beat 'em again, but there is nothing startling in that development, inasmuch as the Nats have met the Browns ten times this season and have beaten 'em nine times. When the Browns win a game from Washington, that will come under the heading of news.

Today the score was 12 to 5 as the Nats made a clean sweep of the three-game series and established an undisputed claim to third place coincident with Cleveland's defeat by Boston.

Washington started winning the game when Manager Bucky Harris thumbed Pitcher Joe Cascarella out of the box. Cascarella was doing the Nats no good out there on the mound in the four innings he pitched, and was in a fair way toward wasting the Nats' 7-4 lead when Harris inserted Pete Appleton into the game.

Appleton put the quietus on a St. Louis uprising in the fifth, retired 'em with only one-run damage, and then shut 'em out during the remainder of the game to gain credit for the victory.

In addition to Appleton's pitching, there was the small item of 19 hits by the Nats that helped to win the game. Joe Kuhel was the chief offender against four St. Louis pitchers with a pair of doubles and a pair of singles, but the loudest shot of the afternoon was fired by Johnny Stone, who rammed a home run over the right field pavilion in the fourth with Kuhel on base.

Ivy Paul Andrews, who hasn't won a game for the Browns this season, was Manager Hornsby's pitching choice at the start, but he couldn't hold a 1-0 lead beyond the third inning and stone's homer put the Nats in front, 3-1 in the fourth.

Cascarella Ineffective.

But Cascarella was no howling success either. He gave the Browns back the lead, 4-3, in the fourth inning when he pitched singles to Carey and Giuliani with two out, and then pitched a triple to Pinch Hitter Bejma and a single to Lyn Lary.

The Nats bounced right back with five hits in the fifth against Jack Knott to go in front, 7-4, but when Cascarella walked Solters and pitched a single to Coleman in the Browns' half of the inning, Manager Harris got him out of there. Appleton got the Nats out of the predicament with only one-run damage and the Browns were not heard from in a scoring way thereafter.

But the Nats were still crying for runs. They picked up three more against Knott and Van Atta in the sixth when Bluege singled, Appleton and Chapman doubled, Lewis singled and Kuhel doubled. And they collected another pair in the eighth after Kuhel singled against the rightfield wall and Stone doubled to the same sector.

Van Atta struck out three Nats in succession in the sixth, but it would not be wise to leap to conclusions. The Nats had scored three runs against him and Jack Knott before the strikeouts took place.

The Nats entrained for Chicago tonight for a four-game series with the White Sox opening tomorrow. A double-header is scheduled at Comiskey Park on Sunday.

Oh, Take Me Out to the Ball Game—1876 Version

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

As part of the National League's observance of baseball's sixtieth anniversary, two teams wearing uniforms of 1876 era and playing under rules in vogue at that time, staged a game before the double-header between the Cubs and Bees. Here the luckless "Cub" does a typical 1876 head-first dive for the plate, but the Bee catcher, without mask, glove, chest protector or any other modern gadget, has him out by a mile.

Rowe Allows 2 Hits, Tigers Win, 13-1

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, June 25.—Lynwood ("Schoolboy") Rowe limited the Philadelphia Athletics to two hits today in an amazing return to form as his Detroit Tiger mates pounded out a 13-to-1 victory in the series opener.

Only 28 batsmen faced the big Tiger right-hander as, showing no trace of the sore arm that has hampered him this season, he won his sixth victory. Bob Johnson clouted a home run in the fifth inning for the only Philadelphia score. Puccinelli singled in the second and Finney walked in the fourth, but both were trapped on the bases by double plays.

The Tigers battered Herman Fink and Bill Dietrich, who relieved him in the eighth, for 19 hits, including seven doubles and Jack Burns' home run with two men on base. Every Detroit batter hit safely at least once, and Al Simmons collected four hits and Burns and Billy Rogell three each.

'Boston' Tops 'Chicago' In Game of Old Timers

By the Associated Press.

Boston, June 25.—Bewhiskered ball players revived days of long ago today with a three-inning game between the "Boston and Chicago old timers"—first celebration by the National League of its sixtieth birthday.

To the cheers of 10,000 fans, the Boston veterans scored a 2-to-1 victory over the Chicago old-timers. The game was a preliminary to the doubleheader between the Bees and the Cubs.

Players for both teams were drawn from the ranks of the Boston park department and former ball players here.

Riding with them were President Ford Frick, of the National League, President Emeritus John A. Heydler, of the league, and Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield.

He played in 1871 for the Bostons of the old National Association and still later was shortstop for the home team in the first National League game ever played here.

HomeRunsWin For Yankees Over Sox

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 25.—The New York Yankees' pitching collapsed again today, but as usual, the homer hammering of the revived "murderers' row" more than made up for it, and the league leaders turned in a 7 to 6 victory over the White Sox.

Although Bump Hadley, the starting pitcher, was bumped by the Sox in the eighth, and Ted Kleinhans lasted just one inning on relief, the Yankee heavy hitters went out in front, to stay, by the third.

All the homers were made off Ted Lyons, who was charged with his seventh defeat. He was relieved by Clint Brown in the last frame.

Youngster, Vet Share Swim Laurels

United Press Staff Correspondent.

New York, June 25—A youngster who had never been in a swimming pool until last summer and a veteran champion of the aquatic world shared honors on the opening day of the National A. A. U. women's swimming and diving championships today in Oriental Pool, Manhattan Beach.

The youngster was Toni Redfern, 16-year-old Pehlham Manor, N. J., High School girl, who won the 100-meter free-style championship in 1:10.1.

The veteran was Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard, Homestead, Pa., who captured the 1-mile free-style title for the fourth straight year, setting a new world's record of 24:7.2. The former record was 24:20.4, made by Mrs. Wingard in winning the title here last year.

Event Postponed.

The other event of the first day of the four-day meet, the 3-meter springboard diving championship, was postponed until Saturday to allow the competitors more time to practice. Weather conditions have hampered their training. The world's youngest sports champion, 12-year-old Mary Hoeger, Miami Beach, Fla., will defend her title in the springboard diving event.

Miss Redfern's victory in the 100-meter race was a stunning upset, which saw the defending champion, Olive McKean, Seattle, Wash., able to get only sixth place in a field of eight.

Mrs. Wingard cracked two world records in her mile triumph. She also set a new world record of 22 minutes 39.2 seconds for the 1,500 meters. The former record was 23 minutes 17.2 seconds, made in 1931 by Helene Madison, of Seattle.

Mrs. Wingard finished about 135 yards ahead of Susan Robertson, Newark, N. J., in the mile. She stroked her way into the lead on the first lap of the 32-lap race and steadily increased her margin. Grace Silas, Miami Beach, Fla., finished about 50 yards behind Miss Robertson.

Sharkey Beats Brubaker by Decision

By the United Press.

Fenway Park, Boston, June 25.—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, another veteran with young ideas, hammered out a unanimous and popular decision over Phil Brubaker, of California, pride of the Pacific Coast, in a torrid ten-round scrap before 12,000 persons here tonight.

The former heavyweight champion, flashing by far his most impressive form since he came out of retirement last winter, spoiled "Preacher" Phil's Eastern debut and earned himself a possible August meeting with Joe Louis as he survived a first-round knockdown and came back to have his rangy opponent hanging on at the final bell.

The United Press score sheet gave Sharkey the fourth, fifth, ninth and tenth rounds; Brubaker, the first, second, sixth and eighth, and called the third and seventh even. Brubaker's best round was the first and Sharkey's the tenth, and it was by saving his kick for the windup that the 33-year-old squire of Chestnut Hill clinched the verdict.

Surprisingly fresh after nine rounds of fast action, Sharkey opened up with both guns in the finale to clear up any doubt as to which way the decision should go.

Umpiring So Bad 5 Peewees Forced To Do an Al Smith

The Al Simons Peewees aren't protesting, you understand, but honestly, the umpiring in their game with the Georgetown Boys Club yesterday was so terrible, five of 'em had to take a walk—and it wasn't to first base, according to Manager "Mike" Michaels.

Manager Mike's men absorbed a 22-6 lacing at the hands of their rivals, which is entirely beside the point. The point is that the umpire leaned more than slightly toward Georgetown in his decisions. The Simmonses, Manager Mike reports, suspected something from the beginning, inasmuch as the umpire, a Mr. Richardson, also manages the Georgetown team.

"They just walked off the field after they had batted," Manager Mike reports, and told us to go play ourselves some two-knocker.

Cox's 70 Tops British Open Entrants

11 Break Par, 11 Equal It in Spree of Scoring; Sarazen Has a 73.

By the United Press.

Hoylake, England, June 25.—Roly Poly Bill Cox, youthful British Ryder Cup star of 1935, set the pace with a 70 in the first round of the British Open Golf Tournament today as par for the difficult Hoylake course received one of its worst beatings in history.

Eleven players, including Gene Sarazen, of Brookfield Center, Conn., bettered par 74 and the same number equaled it. Among those scoring 74's were two other American stars, Errie Ball, of Mobile, Ala., and Willie Goggin, of San Bruno, Calif.

Ted Turner, Pine Valley, N. J., professional, finished one stroke above par. Only American to falter was Joe Ezar, of Waco, Tex., who had an 82.

Sarazen, missing many putts which would have broken the hearts of less sturdier players, carded a 73, one under par. The suave American Open champion of 1922 and 1932, and British winner of 1932, went out in 35, one under par. Then, despite many shots which went off line in the treacherous traps, he came home with a par 38 to be bracketed with five other players.

Occupying second place with a 71 was James Adams, a 25-year-old long-hitter from Troon, Scotland. Jack McLean, Scottish amateur, and R. A. Whitcombe and W. F. Davies, of England, were tied for third with 72s.

With Sarazen in the next group were Henry Cotton, whose sensational play put him first at the end of the 36-hole qualifying rounds; Marcel Dallemagne, of France; F. Francis, C. A. Whitcombe and Alf Padgham, last year's runner-up, all of England.

An assortment of 11 prominent and unknown players equaled par 74. The group included Ball and Goggin, Percy Alliss, of England, a betting favorite; Bert Gadd, of England, who shared the opening day qualifying lead with Cotton; Aubrey Boomer, Jim Green, Max

Patty Berg Loses; Marion Miley Wins

By the Associated Press.

Denver, June 25.—Red-haired Patty Berg, the 18-year-old Minneapolis lass, will be on the sidelines tomorrow when the semifinal battles start in the women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament.

Nervous at the start, Patty paged a long, uphill fight in the quarter-finals today but fell a 2 and 1 victim of her steady stroking fellow townswoman, Beatrice Barrett.

Marion Miley, the defending champion from Lexington, Ky., easily set the pace into the semi-final round, eliminating Mrs. James Rae Arneill, of Denver, 4 and 2, with an exhibition of steady, calm shotmaking.

Circuit Drives By Foxx Win For Sox, 9-4

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, June 25.—Jimmie Foxx's twentieth and twenty-first home runs of the season and Fred Ostermueller's portside pitching squelched the Cleveland Indians today, 9 to 4, as the Boston Red Sox opened a four-game series.

Foxx gave the ball a 400-foot ride over the centerfield wall in the first inning, scoring Bing Miller ahead of him. In the ninth, he added another homer with a smash into the leftfield bleachers, again scoring Miller.

Ostermueller held the Indians to six hits, two of which were doubles by Hal Trosky. Lloyd Brown, another left-hander, yielded 17 hits to the Sox.

Goodman Nears Fourth Trans-Mississippi Title

For company in the quarter-finals, Goodman had two Oklahoma City contenders, two from Dallas, one from Chicago and two from Wichita.

Sutter Advances In College Tennis

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 25.—Ernest Sutter, of Tulane, standout favorite and top-seeded entrant, continued his impressive march through the singles division of the National Intercollegiate tennis championship quarter-finals today, disposing of Gardner Mulloy, University of Miami, Fla., star, 6—0, 6—2.

Sutter, who played a back-court game to win easily over Mulloy, will oppose Ramsay Potts, of North Carolina, in one of tomorrow's semifinal singles tussles. Potts, an unranked entry, eliminated Lindsey Franklin, of Texas, 6—4, 6—2.

Ben Dey, of Stanford, had little trouble getting through the quarter-finals, defeating George Stevens, of Yale, 6—1, 6—0, but Vernon John, of Southern California, was forced to three sets to oust Ralph Minnich, of Princeton, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3. John, second in the seed, will meet Dey for the right to enter the final Saturday.

Budge, Perry Wimbledon Net Stars

All Favorites Win; Grant and Allison Advance; German Wins.

By the Associated Press.

Wimbledon, England, June 25.—Smoking victories by Fred Perry, bidding for his third successive title, and Don Budge, America's torch top tornado, set the pace in the third round of the All-England tennis championship today as the men's field was reduced to 16 players.

All favorites came through in straight sets, but none so decisively as Budge and Perry, who met more formidable opposition.

If there was any doubt as to Perry's preparedness for the defense of his title, he dismissed it by the manner in which he eliminated John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, veteran Davis Cup player.

Van Ryn piled up a 3—1 lead and there were some in the gallery of 17,000 who envisioned another hard-fought, four-set struggle such as Perry was put to last year to defeat Van Ryn. But the American wilted as Perry shot the ball into unprotected corners.

The crowd obviously was disappointed by Van Ryn's lackadaisical manner after his promising start. Perry's performance was his best this year.

America's two other hopes, Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta also advanced. Allison reached the fourth round after a titanic struggle against Jacques Vandeneyden, of Belgium, 8—6, 7—5, 7—5, while Grant achieved the defeat of Edward Avory, England's No. 8, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4.

Peacock, Greene and Hollebaugh Survive Maryland Golf Play

8th District Challengers Defeated

Local Champion Seeks to Regain Laurels; Yoder Eliminated.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, June 25.—Three Washington golfers entered the quarter-finals of the Maryland State amateur championships today at Hillendale Country Club.

Survivors from the District are Roger Peacock, of Congressional, 1933-34 champion; Hickman Greene, of Manor, who was medalist in the 1935 tournament, and Russ Hollebaugh, of Kenwood, long overdue in an important championship.

Yoder Eliminated.

Eight other Washingtonians, including the Middle Atlantic title holder, Levi Yoder, of Kenwood, were eliminated. Yoder lost a thriller on the nineteenth hole to Spencer Overton, of Rolling Road, the medalist, being 1 up and 1 to go when his game fell apart on the home hole.

Peacock flashed his old-time scoring power in eliminating Walter Greiner, of Forest Park, 6 and 4, and Nelson Halsey, of Clifton-Mount Pleasant, 3 and 2.

Conquered by Greene were A. W. Reid, of Sparrows Point, and Dave Womer, of the same course. Hollebaugh won from Erford Barnes, tough host club player, and Merle Thorpe, jr., of Burning Tree, who provided a big upset by defeating Tommy Webb, jr., of Washington, one up in a morning thriller.

Voleny Burnett, of Indian Spring, went down to an unexpected defeat in the afternoon, one up, at the hands of Nathan Kaufman, jr., of Suburban, after trimming Bernie Hallock, of Kenwood, 2 and 1.

First Round.

Ernest L. Caldwell (Hillendale) defeated Al London (Woodholme), 9 and 7; Eddie Semmler (Hillendale) defeated C. A. Dunning (Baltimore), 6 and 4; Merle Thorpe (Burning Tree) defeated Tommy Webb (Washington) 1 up; Russ Hollabaugh (Kenwood) defeated E. G. Barnes (Hillendale), 3 and 2; Otto Greiner (Forest Park) defeated Robert Jones (Hillendale), 1 up; John Mackenzie (Hillendale) defeated Harton M. Goodwin, jr. (Congressional), 4 and 3; Jack Fulton (Baltimore) defeated Donald McPhail, 2 up; Harry Root (Clifton-Mount Pleasant) defeated E. A. Lucas (Baltimore), 5 and 4.

Nelson Halsey (Clifton-Mount Pleasant) defeated Tom Cole (Hillendale), 4 and 3; Roger Peacock (Congressional) defeated Walter Greiner (Forest Park), 6 and 4; Nathan Kaufman, jr. (Suburban) defeated L. E. Hill, jr. (Kenwood), 1 up; Volney Burnett (Indian Spring) defeated Bernard Hallock (Kenwood), 2 and 1; Dave Womer (Sparrows Point) defeated William Shanahan, jr. (Hillendale), 2 up; Hickman Greene (Manor) defeated A. W. Reid (Sparrows Point), 3 and 2; C. A. Hook (Clifton-Mount Pleasant) defeated Page Huffy (Chevy Chase), 2 and 1; Spencer S. Overton (Rolling Road) defeated Levi Yoder (Kenwood), 1 up, 19 holes.

Second Round.

Caldwell defeated Semmler, 2 and 1; Hollabaugh defeated Thorpe, 2 and 1; Mackenzie defeated O. Greiner, 4 and 3; Root defeated Fulton, 1 up, 19 holes; Peacock defeated Halsey, 3 and 2; Kaufman defeated Burnett, 1 up; Greene defeated Womer, 5 and 3; Overton defeated Hook, 5 and 4.

Pairings.

9:30 a. m.: Caldwell vs. Hollabaugh; 9:35, Mackenzie vs. Root; 9:40, Peacock vs. Kaufman; 9:45, Greene vs. Overton.

Semifinals.

Diz Dean Pounded, Cards, Phils Divide

Philadelphia, June 25 (AP).—The Phillies and Cardinals divided a doubleheader today before 14,000 fans, many of them visitors to the Democratic convention.

The locals won the first game, 13-4, when they pounded Dizzy Dean and Leslie Munns for 15 hits which included four home runs.

St. Louis snared the second tilt by the same score, 13-4, to remain in first place by a scant margin.

Columbians Win.

This Morning . . .

With Shirley Povich.

St. Louis, Mo., June 24.

The shouting and the tumult over Buddy Lewis has subsided coincident with his once lofty batting average, but here's the paradox:

Right now, Bucky Harris is vastly more pleased with the 19-year-old third baseman than he was a month ago when young Lewis was sporting a .370 batting figure and generally being acclaimed as the rookie sensation of the league.

POVICH.

The lad's batting average has dropped to .304 and he's not driving in the runs he had been producing in such copious quantities throughout April and May, and fans throughout the circuit are ceasing to "Oh" and "Ah" at his performances, but day by day he has solidified his place on the Washington ball club.

What Harris likes about the lad is that, figures or no figures, he has proved himself a big leaguer. In the field, he has exceeded Harris' fondest anticipations.

Harris didn't know all these things about Lewis when the lad was hitting 'em hard, high and fancy in the early days of the campaign. He hardly dared to hope that Lewis was the third baseman he appeared to be, but his every fear has evaporated under the spell of Lewis' performances. The Lewis' throwing arm, which at Orlando in the spring appeared to be the worst ever brought into the big league, has adjusted itself almost magically to the undiluted surprise of the Nats' manager.

Harris is willing to make allowances, too, for the decline in Lewis' batting average. Out here in the West he has not been getting his hits, despite the fact that he has been pounding the ball on the nose.

If Lewis has a batting weakness, opposing pitchers haven't found it, despite the fact that this is his second trip around the circuit. Once it was noised about the league that he couldn't hit an inside curve. Most every pitcher that faced him fed him the inside stuff only to see the rookie meet it squarely.

And there are no grounds for belief, either, that Lewis, a left-hander, can't hit left-handed pitching. Unlike Johnny Stone and Joe Kuhel, the Nats' two most potent southpaw sluggers, young Lewis is not annoyed by left-handed pitching.

The St. Louis heat hasn't affected Harris when he says he likes Buddy Lewis better at this writing than he did when the lad was a .370 hitter a month ago. At that time, the Nats' manager was given to wondering whether the rookie was a flash in the pan. Now he feels more secure with Lewis out there playing third base and in there swinging a bat that's established as dangerous, if not potent.

Colonial Courtmen To Play in Garden

The George Washington University basketball team that breezed through its most successful campaign in the school's history last winter was singularly honored yesterday by an invitation to meet Long Island University at Madison Square Garden next winter.

The offer was made by Ned Irish, basketball promoter and matchmaker, who was impressed by the Colonials' work. The game will be played January 23.

George Washington met City College of New York in the Garden in 1932, as part of a twin bill played for charity, and was defeated by 11 points

Net Play Entries To Close Tonight

With one of the fastet fields in years already entered, only one more day remains for entry in the District of Columbia men's singles championships opening tomorrow on the courts of the Columbia Country Club.

Barney Welsh, the defending champion, is likely to be given a bye for the first round and allowed to catch up on the field Sunday due to participation in the current Middle States grass courts championships in Pittsburgh. Included in the 52 entries received to date are six from Baltimore and others from scattered sections of the country.

Entries must be telephoned to or be in the hands of Harry Howlett, who was announced as new professional at Columbia two weeks ago, by 5 p. m. tonight. The draw will be made immediately following and play commence at 2 p. m. tomorrow. The doubles entry will remain open until Monday.

GOOD OPPONENTS SOUGHT.

The Kendrick Beer ball team, winner of 10 out of 11 games, will play Winchester Park at Winchester, Va., Sunday. The Kendricks want games with strong semipro teams during July. Call Alexandria 510 between 5:30 and 7 p. m.

Harry Knight, 49, in Fine Form, Heads D. C. Paddlers in Trials

By John R. Vosburgh.

Harry Knight, 49 years old and as frisky as a delegate to a political convention, steamed into port at the Washington Canoe Club yesterday as if he were piloting the Queen Mary instead of a one-map canoe.

Obviously, Washington's chief hope in the next Olympics was in fine fettle and it turned out that he was completing his last workout, prior to the final Olympic trials tomorrow and Sunday in Philadelphia.

Somebody would have had to tell you that Harry was much over 30 as he swiftly docked his craft and sprang out on the float as spry as a spring chicken. If "Old Man" Knight, as some of the boys call him, is aware that he will be America's oldest athlete at Berlin, he doesn't show it. On the contrary, he exhibits all the exuberancy of a schoolboy.

Tomorrow he leads a contingent of ten Washington Canoe Club paddlers in the final trials. Yesterday he was in high spirits about it. This is the first time since 1924 that the United States has sent a canoe team to the Olympics. Harry was a member of that All-Washington Canoe Club group.

One of the four, Bud Havens, died last year on the operating table having his tonsils out. J. F. Larcomb has disappeared, and Carl Knight, Harry's brother, has had to give up the sport. This quartet won all the two-blade races at Paris. Canada won all the single-blade events.

A lot has happened in the canoe racing world since 1924, and Germany now looms as America's big threat for international supremacy. Seventeen countries will be paddling for the canoeing championship. The United States will send a team of 12 men.

Of course, Harry hasn't made the team yet, but he's about a 20-to-1 shot to do it. This, despite the absence of his partner, Everett Rodman, who holds, with Knight, the national tandem single-blade championship. Young, bespectacled Johnny Long has subbed for Rodman and he and Harry just about swept the river recently in the Middle States Divisional trials.

Harry is about twice the age of most of the other members of the Washington team. Young Long is 26, George Shorb is 25, Ebby Trilling is 23. Long and Shorb are serious contenders for the tandem single-blade berth over the 10,000-meter route, Knight and Long specializing on the tandem double-blade both over the 10,000 and 1,000 meters. A field of 14 clubs will compete at Philadelphia.

Mungo Equals Record; Fans 7 in Row

By the Associated Press.

Brooklyn, June 25.—The Cincinnati Reds let Van Lingle Mungo equal a major league strikeout record at their expense in the early innings of the first game of today's double-header, and then went on to sweep both end of the twin bill, 5 to 4 and 5 to 1.

Mungo posted the record-equaling mark by striking out seven men in a row, beginning after one was out in the second and continuing until Gilly Campbell popped up with out out in the fourth.

Love Lost Outruns Paddock Tip to Win Charles Town Feature

Daily Double Pays Only $26.40

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Charles Town, W. Va., June 25.—Love Lost, a filly which raced with success in Cuba last winter, dug her hoofs into a heavy track here this afternoon and galloped off with the Denman Thompson Purse, the feature race of the afternoon here beside the Blue Ridge Mountains. By a margin of two lengths, the daughter of Blue Lerner swept on to the wire ahead of Little Brook, a paddock tip. Third money went to Toast Master.

Red Label, the favorite, finished nowhere in particular and Clear Knight, well played, did even worse. He was left at the post, but through no fault of Jockey J. Feltner. When the break came, Bright Girl was coming out of the gate and she cut over in front of Clear Knight.

The sun returned to the hill country today and a crowd of 4,000 to enjoy or not enjoy a day at the races, the difference being the contents of the pocketbooks as sundown approached.

The daily double hit something of a new low with a pay off of $26.40 resulting from the victories of Traplou and Small Change. The latter was used as a key horse by money in the double, the customers taking every horse in the second race with the favored Small Change.

Johnny Shanks gave Love Lost a "million dollar" ride. He awaited his chance to take the filly through on the rail at the far turn and took command never to be headed. Little Brook which held the pace to that point hung on to save the place money from an up-and-coming Toast Master.

Boston, June 25 (AP).—The Massachusetts Racing Commission banned photographic finishes at Suffolk Downs Race Track today. Hereafter, the commission ruled, placing judges will decide on the order of the finish of races.

Recently what appeared to be three dead heats were run at the East Boston track and in each instance the horse nearer the camera was pronounced the winner.

General Manager Allan Wilson of the track, in a statement said the camera used to photograph finishes would be retained for experimental purposes and would not be used until such time as improvements might enable it to again be recognized officially by the race commission.

Chart of Charles Town Races

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—About four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:50½. Winner, E. K. Nicodemus' ch. g. (2), by Dunlin—Lucie Dunbar. Trained by H. Erickson. Value to winner, $220; second, $50; third, $10; fourth, $10. Time, 0:55.

NIGHT GLASS	(Tryon)	119	7	2	8	8	8	33.60

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LEW DUNLIN, $31.40, $11.00, $5.20; JUSTA GAL, $6.40, $4.20; MISS WRACK, $3.00.

LEW DUNLIN rushed into contention at once, drew out to take command leaving the backstretch, carried JUSTA GAL wide through the stretch and just lasted. JUSTA GAL, off alertly, ran along the rail in the heaviest going to the far turn, was taken up and swung to the outside and fought it out willingly, though bothered by the winner through the stretch. MISS WRACK dropped out of it after the break and gained slowly thereafter. TULEYRIES RUBY bolted through at the break and came from far back in the closing stages. IN CROSS had early speed as did ISLE O'JOY.

SECOND RACE—About four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:18½. Off at 3:19. Winner, S. B. Webb's br. g. (5), by Track—Lady Louise. Trained by S. B. Webb. Value to winner, $220; second, $50; third, $20; fourth, $10. Time, 0:54 2-5.

IRISH BUD	(Pikor)	105	7	8	8	8	8	19.20

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRAPLOU, $11.80, $4.60, $3.40; PARADE ON, $4.20, $3.00; LAURA V., $3.60.

TRAPLOU, outrun on the backstretch, saved much ground entering the stretch to take command, was brought out into the better going and barely lasted. PARADE ON, forwardly placed from the start, swung wide at the final bend and was wearing down the winner at the end. LAURA V., off in the first flight, went out at the stretch turn and was tiring at the end. PEGGY CAN closed a gap from a slow beginning. DINAH'S FINISH showed high speed while setting the pace, but began running out at the far turn.

THIRD RACE—About five furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:46. Winner, B. Bond's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SMALL CHANGE, $4.20, $3.20, $2.80; THE BARD, $15.20, $10.20; MISS PATCHES, $6.00.

SMALL CHANGE, shuffled back at the break, could not find racing room at the far turn, came through to take command entering the stretch and held THE BARD safe in the final drive. THE BARD, rushed into contention leaving the backstretch, was placed over the latter alone, but could not overtake the winner. MISS PATCHES dropped back after pressing the early pace of GEE SHARP and then came willingly in the final drive. GEE SHARP faltered after showing early speed. DRESS LIGHTLY seemed some afound in the late stages. VALEEN saved much ground entering the stretch, but could not take advantage of Pikor's move.

DAILY DOUBLE PAID $26.40.

FOURTH RACE—Charles Town course. Purse, $400; claiming. The Denman Thompson. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:15. Off at 4:15½. Winner, A. C. Vzquierdo's ch. f. (3), by Bud Lerner—Decree. Trained by A. C. Vzquierdo. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:23 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOVE LOST, $12.00, $7.40, $5.20; LITTLE BROOK, $14.00, $8.00; TOASTMASTER, $4.60.

LOVE LOST, well ridden, worked her way up on the inside along the backstretch, took command with a bold rush entering the stretch and held away over LITTLE BROOK thereafter. The latter was rushed to the front going to the first turn and continued gamely when displayed. TOASTMASTER was in fifth quarters to the backstretch, rushed into contention, but could not better position thereafter. RED LABEL had speed in spots. BONNIE DHU was in trouble at the first turn, rallied entering the stretch, but hung. CLEAR KNIGHT was blocked by BRIGHT GIRL coming out of the gates and was left.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:43½. Off at 4:45½. Winner, E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROWN HAT, $8.40, $3.80, $2.60; ALL SORTS, $4.00, $2.60; FOOLS FOLLY, $2.40.

BROWN HAT went to the front with a bold rush approaching the far turn, and then withstood a whipping finish to hold ALL SORTS safe. The latter, forced to race on the outside all the way, closed gamely and was wearing down the winner. FOOLS FOLLY saved ground at the turns and closed willingly, but could not threaten. BUSY SALLY tired after going forwardly. MERSAN was through after setting the pace for a quarter.

SIXTH RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:15. Winner, Mrs. R. Campbell's ch. g. (5), by John P. Grier—Priscilla. Trained by R. A. Campbell. Value to winner, $220; second, $50; third, $20; fourth, $10. Time, 1:32.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JACK LOW, $7.20, $4.40, $3.20; HUPPY, $8.40, $3.60; DONEE, $2.80.

JACK LOW sprinted to the front going to the first turn, was rated along while saving ground and came again after being headed by HUPPY in midstretch. The latter was keen on the outside all the way, gained slowly entering the stretch to get to the front, but faltered in the final sixteenth. DONEE was hard used to reach contention and tired in the final furlong. HAYMULUS went evenly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400; claiming. The Strasburg. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won handily; place same. Went to post at 5:42. Off at 5:46. Winner, Mrs. J. T. Manuel's br. h. (6), by Flying Ebony—Jane Frances. Trained by C. Wade. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:49 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COAT TAILS, $10.40, $5.20, $4.20; KESWICK, $4.60, $3.20; SIEMPRE, $7.60.

COAT TAILS, steadied along while in tight quarters for a half, took command midway of the backstretch, drew far out and was eased up through the stretch. KESWICK, shuffled to last in the opening quarter, began improving his position on the outside at the far turn, circled horses to reach contention and closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. REDIVIUS gained steadily after a half and showed a good effort after starting outside of the gates. MONEDLY had speed in spots. VENNIE H. and PLAIN ACE were used up battling for the pace.

Out Fishin' . . . . .

Looking back over our record of catches made during June, 1935, we find many astouding facts which we believe may be of interest to local and suburban anglers: Primary cause for the present backward season for all fishing—lack of hot weather. Second cause seems to be the continued northerly winds, always unfavorable for good fishing.

How long this condition will continue is difficult to forecast, but it is certain, with July 4 only a few days away, we should have a better chance to dip our hand into the surface of the water 18 miles off shore and smile at its warmth, which at the moment is cold enough to make one regret his attempt to dive into it.

Crabs, too, are fewer, and much higher in price than a year ago, although the cold winter is partly responsible for this condition, and here is the answer again to our fishing slump—cold water.

One year ago the bluefish were cavorting on the Middle Grounds and continued to provide anglers with good catches, both trolling and chumming. Today they are refusing the choicest baits, becoming active only when the sun brings them to the surface for a lark and exercise, and at this time does the angler have his chance to record a few for his icebox? Not unless the alewives are within the area and in sufficient numbers to hold the bluefish until such time as chumming can continue to hold them.

Looking a little further we find the rockfish were biting (big ones) on soft shell crabs off Tall Timbers on June 26. None to our knowledge have been taken to date by methods other than trolling. Soft crabs avoid the rock piles during cold running tides, so ????

At the present time croakers and trout are doing their best to pinch-hit for the rock and bluefish, and as a matter of fact they are doing quite well, considering the nasty weather they have to bite on.

Smashing the record for the biggest cabio (black bonito) caught with rod and reel seems to be about the best thing Virginia fishermen do. After the high figure had been standing at 84 pounds for 15 years, it is bettered at least three times in 30 days. First an 85-pounder was caught, then one that is said to have weighed 87 pounds, and now comes one that tipped the scales at 88 pounds 7¾ ounces. Joseph W. Gayhart, of Staunton, who caught the cabio, sends the names of five men who saw the catch made, and the weight of the cabio was certified with affidavit and the papers have been filed with one of the national sporting magazines.

The fish was landed in the lower Chesapeake off Cape Charles on a steel rod with, presumably, a 21-thread cuttyhunk line, the information regarding the line merely listing it as No. 63, which is understood to mean 63 pounds dry test, and this would be a 21 thread.

This catch was checked by our esteemed angler, James Taylor Robertson, of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and is authentic. However, we know of one black bonito that was hooked by Fulton Lewis, editor of Angler and Hunter, last August off Buckrow Beach, Va., that exceeded this record catch. Unfortunately his line parted and it was landed by a commercial net fisherman the following day and viewed by this writer with hook and several feet of Mr. Lewis' line still fastened to its upper jaw. We later presented Mr. Lewis with the remnants of his battle.

Black bonito are apparently larger this year than ever before, a claim further substantiated by the large ones which have been netted near Point Lookout, Md.

The best waters to find them in are off Westland, Va.; Yorkspit Light, mouth of the Rappahannock River and Quinby, Va. Occasionally they are caught on the Middle Grounds, usually Southwest Middles, chumming. Our predictions for the best fishing are indicated on the tide table below.

Avoid fishing on flood tide, take along your music box and enjoy yourself on this tide. The fish relax, too, although they never sleep—just rest, with both eyes always open. They do not possess eyelids, like us humans, but are able to see in all directions. They cannot hear, but sound vibrations are carried to their nervous system. They can smell your bait when the tide is moving. Fish on such a tide. Remember.

Haas, Leslie Top College Golf Title Field

By the United Press.

Glenview, Ill., June 25.—Two lean, drawling youngsters from Louisana State University—Freddie Haas, jr., and Paul Leslie—led America's finest foursome of college golfers into the semifinal round of the National Intercollegiate championships today with convincing victories over two sharpshooting opponents.

Haas whipped Billy Barclay, of Michigan, 3 and 2, and Leslie, No. 2 man of L. S. U.'s team, defeated Verne Stewart, Stanford, 4 and 3.

Two other semifinals were Chuck Kocsis, Michigan's nerveless big ten champion, and William Turnesa, a painstaking workman from Holy Cross.

Kocsis, low amateur in the National open at Baltusrol, slipped into the group of four survivors with a harowing 38-hole victory over the surprising John O. Levinson, of Yale. Levinson, who defeated his captain, Herb Eshelman, in the second round, clung to Kocsis' heels with an unbelievable stroke of luck aiding his sound game.

11 Break Par; Cox Leads British Open

Faulkner, Richard Burton, Tom Collinge and Amateur Alex Walker, all of England, and Jean Saubaber, of Bordeaux, France.

Turner, whose showing has been far better than expected, was bracketed at 75 with a host of others, including A. D. Locke, and an amateur, John Woolam, of England.

Hector Thomson, young Scotsman, who won the British amateur title several weeks ago, had a 76 with Alfred Perry, the defending champion, whom no one rates even an outside chance of repeating.

Mancuso's Homer Wins for Giants

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—Gus Mancuso hit a home run with two mates on base in the last half of the ninth inning today to turn almost certain defeat into a 5-to-4 victory for the Giants over the Pirates, and boosting the New Yorkers into the National League third place.

Up to that point, Bill Swift seemed to have the win in his hip pocket.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 25.—Lee who was given a dinner at the Fort Cumberland Hotel last night by the executive committee of the Allegany Field Trial Club, announced that a portion of Allegany County's allotment of bob white quail will be shipped here before September and kept in pens throughout the winter before being released in the spring. The proposal of Andrew Burrell, past president of the Cresaptown Square Circle unit to create a 1,000 acre game refuge on Dans Mountain met with the approval of the State game warden.

Bank Reserves $414,000,000 Higher in Week

$57,000,000 More Gold Brings U. S. Stock to 10.6 Billions.

By the Associated Press.

The weekly Federal Reserve Bank condition statement showed last night that member banks reserve balances increased $414,000,000 during the week ended June 24, bringing the total to $5,308,000,000. This was approximately $2,440,000,000 in excess of legal requirements.

Treasury cash and deposits with Reserve institutions was decreased by $451,000,000 during the week. Money in circulation increased $125,000,000 during the week, bringing the total to $6,173,000,000.

The inflow of French gold continued, an addition of $57,000,000 bringing American stocks to a total of $10,600,000,000.

Condition Statement.

The condition statement said:

"The daily average volume of Federal reserve bank credit outstanding during the week ended June 24, as reported by the Federal reserve banks was $2,478,000,000, a decrease of $7,000,000 compared with the preceding week and an increase of $1,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1935.

"On June 24 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,472,000,000, a decrease of $8,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with decreases of $451,000,000 in Treasury cash and deposits with Federal reserve banks and $30,000,000 in nonmember deposits and other Federal reserve accounts, and increases of $57,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $10,000,000 in Treasury and National bank currency, offset in part by increases of $414,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $125,000,000 in money in circulation. Member bank reserve balances on June 24 were estimated to be approximately $2,440,000,000 in excess of legal requirements."

Brokers' Loans Drop $54,000,000 in Week

Loans on securities to brokers and dealers, held by weekly reporting member banks in New York City, were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board to have totaled $1,030,000,000 for the week ending yesterday, a decrease of $54,000,000 for the week.

Loans for the corresponding week a year ago totaled $904,000,000.

Stock Seat $115,000, Advance of $5,000

New York, June 25 (AP).—Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership for $115,000, an increase of $5,000 from the previous sale.

The highest price for a seat this year, $174,000, was paid February 19, and the lowest price, $100,000, was paid May 4.

The Market

By Carlton A. Shively, A Special Correspondent.

Steel Shares Decline, Motors and Oils Gain in More Active Trading; Bonds Lower.

New York, June 25.—Motor and oil shares struggled to advance, but the weakness of steel company stocks held them in check. Prices at the close were irregularly lower on a turnover of around 1,300,000 shares, the largest since May 14. September wheat closed an eighth of a cent lower at 96⅛ cents a bushel. Treasury bonds continued heavy.

News from the Garden at Philadelphia, where fights are held by day and cabaret performances by night, had no perceptible effect on stock prices, although the betting odds were reduced to six to five. The more radical the Democratic platform turns out to be and the dizzier becomes the performance, the better some people will like it, as presaging a defeat for the New Deal in the autumn. On the other hand, a Democratic victory on such a course probably would let the country in for a period of greater frightfulness.

Opening prices in stocks proved to be the best of the day, and the first hour's activity also was greater than that during the remainder of the trading. The steel stocks were sold from the start, and their bad opening took away the good taste that was left by the sharp gains in motor and certain other issues. Finally the persistent weakness in steels put a damper on the whole business and prevented a further rise even in the motors.

Chrysler again was the star performer. It opened with 4,000 shares at 110½, a rise of 1¾ points. General Motors was lifted half a point with a block of 3,000 shares. Consolidated Oil made further response to its dividend and most of the oil group hardened, running the motors for popularity. Jersey climbed above 60. Two more oil companies announced favorable dividend action.

Railroad shares worked irregularly lower. Santa Fe lost a point. Central and Great Northern gave up fractions. Pennsylvania stiffened and Norfolk & Western sold at its best price in five years on a climb of 5 points. Metal stocks were lower. Motor accessories, with the exception of Motor Products, did not rally behind the banner of the motor makers. Lower prices were general in the merchants, mail orders, chemicals and utilities.

A miscellaneous group of stocks moved out of the rut, in addition to Chrysler, Safety Razor and Standard of New Jersey. Lehman recrossed 100 on a rise of more than a point. The various classes of International Railways of Central America, Colonial Beacon, Louisiana Oil preferred and Atlantic Gulf & West Indies were features of the odd-lot post. Youngstown Steel preferred reached the best price on record in advancing 4 points. Dividends on the issue are in arrears.

Penalty Taxes.

Some time will be required for the development of policy on meeting the new tax on undistributed corporate earnings. No two corporations will find themselves in exactly the same position. Diversity of stockholding interests, amount of cash reserves, need for plant improvement and expansion, amount of funded debt, past dividend policy, and the like will be factors in the equation to determine whether the answer will be higher dividends.

On a broad front the tendency of a penalty on earnings not paid to stockholders will be to increase the dividend rates. That is, no doubt, the intent of the new tax law, for it scarcely is a budget-balancing measure. The Treasury wants stockholders to milk dry the corporations, so that it can the more readily tax the dividend recipients with high rates on normal and surtax income. If such a policy impoverishes corporations and leaves them unprotected in time of adversity that apparently gives the Government no cause for worry. It wouldn't collect much tax from bankrupt concerns but it might further the New Deal plan for centralized control of all industry.

May Spend More.

Railroads had a somewhat similar problem under the old recapture provision of the transportation act of 1920. They were obliged to pay into a revolving fund half their earnings in excess of 6 per cent on their property valuation. The result was that the more prosperous roads, naturally subject to an assessment, made a remarkable performance in maintenance of way, repairs, painting, papering and interior and exterior decoration. The hint won't be lost, and before investors or speculators take too much for granted with such railroads as Norfolk & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio and Santa Fe, they might well consider the case for higher road and equipment expenditures of a nature that could be charged to operations.

In the same way many industrial companies may find it advisable to repair, improve and adopt numerous advices involving the expenditure of money that in recent years have been regarded coldy because of the constant pressure on management to reduce costs and show higher net earnings. The tax situation is a mess and nobody knows what the net result will be for Government receipts for corporation earnings or for individual income.

Volume.

First hour turnover in stocks was at a rate that lessens interest in ways and means to increase business. The commission charge always falls within the line of fire at such times. The first hour's sales of 420,000 were the largest since April 30. Blocks ranging from 1,000 to 3,000 shares were numerous. The motor group was the most active. Chrysler sales reached 20,000. General Motors turned in 15,000. Unfortunately the pace was too fast to hold.

French Gold.

In a further reduction of the Bank of France's discount rate, from 5 per cent to 4 per cent, the French Government, now in control of the bank's policy, gave another demonstration of its indifference to the maintenance of the franc on gold rather than of its confidence in the situation. Recently the gold exports have dwindled and for the past few days the franc has been quoted above the gold point, following the minister of finance's disavowal of intention to cut the currency's value. Almost every one thinks nevertheless that devaluation will be impossible to avoid, in view of the new government's program of larger spending and inflation. The franc can't ride at the same time two horses moving in opposite directions. This week's statement of the Bank of France revealed a gold loss of only $40,000,000, but the significant point is that no gold has been recovered, or is likely to be in advance of devaluation. Francs today again were weak against sterling and dollars.

Bank Clearings Drop in Week, Gain for Year

Total for 22 Leading Cities Is 11.5% Above Year Ago.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 25.—Bank clearings in the United States for the week ended Wednesday, June 24, showed a falling off from the total for the week preceding, but continued higher than last year's aggregate. The amount for 22 leading cities, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $5,572,681,000, against $4,997,943,000 for the same week last year, an increase of 11.5 per cent. This contrasted with a gain of 9.2 per cent in the week previous.

At New York City the total of $3,545,158,000 was 7.4 per cent in excess of the 1935 comparative, while the amount for the current period at outside centers was $2,027,523,000. This was 19.6 per cent over the amount for the similar period of 1935.

The total for the last week dropped $867,050,000 below the figure of the week preceding. For the two corresponding periods last year a loss of $901,559,000 was reported.

Dividend Resumed By Container Corp.

New York, June 25 (AP).—Container Corporation of America, one of the largest producers of shipping containers in the country, today resumed common dividends with the declaration of a 25 cent quarterly disbursement, payable August 15 to stock of record July 25.

The last previous dividend were 30 cents quarterly, paid Jan. 1, 1931, on the class "A" common, and 15 cents quarterly, paid April 1, 1929, on the class "B" common, then outstanding.

Barnsdall Raises Rate.

New York, June 25 (AP).—A boost in the quarterly dividend rate to 20 cents from 15 cents previously paid was ordered today by directors of Barnsdall Oil Co. The dividend is payable August 1 to stockholders of record July 10.

Link Belt Extra.

Chicago, June 25 (AP).—Directors of the Link Belt Co. declared today an extra dividend of 15 cents in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock, both payable September 1 to stock of record August 15.

The company also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ a share on preferred stock, payable October 1 to stock of record September 15.

Engineering Awards.

New York, June 25 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the week ended June 23 totaled $47,365,000 against $31,825,000 in the like 1935 week, the Engineering News-Record reported today.

Dried Fruits Steady.

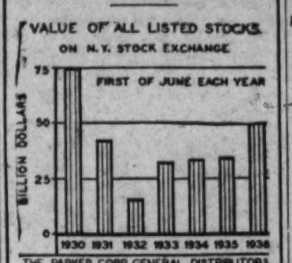
Stock Values Gain 15.5 Billion in Year



Boston, Mass., June 25.—Fifteen and a half billion dollars represents the past year's increase in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. On June 1 the total value of all stocks on the big board was $50,000,000,000, more than three times the low in 1932, but only 56 per cent of the high in September, 1929.

Cotton Is Higher On Trade Buying

New York, June 25 (AP).—A further decline in cotton at the opening today was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. October sold up from 11.42 to 11.59 and closed at 11.58, with the general market ending steady at net advances of 9 to 10 points.

Futures Price Range.

	High	Low	Last
July	12.17	11.96	12.17
October	11.59	11.42	11.59
December	11.56	11.41	11.56
January	11.56	11.41	11.56
March	11.57	11.41	11.57
May	11.62	11.44	11.61

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today. After advancing 3 to 6 points early on a renewal of covering and commission house buying, promoted by the firmness of cotton, the market reacted under liquidation. Final prices were 1 point higher to 2 points lower. Sales, 72 contracts. Bleachable, spot nominal; July, closed 9.21; September, 9.15; October, 9.02; December, 8.91; January, 8.90.

Eastman Kodak to Pay Wage Dividend of 1%

New York, June 25 (AP).—Eastman Kodak Co., on July 1, will pay a wage dividend of 1 per cent compared with ½ of 1 per cent last year.

The payment will amount to $1,136,297.

Dollar Acceptances.

New York, June 25 (AP).—In its final report prior to liquidation, the American Acceptance Council states that bankers' dollar acceptances outstanding on May 30 totaled $330,531,460 against $343,694,299 on April 30 and $374,755,247 on May 31, 1935.

France Reduces Rate Second Time in Week

Discount Cut From 5 to 4 Per Cent to Loosen Credit Facilities.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, June 25.—The Bank of France reduced its discount rate again today for the second time in a week. The rate was cut to 4 per cent from 5 per cent.

The 5 per cent rate was reached Tuesday when the bank's board of regents, at an extraordinary session, lowered the figure from the 6 per cent to which it previously had been raised to halt the wholesale withdrawals of the gold reserve.

Both cuts were understood to be in line with the policy of Premier Leon Blum's government to loosen credit facilities and put more currency into circulation through productive enterprises.

A further drain of 610,000,000 francs ($40,463,740) in gold in the thirteenth consecutive week of losses was reported by the Bank of France today for the week ended June 19.

The bank's statement disclosed also it had supplied the treasury with 13,833,000 francs ($917,598) through the discount of bonds, or more than half the total discounts of 21,157,000 francs ($1,403,428).

New York, June 25 (AP).—Wall street bankers studying the reduction of the French bank rate to 4 per cent from 5 per cent, saw the new "Leftist" government temporarily strengthening the country's grip on its gold standard status.

The most widely held view was that the new French government is rushing its program to stimulate economic recovery through cheap money and large scale spending. It was pointed out that the move accorded with the finance minister's policy presented to the Chamber of Deputies last week.

Gen. Theaters Equipment.

New York, June 25 (AP).—Arthur W. Loasby, chairman of the reorganization commitee of General Theaters Equipment, announced today that the reorganization has been consummated and that securities distributable under the plan will be ready for delivery on June 29.

Young Gardeners Awarded Prizes

Ten outstanding members of the Boys Garden Club, maintained by the Civitan Club on Benning Road in northeast Washington, were awarded prizes yesterday in recognition of outstanding service during the past year.

They were Billie America, Maurice Breckenridge, Ralph Breckenridge, Leo Britt, Earl Canter, Robert Hitte, Paul Lowry, Thomas Stansbury, Joseph Sullivan and John Trusheim.

Final award of the season will be made late in August, when the ten outstanding boys of the club will be given a trip, expenses paid, to Camp Letts, Y. M. C. A. vacation center on Rhodes River.

G. O. P. Rally Tonight.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Waynesboro, Pa., June 25.—John B. Dielf, of Marion, former chairman of the Republican party in Franklin County, will be the speaker tomorrow evening at a meeting of the Washington Township Republican Club, to be held in the Union Schoolhouse at Zullinger, west of here. Others, who will be called upon to give short talks, and Benjamin H. Heefner, candidate for the State Legislature and Charles W. High, prominent Quincy township Republican.

JUNIOR SALES EXECUTIVE

We have a position for a man between the ages of 24 and 35. We would prefer a college graduate, although this is not absolutely essential, who has been in the business world for about three years and who as yet has not found exactly the work he wants. In any event he must be aggressive and willing to take responsibility. He could be a natural-born boss and understand that being boss does not consist of being "bossy." This is not selling, but handling people who do sell. It is with one of the oldest and most reliable of local Washington firms. This is not door-to-door selling. The position carries a good starting salary. Advancement is assured, both in position and earnings, to the man who makes good.

Have your reply typewritten, stating age, education and a very comprehensive and detailed account of your experience and the nature of the work you would like to follow in life. Include any other information which you feel would be of value to us. If your qualifications warrant, an interview will be granted within the next few days. Box 83, Washington Post.

Kiwanis Votes Drive Against Communism

A. C. Callen, New President, Lists Aims for Year, Adjourns Rally.

Kiwanis International declared war on communism at its sessions yesterday and prepared to enlist thousands of new members to battle "propaganda being advanced at this time in behalf of foreign ideas and communistic and dictatorial government."

A resolution adopted, calling for its membership of 90,000:

". . . to combat the vicious propoganda that is being advanced throughout the land at this time in behalf of foreign ideas and communistic and dictatorial government;" to co-operate with agencies seeking to improve housing conditions and to take the initiative in the adoption of the approved measures for bettering traffic and safety conditions.

Callen Pledges Service.

The new president of Kiwanis International, A. Copeland Callen, of Urbana, Ill., pledged the service club to continuance of its underprivilged child work, aggressive citizenship, urban-rural relations vocational guidance, and boys and girls work.

Callen, who was elected for a one-year term Wednesday, took over the gavel in time to bang adjournment yesterday noon of the twentieth annual convention which brought 5,000 Kiwanians and their families from all parts of the United States and Canada to the Capital for four days.

The new international president also named four special objectives for the coming year: The securing of adequate educational facilities, economy and efficiency in government, new leisure activities, and support of churches in their spiritual aims.

At the closing session in Constitution Hall the election of six new members to the board of trustees was announced. They are Fred G. McAllister, of London, Ontario; Sam Clabaugh, of Birmingham, Ala.; Alfred H. Syverson, of Spokane, Wash.; Harry D. MacDonald, of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Bennett C. Knudson, of Albert Lea, Minn., and James P. Gallagher, of Newton, Mass.

Will Durant Speaks.

Will Durant, author and lecturer, was the last speaker on the convention program.

Warning his listeners that the American people are deteriorating through "breeding from the bottom and dying at the top," he urged them to try to work out a remedy for the problem which is now frustrating recovery, democracy, education and morals."

"The low birth rate of the able and replenishment of our population through the high birth rate of mediocrity is flooding our cities with new millions of arms and legs at the very time when invention has made muscle superabundant in industry and has put a premium upon brains," said Durant.

He gave the audience some measure of hope by declaring that willingness to look a problem in the face is half its solution.

"Our stock is vital," he said. "Our democracy has preserved our liberties and yet is functioning as successfully as any dictatorship; and our economic system, even in its confusion, feeds and clothes and shelters our people immeasurably to us in the present or the past." better than any other system known Californians Honored.

Trophies were presented by Edwin F. Hill, of Washington, chairman of the convention attendance contest, to four California clubs, those in Los Angeles, San Jose, Mountain View and Tujunga, for rolling up the greatest mileage to reach the convention.

Kiwanis clubs in Amarillo, Tex., Joliet, Ill., Fairbury, Nebr., and San Gabriel, Calif., received awards for carrying out the best community programs within the last year.

Awards were also presented to clubs in Jersey City, N. J., Huntington Park, Calif., Eustis, Fla., and San Gabriel, Calif., for maintaining the highest attendance average throughout the year.

Two Capital Boys Honored by School

Two Washington boys carried off major academic honors at the Manlius School, Manlius, N. Y., in the year just ended. Cadet John M. Brooks, son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. John B. Brooks, of Stoneleigh Court, Connecticut avenue, made the highest scholastic record among freshmen and sophomores. Cadet Robert N. Lowry, son of Mrs. Grace Lowry, of 3317 R street northwest, won honors in English.

Cadet James L. Denig, son of Col. and Mrs. Robert L. Denig, of Portsmouth, N. H., recently of the Marine Barracks, at Quantico, Va., won honors in both mathematics and history.

Young Brooks' father, an alumnus of the school, was created a commander in the Order of the Phoenix, Manlius' honorary society, for his activities among the alumni. He and Col. Denig, also a Manlius graduate, attended the school's commencement.

121 Graduate Tonight From Secretaries School

An informal luncheon was held yesterday at the Willard Hotel for 121 members of the graduating class of the Washington School for Secretaries, and tonight the students will be awarded certificates at commencement exercises in the auditorium of the National Press Club Building, Fourteenth and F streets northwest.

Principal speaker at tonight's exercises will be Mrs. Henry G. Doyle, president of the District Board of Education. Dr. Richard T. Ely, president of the school, will award the certificates.

Street Will Go Abroad.

Elwood Street, director of public welfare, will sail Saturday for London to attend two social welfare conferences and to make a European tour. The conferences are the School of British Social Work at King's College and the International Conference on Social Work.

Child Sips Poison For 'Tea'; Expires

Evansville, Ind., June 25 (AP).—Five little children, all of one family, last week decided to play "tea party." They obtained some cups, but had only water for the make-believe tea.

One found a bottle filled with a greenish substance to which they added water to make "green tea."

All became sick and one of them died in a hospital here today. The other four are critically ill, and physicians despaired of their lives. It was poison the children used to color the water, the doctors said.

The child who died was 7-year-old Norma Maxine Sepro, whose father, Emmett Sepro, is a coal miner at Yankeetown.

They were treated at home for several days, Sepro said, but were finally brought to a hospital here when their condition became critical.

Appalachian Trail Club Will Hike on Sunday

The President's camp on the Rapidan River will be the scene of the start of the hike of the Potomac Appalachian Trail Club next Sunday. A trail will be followed leading to the top of Fork Mountain, where there is a fire lookout tower, affording a view over the surrounding country.

From the fire tower the trail leads over Cat Knob and Hazel Top to the Appalachian Trail on the crest of the Blue Ridge. The distance is about 8 miles, and half of it consists of climbing. Longer walks to Lewis Spring and Lewis Spring Falls are planned for hardier hikers.

All planning to take the trip are asked to bring their lunch and a canteen filled with water. The bus will leave from Treasury place promptly at 7 a. m. W. Clark Dean, 15 West Irving Street, Chevy Chase, Md., is leading the hike. Additional details may be secured from him.

Hazards Removal Asked.

A list of locations throughout the city where heavy tree foliage is obstructing a clear view of traffic signal lights and stop signs has been furnished Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer by the Keystone Automobile Club, it was announced yesterday.

George E. Keneipp, manager of the club, told Van Duzer an investigation showed that numerous accidents have been caused by motorists' inability to see signals because of foliage obstructions.

"A little judicious pruning of trees near stop signs and traffic lights will aid the cause of street safety throughout the summer," Keneipp said. "We urge motorists to send locations of this hazard to the Keystone Club."

Spy Is Sentenced.

Berlin, June 25 (AP).—The Peoples Court today sentenced Erich Sehcek, 39, a Czech, to life imprisonment after conviction on a charge of "continual espionage on Saxony garrisons and airdomes on behalf of a foreign power."
